THE MILITANT is your paper. It has no big-time back-ers like the capitalist press. It's financed through the nickels, dimes and dollars of working people who understand the priceless value of a paper that dares to tell the truth without compromise.

THE MILITANT has but one aim - to do everything it can to advance the long-range interests of the poor.

Here are some typical comments from readers grateful to find one honest paper in America:

"I certainly appreciate your stand for truth and honesty." - F. S. of Minnesota.

"I am a lover of democratic principles, freedom of speech, of the press and freedom from want and fear. I am happy to know that there is a newspaper in America that had enough backbone to make known to the public the death of a Jehovah's Witness in Greece when all other papers were practically mum on the subject." - V. L. of Allentown, Pa.

"Never before has your fighting paper of the working class been more needed. May the ranks of your subscribers continue to swell and with them the ranks of socialism." - George S. of Bayport, N. Y.

TASK TROTSKY POSED

Trotsky posed the task in the labor movement in America, and in all capitalist countries, as the struggle to free the unions from the "totalitarian regime" within them and to replace "the leaders enforcing this regime." The trade unions of our time, he said, "can trade unions "have to confront a either serve as the secondary in-

> The primary slogan for transforming the trade unions into effective bodies that will aid in the emancipation of labor from the rule of monopoly capital is: "Complete and unconditional independence of the trade unions in relation to the capitalist state. This means a struggle to turn the trade unions into organs of the broad exploited masses and not the organs of a labor aristocracv.'

> And the complement to this slogan is a second one: "Trade Union Democracy. This second slogan flows directly from the first and presupposes for its realization the complete freedom of the trade unions from the imper alist state."

These two slogans must become the battle-cry of the union militants. Around these slogans must be rallied all the progressive ranks of labor. A new leadership must be built, endowed with real social vision, free of all ties with the capitalist state, and uncompromising in struggle against the monopoly capitalist system. This task, which Trotsky pointed out so clearly and forcefully, has become unpostponable.

"Stalinism. . . is not an abstraction of 'dictatorship,' but an immense bureaucratic reaction against the proletarian dictatorship in a backward and isolated country. The October Revolution abolished privileges, waged war against social inequality, replaced the bureaucracy with self-government of the toilers, abolished secret diplomacy, strove to render all social relationships completely transparent. Stalinism reestablished the most offensive forms of privileges, imbued inequality with a provocative character, strangled self-activity under police absolutism, transformed administration into a monopoly of the Kremlin oligarchy and regenerated the fetishism of power in forms that absolute monarchy dared not dream of." - Leon Trotsky, Their Morals and Ours, 1938.

The Heritage of Leon Trotsky

In this issue we commemorate the ninth anniversary of Leon Trotsky's death at the hands of one of Stalin's hired killers. It would take several volumes to do full justice alone to the deeds of this man who worked side by side with Lenin to found the first workers' republic in history; who, as organizer of the Red Army, was principally responsible for safeguarding the existence of the USSR through the Civil War and who devoted the last 17 years of his life to an irreconcilable struggle, in the face of insuperable odds, against the Stalinist usurpers and betrayers.

Trotsky's monumental accomplishments in the realm of deeds are paralleled by his contributions in the realm of thought.

He struggled all his life under the banner of orthodox Marxism. And it is his outstanding merit that he succeeded in preserving intact the century-old arsenal of Marxist theory, the product of the titanic labors of Marx, Engels and Lenin. Trotsky greatly enriched the system of Marxism by applying its ideas and method to the realities of our epoch, the epoch of imperialist decay. His rightful place is alongside Marx, Engels and Lenin. It is characteristic of periods of re-

Stalin's "Cold War"

Moscow's blast against Yugoslavia as an "enemy and foe" has been followed by the recall of Ambassador Lavrentiev from Belgrade. The growing tension between the two countries, highlighted by Tito's recent warning to his Macedonian garrison to guard against possible provocations and invasion, has brought their "cold war" close to boiling point. The world press is openly speculating whether the Kremlin's economic, political and diplomatic blockade are preparations for military moves and maneuvers against Yugoslavia.

The hostility of the Soviet government action, such as the one in which we live. that brute force and the physical instrumentalities of oppression temporarily dominate the scene and appear to be omnipotent. The power of ideas, above all, the scientific ideas of Marxism, appears for the moment obscured. It is the season of demagogues, cynics, obscurantists and the common garden-variety philistines. It is the season of "public burials" of Trotskyism, just as Marxism itself has been pronounced "buried" each time the pendulum of history happened to oscillate to the side of reaction.

The really invincible power is the power of the most advanced and progressive ideas, the ideas of orthodox Marxism which concentrate the experiences and lessons of the past and point the only road to the socialist future.

