

1967 Preface: p. xvi; "The bk's most striking feature is that, contrary to the subjective intentions of its author, objectively it falls in with a tendency in the hist. of Marxism that has taken many different forms. All of them have one thing in common...they strike at the very roots of Marxian ONTOLOGY (??rd) I refer to the tendency to view Marxism exclusively as a theory of society, as social philosophy, & hence to ignore or repudiate it as a theory of nature... xvii; (but) it is demonstrable tht it is the materialist view of nature that brings about the really radical separation of the bourgeois and socialist outlooks. (??rd) The failure to grasp this basic philosophical debate... e.g. prevents the clear elaboration of the Marxist concept of praxis. (??rd) ...Capitalist exploitation thus loses its obj/rev. aspect & there is a failure to grasp the fact that, in. of SV: "Thus the higher dev. of individuality is only purchased by a historical process in which individuals are sacrificed."

xviii: "This has a narrowing & distorting effect on the bk's central concept of PRAXIS."

BEGIN
The revival of Hegel's dialectics STRUCK A HARD BLOW AT THE REVISIONIST TRADITION. Already Bernstein had wished to eliminate everything reminiscent of H's dialectics in the name of 'science'.

RETURN TO REV. TRADITIONS OF MARXISM THE REVIVAL OF HEGELIAN TRADITIONS WAS OBLIGATORY

xxi: Class Consciousness represents what was perhaps the most radical attempt to restore the rev. nature of Marx's theory by renovating & extending H's dialectics & method."

 "whereas Plekhanov & others had vastly overestimated Feuerbach's role as an intermediary bet. H & M, this was relegated to background here."

"I EXPLICITLY ARGUED THAT MARX FOLLOWED DIRECTLY FROM HEGEL"
+ question of ALIENATION - 1st time since Marx treated as central to rev. or of cap. Following pub. of Heidegger's Being & Time (1927) & till today alienation moved into centre of phil. debate.

xxii: identity of subj-obj in Hegel arises in purely logical & phil. form WHEN the highest stage of ABS. SPIRIT is attained in phil. by abolishing alienation & by return of self-consciousness to itself."

Refer to p. 162 on Marx's...
xxvi: "I can still remember even today the overwhelming affect produced in me by Marx's statement that OBJ-ITY WAS THE PRIMARY MATERIAL ATTRIBUTE OF ALL THINGS & RELATIONS." "By contrast ALIENATION (as against objectification, rd) is special variant of that activity that becomes operative in definite social conditions."

xxvii: For it was not just the problem of genesis that occupied the forefront of my attention, but also the application of dialectics to the theory of reflection."

I. The Phenomenon of Reification

p. 92 Q Holy Family "Pvt. prop (not only the individuality of men, but also of things, the ground & the earth have nothing to do with ground rent, machines have nothing to do with profit."

II. The Antinomies of Bourgeois thought

pp. 111-12

p. 121: "Classical phil. is indebted for its wealth, its depth & its boldness no less than its fertility for future thinkers to the fact that it NARROWS THE PROBLEM DOWN, CONFINING IT WITHIN THE REALM OF PURE THOUGHT. At the same time it remains an insuperable obstacle even within the realm of thought itself. To say, classical phil. mercilessly tore to shreds all the metaphysical illusions of the past era, but was forced to be as uncritical & as dogmatically metaphysical with to some of its own premises as its predecessors had been to theirs."

CF. PP. 131-2 vs. Engels' "experiment & ind." i.e. "thing-in-itself" p. 132: "In fact, scientific experiment is contemplation at its purest."

Q of Hegel about ossified antitheses like body & soul... which became transformed as culture intelligence & nature... & abs. subj-ity & abs. obj-ity - "To transcend such ossified antithesis is the sole concern of reason... the totality of life at its most intense is only possible as a new synthesis out of the most abs. separation."

p. 142 "Hegel in his PHEN. & LOGIC was the 1st to set about the task of consciously recasting all problems of logic by grounding them in the qual. material nature of their content, in matter in the logical & phil. sense of the word. This resulted in the est. of a completely new logic of the concrete concept, the logic of totality--admittedly in a very problematic form which was not seriously continued after him." "Even more original is the fact that the subj. is NEITHER the unchanged observer of the obj. dialectic of being... NOR the practical manipulator of its purely mental possibilities..."

P. 144 H made most strenuous for this subj. "we" "World Spirit" driven INEXORABLY into mythologizing.

III. The Standpoint of the Proletariat

p. 170: "It has often been claimed--& not without a certain justification--that the famous ch. in H's Logic treating Being, Non-Being, & Becoming contains the WHOLE of his phil. It might be claimed with perhaps equal justification that ch. dealing with the FETISH character of the commodity contains within itself the WHOLE of his mat. & the whole SELF-KNOWLEDGE of the prol. sees as knowledge of cap. society."
