Women's Liberation Speaks With Many Voices

Heinz women workers win fight with boss

Homestead, Pa.—I don't know much about Women's Liberation, but somebody needs to liberate me from some of the women I work with. When I first started working at Heinz, we were working on the 11th floor and the boss told us we were going to start working on the 2nd floor to make things easier for the women. Instead it made it harder and more dangerous.

One of the problems was the pressure cooker, which we have. They have free of charge. They have live tubs and they put 700 brick chickens in a tub and put them in the pressure cooker. The women are supposed to have to push the tubs around. Hence the women become dangerous and increase property. We might say that this kind of increased women expresses the secret of this game, vulgar and embarrassing one.

Some of the young women complained and told the company they wanted them to push the tubs. The older women didn't want anyone brought in because they were afraid it would take money out of their pocket, since it is twice work and it might allow them down if they had to wait for someone to come push the tubs.

COMPLAINT FILED

One day I saw a man in a black coat and hat come in and recognized him as the head of our union. He came up to ask the girls if they had any complaints.

One of our complaints is that when the tubs come out of the pressure cooker, the water gets all over the floor and it's easy to slip and fall. We complained about this.

They told the girls to vote whether or not they wanted to file a complaint. The girls voted yes. The men voted no. We went to the boss and he told us that if nobody was there to push them for us, we were not to push our hands on them. We were just to stand and wait for a man to come and push them.

WORKERS HARASSED

We knew they were going to try to get back at us, and make us lose money on our piece work. Since almost every day we pulled chickens and filled the tubs, and the chickens left intact. That day they had many more women supposed to help us and to help another group of workers. They were supposed to have five men.

There now are generally supposed to go to lunch where they have pushed up our last job to be fixed. This day they didn't let him go to lunch. When we came back from lunch the tubs were still there, and he was still there. As soon as we came back, they sent him to lunch so we just sat down to wait.

Some of the girls asked the cooks to do it for us, but they refused because if they started once, they'd always have it to do. The other workers told us to push the tubs up. But we refused because we knew if we did once, we'd always have to do it.

We decided we would agree to lose that much money. That was just what they were waiting for. We sat for almost two hours, and when the men came back, the tubs were still waiting for them. After that, we never had any more trouble on that score. But the women still need to be liberated at Heinz.

Women won't wait until after revolution for their freedom

New York, N.Y.—Women all over this country and the world are male chauvinists. We have accepted the attitude towards women that comes from the male society because we've been taught it. We're kidding about our oppression. We don't even know about ourselves.

There is a lot of feeling on the part of women that the question of women's liberation is not important, and must take the back seat to other people's liberation. Many people, women and men, would admit that women are not important, but don't believe that women are a force for change, that women are a subject.

Some people believe that women can liberate themselves only by working for other people's liberation, in another movement, and that maybe somewhere, sometime, some men will get up and say, "What about women's liberation?" but women are half of the world's population, and if we don't think that half of the world's population—half of women has been a force for liberation throughout history, it shows how little we think of ourselves as women.

MANY VOICES
We have much too narrow a definition of what women's voices are calling for. Women's liberation is Women's liberation, not simply those who call themselves women's liberation groups. There are the voices of young, white women, and that's one of the voices of women's liberation, but that's not the only voice. This voice is new on the scene, but there are other voices that are not new at all, that very few people have spoken about.

The groups called themselves Welfare Rights Organizations, and helped out this spring in New York, where these welfare rights organizations took them out of their homes, and walked down Fifth Avenue and put their

Mark on women; excerpts from 'Private Property and Communism'

"Private property has made us so stupid and one-sided that any kind of object is ours only when we have it, i.e., when it exists for us as capital, or when we possess it directly—eat it, drink it, wear it, live in it, etc.—in short, use it..."

"The relation of private property remains the relation of the commodity to the world of things. Finally, this movement of counterposing universal private property in private property is expressed in the actual form that marriage (which, of course, is a form of exclusive private property) is counterposed to having women in common. Hence the woman becomes communal and increases property. We might say that this kind of communal women expresses the secret of this game, vulgar and embarrassing one."

"... The secret of the relationship of men to women lies in its wombishness, dullness, open, obviousness in the relationship of man to woman, and in this way, the direct, external relationship between the sexes. The direct natural necessary relationship of man to man is the relationship of man to woman.

"Private property is only the conscious expression of the fact that man at one and the same time becomes objective for himself, becomes an alien and inhuman object. . . . The positive transcendence of private property, i.e., the conscious appropriation of human actuality, the material things created by and for man is to be carried out not only in the sense of direct, one-need enjoyment, but only in the sense of possession, a sense of having. Man appropriates himself as an all-sided essence in an all-sided way: hence, as a whole man. Each of his human relations to the world—seeing, hearing, smell, taste, feeling, thought, perception, experience, willing, acting, loving—is itself all organs of his individuality. His organs, his body, his brain, his heart, his lungs, his sexual organs, are in their objective relation to their relation to the object, the appropriation of it. The appropriation of human actuality, its relation to it, is the affirmation of human actuality..." (Full essay appears in MARXISM AND FREEDOM, See ed. Note.)

Women paid less than men for harder work

Detroit, Mich.—The factory I work in makes small parts for the big auto companies. The majority of the workers are women. There is no union and conditions are terrible.

The men make much more money than the women, but the women work harder. Last Friday, the girls drove around to Koda, from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the same house that we have to live in, working overtime.

We only got about a five-cent break after working five hours. We get a half hour for lunch, and then another five minute break. In the afternoon, if you get another five minutes off, you don't allow them out of the office. They could then leave for an hour.

On the men side, there are many that the women have to work for. One man makes $1.25 an hour. The men drive around to Koda, from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the same house that we have to live in, working overtime.

We get a half hour for lunch, and then another five minute break after working five hours. We get a half hour for lunch, and then another five minute break after working five hours.
