AFTER THE WAR

When Leopold III was liberated Leopold's "incapacity to rule." by the American armies from his far from arduous "captivity" in Saint-Wolfgang, Austria, the country rose up in arms to prevent his return. The workers threatened to go out immediately on a general strike to settle the issue once and for all. At Char-Jeroj a powerful demonstration of 10,000, led by a small group of Trotskyists, took up the slogan of the Republic launched by the Belgian section of the Fourth International. The hourgeoisie, without a strong state apparatus, without sizable financial reserves, caught unawares and isolated from public opinion, hesitated to impose "its" king upon the country. A special ministerial committee -- the minutes of its deliberations have just been published! -- came to the conclusion that in case of trouble they had no means of enforcing law and order. That is why the capitalists accepted a compremise solution which the reformist and Stalinist leaders zealously offered them: The King would not be deposed from the throne; he would simply be declared in a state of "incapacity to rule owing to the enemy (!)' and the regency under Prince Charles, brother of Leopold III, would be proclaimed immediately. This was decided upon after several stormy sessions of Parliament in 1945.

PRODUCTION, PROFITS UP

Following the 1949 elections, which marked a shift to the right by the middle classes, a government was formed exclusively of with Hitler. On the contrary, the Mahoney Committee declares in its statement to the Magnuson Committee (published in the Seattle paper, The Defender, March 21) that The present system of employment for seamen through the Union Hiring Halls is the most satisfactory, as far as seamen are concerned, of all employment systems that have been tried."

The statement goes on to point out that certain abuses have appeared even under this system which it insists must be correct. ed. "The union officials elected to administer this system of hiring are invested with great power They are held in check and forced to administer it honestly by th constant vigilance of the seamen who are served by this system o mployment. Union). The long knives of Hall-Lunleberg cannibal unionism have not been sheathed. On the contrary, they are being whetted for use when the hiring hall situation is cleared up. Dave Beck, teamsters czar, has already announced his intention to raid the ILWU and form "one maritime union" in "cooperation with the non-Communist employers." The independent Marine Firemen's union is deliberately being squeezed out of agreements by Lun-deberg with all new ship operators on the west coast. The scabbing of the SIU in the Union Oil strike on the West Coast, where they raided NMU ships truck in sympathy, and against Isbrandtsen line ships struck by the CIO engineers for a union hiring hall, remained unmentioned and unprotested at the conference at least so far as its public pronouncements are concerned.

Once again, the aspirations of the rank and file seamen for genuine unity of all maritime unions have been perverted by their cynical bureaucratic leaders. Today, for the first time, Curran of the CIO and Malone of the independent firemen, are united with Hall and Lundeberg of the AFL — to guarantee "stable" 'responsible" hiring halls to the shipowners, to persecute militants and radicals, to crush all opposi-

TROTSKY

Vol. XIV - No. 14

"Lincoln's significance lies in his not hesitating before the most severe means, once they were found to be necessary, in achieving a great historic aim posed by the development of a young nation. The question lies not even in which of the warring camps caused or itself suffered the greatest number of victims. History has different yardsticks for the cruelty of the Northerners and the cruelty of the Southerners in the Civil War. A slave-owner who through cunning and violence shackles a slave in chains, and a slave who through cunning or violence breaks the chains - let not the contemptible eunuchs tell us that they are equals before a court of morality!" - Leon Trotsky, Their Morals and Ours, 1938

Political Court Decisions

The U.S. Court of Appeals approval, by 2-1 vote, of Truman's "loyalty" purge and "subversive" blacklist of organizations gives judicial sanction to government by decree and, in effect, nullifies government by constitution. If the rulings in the Dorothy Bailey and International Workers Order cases stand, it will mean the end of constitutional liberties in America.

In the case of Dorothy Bailey, fired from her government job as "disloyal" without even the opportunity to hear the "evidence" against her or confront her accusers, the courts said that the President "may remove from government service any person of whose loyalty he is not completely convinced without assigning any reason and without giving the employee any explanatory notice.'