It is this conviction that imbued Trotsky all his conscious life. It is this conviction that enabled him to fulfill his role as the true continuator of the work and ideas of Marx, Engels and Lenin. It is this conviction that he has bequeathed to his co-thinkers and disciples. It constitutes the most precious part of his heritage to the world Trotskyist movement and is a guarantee of its ultimate victory.

toward Yugoslavia throws a glaring light upon the utterly reactionary nature of Stalinism. The Kremlin and its supporters never tire of repeating that the Soviet Union and imperialism can and should coexist peacefully and collaborate in a friendly spirit. At the same time Moscow and its satellites cut off all relations with Yugoslavia, menace its government, term it a mortal foe. The logic of such words and deeds can only be war to the death against the present rulers of Yugoslavia.

How can such a course be justified? The Soviet Union is the world's second greatest power. Its security can in no way be threatened by Yugoslavia. They do not have a common frontier. Yugoslavia is a small land, just recovering from the ravages of prolonged civil and im-

The Military Mind at Work Only those who have something to hide

The joint Senate committees have been holding hearings on the new arms bill. The only ones permitted to testify have been the administration spokesmen and the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who, it goes without saying, spoke in favor.

Thereupon the hearings were declared at an end. To explain this high-handed and unparalleled procedure, Senator Connally, head of the Foreign Affairs Committee and chairman of the hearings. curtly stated that it would be "against public interest" to hear oppositional views to the bill.

The public outcry that ensued has forced a reversal of this action. Senate hearings on the arms bill are to be resumed, and opponents will be given a formal opportunity to air their views. But this is obviously a mere gesture. It does not alter in the least the significance of the original action.

It shows how far and fast this country has come under the domination of the military mind. The quintessence of the military mind is to issue orders and to have them unquestioningly carried out. Senator Connally and his colleagues have demonstrated by their action how pervasive this heel-clicking Prussian atmosphere has become in Washington. Everything that contravenes the desires and commands of the military is branded out-of-hand "against public interest."

model by the entire Stalinist world movement.

The facts show that in this case Stalin is indubitably the aggressor and oppressor, aiming to strangle Yugoslavia, rob its people of independence, and drown resistance in blood. The Kremlin wants to exterminate "Titoism" as a warning lesson to any other section of world Stalinism or satellite power that dares question its divine right or resists its monstrous tyranny.

Those who still believe that Stalinism is "socialist" and "progressive" should carefully consider Moscow's attitude toward Yugoslavia which violates the elementary principles of both democracy and socialism.

The Ford Union Vote

THE MILITANT

MONDAY, AUGUST 22, 1949

By Joseph Keller

"It's hard to recall that it was only a little more than eight years ago, in the spring of 1941, that the Ford workers rose up against decades of industrial slavery and the private army of the Ford empire to establish for the first time a union of their own choosing and collective bargaining rights.

The results of the strike vote taken by the Ford workers in Michigan on Aug. 8, 9 and 10 show how far they have come in eight short years in the development of their union consciousness and solidarity. The old Ford Co. "magic" - slick propaganda combined with intimidation - doesn't make a dent any more on the Ford workers.

Henry Ford II tried every trick in the book to induce the Ford workers to vote against empowering their union leaders to call a strike. He had the advantage of the fact that just a few months ago the Ford workers had engaged in a bitter and costly strike over speedup and might be cautious over approving another walkout so soon.

The Rouge News, company paper, poured out the propaganda urging the workers to vote against strike, claiming, of course, that "the question is not one of voting for or against the union," but simply "for steady jobs and security." From implied threats of production cutbacks and firings to scarehead warnings about the "needless hardship" of a strike, the Ford sheet ranged the gamut of anti-strike appeals.

The company invaded the workers' homes with a flood of letters and sneaked in their back doors through full page ads in the Detroit newspapers saying "it is the apparent hope of union leadership that you will vote yourself into another long strike."

VOLUME XIII Before the vote outcome was known, Business Week had appraised the meaning of the various possible results. If it was a vote against strike, campaign "must be considered a success."

But if the strike majority was between 75% and 90%, it meant that the company's campaign had no effect; and over 90%, the "anti-walkout campaign must be looked on as a boomerang." A total of 75,230 workers out of the 81,000 eligible to vote cast ballots in a state-conducted poll under the anti-labor Bonine-Tripp Law. The vote for strike was 65,001, with only 9,549 opposed — a whopping majority of 87%. This was close enough to Business Week's 90% to constitute a crushing repudiation of the company's campaign.

Maybe the company did say that if they voted against strike they weren't voting "against the union." But the Ford workers knew better. They understood clearly that a vote for strike was, in essence, a vote for the union and against the company's attempts to influence the union.

And, as Murray Kempton, columnist for the New York Post said, "A strike vote in Detroit is no hollow show. Out there when a union man authorizes a walkout, he's not just trying to strengthen his union's hand at bargaining; he's prepared to go out."

The Ford workers are a whole head taller than they were eight years ago. They can't be bamboozled by high-powered company talk. They're conscious union men to the bone - as Ford has learned to his regret.

possible results. If it was a vote against strike, it would be the biggest blow to union morale since the defeat of the Little Steel Strike of 1937. If the majority for strike was less than 75%, it would still signify that the company's American Labor Party in N.Y. Torn by New Internal Crisis

A-Bomb Fodder

By Henry Johnson

Under the guise of "military security" the people of this country are being psychologized into accepting as a foregone conclusion the use of atomic explosives on a mass scale against defenseless civilians.

The sum and substance of the 200-page sixth semi-annual report of the Atomic Energy Commission is that the U.S. now possesses a "new and improved" model of the a-bomb, at least twice as destructive as the earlier models. This "Einwetok model" is being made on a massproduction scale.

In the name of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Army General Omar Bradley, during his testimony on the new arms bill before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, brandished the a-bomb and proclaimed that "the first priority of joint defense is our ability to deliver the atomic bomb." A few days ago, Air Force General Hoyt Vandenberg told the House Armed Services Committee that Soviet targets for a-bombs have already been chosen. Asserting that the Soviet Union is the only possible country against which the U.S. would be at war, Gen. Vandenberg added that his statements had been authorized by the State Department.

The chief targets of such "strategic bombing" can be only the civilian populations of large cities, helpless men, women and children. Writing in the June 25 issue of the Saturday Evening Post, Rear Admiral D. V. Gallery criticized "the prophets of the (a-bomb) blitz" on the ground that what their plan "really boils down to in the long run is simple destruction of cities." Bigger and better a-bombs mean in the first instance vaster civilian casualties. William A. Laurence, atomic expert of the New York Times, gingerly touches this aspect commenting as follows: "If it is true, as the experts agree, that the Nagasaki-type bomb could effectively destroy the heart of any industrial city so that it would be eliminated as a factor in the nation's industrial economy, what greater harm, save for the additional destruction of human lives, could an improved model do? If the Einwetok bomb is twice as destructive, it can mean only that it is twice in industrial potential."

Do you remember the pretended indignation and outcries against "Nazi barbarism" which light. filled the columns of the capitalist press when After Mike Bartell, local orthe German General Staff launched its large-

They are the fodder for the projected "strategic" atomic strafings.

Ford workers in Michigan, like these shown lined up at a polling booth, cast an 87% majority vote for strike action to win union demands for wage boosts, pension and health insurance.

Cooperative Health Centers

- By Grace Carlson

Notes from the News

Like the weather, preventive medicine is a subject about which a lot of people talk — but few do anything. The fact that it is better - and easier - to prevent disease than to cure it is agreed upon by most doctors. But the fee system of private medicine bars the way toward any effective, widespread program of preventive medicine. To the private practitioner, who depends upon his fees for a living, sick people represent a source of profit. Sick care - not health care — is the cornerstone of private medicine.

Medical prepayment plans represent a step in advance of the fee-for-service system. But of the multitude of health insurance plans, supported by unions, cooperatives, employers or medical societies, few even make any pretense of offering a rounded program of medical care.

In these voluntary insurance plans, the question of whether the worker is a good medical risk or not usually takes precedence over the ideal of preventive medical service. Such cooperative health centers as the Farmers Union Cooperative Hospital of Elk City, Oklahoma, the Ross-Loos Clinic of Los Angeles, the Arrowhead Health Center of Duluth, Minnesota, and the Community Health Center of Two Harbors, Minnesota, have made significant advances in the direction of preventive medicine. All of these cooperative health programs have carefully-defined limitations, however.

Of all cooperative health centers in the country, the Labor Health Institute of St. Louis, Missouri, is probably unique. Set up in 1945 by the Joint Board of the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store union (at that time in the CIO, now in the AFL Teamsters) the Labor Health Institute offers a comprehensive program of free medical care to its members. Like this St. Louis union, the United Mine Workers, the New York City Painters union, the International Ladies Garment Workers union and others have won health and security clauses in their contracts which have enabled them to esinist falsely charged him with tablish health programs for their members. But the staggering problem of supplying medical care to all American workers who need it can be met only with federal funds through a federal compulsory health insurance program. Thas it why the official AFL and CIO movements, as well as the progressive Farmers Union, have endorsed the National Health Insurance and Public Health Program, successor to the Wagner-Murray-Dingell Bill.

This National Health Program has been shelved by Congress for the eighth time in ten years, but, undoubtedly, a new compulsory health insurance scheme will be introduced at the next session of Congress. Therefore, succeeding articles in this series will discuss the proposals that have been debated in the United States Congress over the past decade - both the compulsory as well as the so-called voluntary health insurance plans.