In the IWO case, the court held that the President, through the Attorney General's office, can brand any organization as "subversive" and "disloyal" and those labels may be attached to anyone in any way associated with such organizations, also without evidence or hearings.

It is obvious that this gives the President enormous punitive powers against any individuals and organizations he chooses to label "disloyal." And these powers may be exercised by mere decree, without trial by jury, proof, confrontation of witnesses or any other safeguards provided by the Bill of Rights.

But the court went much further in supporting its rulings. It openly based its findings not on the law, but on politic-'al considerations. It stated that "it so happens that we are presently in an adversary position to a government whose most successful method of contest is the infiltration of a government service by its sympathizers.'. . in so far as the circumstances imposed hardship upon the individual, the exigencies of government ... under current conditions must prevail, as they always must when a similar clash arises."

This can mean but one thing: The President can set aside the Constitution any time he feels that the "exigencies of government" - that is, political considerations - warrant it. The constitutional rights of citizens may be blasted at will by presidential fiat.

Here is the most positive proof that the court rendered a purely political decision. And it is such a decision as can lay the basis for dictatorship and the police-state. Once again we have evidence that the courts are not impartial agencies, but instruments of political struggle. They are not guardians of constitutional rights, but bulwarks of the ruling interests and their political policies.

The Pope on Strikes Italy's Christian 'Democratic regime, headed by the former Vatican functionary De Gasperi, has unleashed a ferocious police and army assault on the nation-wide strike movement protesting the government's moves to pass laws illegalizing strikes and suppressing labor organizations. A tremendous armed force, with tanks and machine guns, has been wounding and killing demonstrating workers. In one day, more than 7,000 arrests were made

The Vatican is a chief beneficiary of Italian capitalism and its exploitation of the Italian workers. It controls many of Italy's banks; it has huge investments, in Italian industries; it is the biggest landowner in the country.

Paralleling its bloody attacks on the workers, the Vatican-dominated regime of De Gasperi has been shooting down starving peasants who have engaged in land seizures. De Gasperi has taken care to write a section in his proposed landreform bill which specifically exempts from division the more than a million acres owned by the Roman Catholic hierarchy.

Belgrade has hailed the results as a major victory for the regime. And in a limited sense this, is true: The major issue in the of ficial campaign was the struggle against the Kremlin and the Cominform bloc.

STRONG SUPPORT

The Yugoslav leaders conducted highly effective propaganda in this connection and made some o their sharpest exposures and criticisms to-date of the Kremlin, its policies and its role. In the struggle against the Kremlin and its puppets as well as against intervention by Western imperial ists, the Tito regime unquestion ably has the overwhelming sup port of the people, and this found ts reflection in the election results.

It is also evident that the regime generally enjoys great popularity and support in the country. It is stronger today than at the time of the break with the Cominform in June 1948.

But the sweeping claims of Belgrade concerning the "democratic character" of its regime are not borne out either by the election results or by the nature of these lections. A few months ago, when India's Prime Minister Nehru paid a visit to this country, he was asked some questions about the state of civil liberties under his government. Nehru gave no satisfactory answers. Since then there have arrived in this country four large well-documented pamphlets on civil liberties in India that provide clear picture of the conditions Nehru was apparently anxious to conceal.

The pamphlets are products of the Indian Civil Liberties Conference held in Madras last July 16-17 and contain reports of the proceedings and discussions that took place there. Among other things, they reveal the following:

Under the notorious slogan of "opposition to Communism," the Congress Party, the ruling party in the land, has issued decrees which "legitimately" deprive the trade unions, the peasant organizations and political opponents of every civil right.

Savage attacks are launched against peasants who dare to ask for their lawful share of the crop from the landowners. Congress Party, to keep them obedient to the Nehru leadership. Human life is held as cheaply by the Indian police as it was by the imperialist rulers. In Pandalapaka, for instance, textile vorkers went on strike after the management rejected a government arbitration decision. Strike leaders were arrested and beaten in prison; one old man was so badly beaten that he died the following day.

At Kodali, special police fired on an unarmed crowd at a cattle show because they were "noisy." An old man fell with a bullet in his thigh. Two were killed, one a lad of 17; and 20 people were injured

In West Bengal, a student demonstration against the Security Bill was attacked with lathi charges, tear gas and guns. An ambulance worker, sitting in his jeep some distance away, was killed by a police bullet; authorities alibied later that the victim "had lost

"I find no words to describe the atrocities of the police," a Congress member of the legislature declared in describing another outrage at Telaprolu. "They made people sit in lines and then beat them with lathis and tamarind canes. Serious wounds were inflicted on 50 people." In the same area, a workers' settlement was razed to the ground by goondas paid by the local employers. The police ignored the crime.

A farm worker was attacked by hirelings of the zamindar (landlord and rent-collector) in Bora Kamalpur Union. Peasants who surrounded the zamindar's, house to protest were driven off with brick-bats. By the time the police arrived, the peasants had dispersed. Yet the police preferred charges of robbery and housebreaking against the peasants, raided their homes, imposed arbitrary curfews, arrested over 100 peasants for going outdoors to get water, wounded many and killed several. The zamindar, of course, went scot-free.

The Atrocities of the Police

In East Bengal, a peaceful demonstration of 200 women appealed to the government for better treatment of those jailed under the "security" decrees. As the procession, joined by a few young men, moved down the street, police attacked the marchers. The Fleischman expressed gratificatoll: Four women and three men slain, an unknown number injured. tion at the SDF decision to join The Bengal government proclaimed that the police had "opened fire with the SP in organizing a in self defense," although no policeman was killed or seriously hurt. turned down action on merger, nerge the two organizations.

This brutal and murderous attack has received the blessings of Pope Pius XII. He has publicly backed the Italian government's actions and denounced the workers' defense of their elementary rights. His address on March 26 in Rome linked "political strikes" to "atheistic" forces and to "universal moral decadence." He called the strikes in progress "revolts against the constituted authorities."

But religious sentiments and an aversion to sin are not what really motivate the Pope's pronouncement against strikes and specifically the present strikes in Italy. He has not thrown his weight behind the anti-labor outrages in Italy out of pious concern for moral abstractions. More material — and sordid — considerations are involved.

The Pope's occasional references to "social justice" and the plight of the poor are a hypocritical cover for material self-interest. His cries against "atheistic communism" conceal a concern for the capitalist profit system to which the Vatican is inextricably linked.

That is why the Vatican remains, despite the Pope's social demagogy, a world "powerhouse of reaction." which everywhere opposes progressive change and blesses the most reactionary and bestial forms of capitalist rule - Franco's fascist dictatorship, the pro-Nazi king of Belgium, the police-terror regime of De Gasperi.

The Yugoslavs and the WFTU

As the purge of Stalinist-led unions continues inside the CIO, it becomes easier and easier for the Stalinists to accuse the CIO leadership of disrupting the unity and solidarity of the labor movement for reactionary political purposes --- and to substantiate these charges.

But the Stalinist indignation over such practices is 100% hypocritical. For they themselves engage in precisely the same kind of bureaucratic and divisive reprisals against their opponents in the unions, wherever they are able to get away with it, in this country and abroad.

The latest example comes in a dispatch from Belgrade, reporting that the central committee of the Yugoslav trade unions had issued an appeal to all members of the Stalinist-controlled World Federation of Trade Unions, protesting against the exclusion of the Yugoslav, Duro Salaj, from the WFTU secretariat on March 14. In effect, the appeal charged, this meant the exclusion of the Yugoslav unions from the WFTU because Salaj, their chairman, represented them on the central committee of the WFTU. Why are the Yugoslav representatives being driven out of the WFTU? For essentially the same reason that the Stalinists are driven out of the CIO. The WFTU leaders, committed to support of the Kremlin's reactionary foreign policy, cannot tolerate the presence of anyone who objects to their policy, just as the CIO leaders, committed to support of the State Department's reactionary foreign policy cannot tolerate the presence of anyone who objects to their policy.

In both cases, splits and expulsions are ruthlessly ordered and executed, bureaucracy runs rampant, the very remnants of democracy are swept away. In both cases, the real interests of the labor movement - working class unity and solidarity - are subordinated, subverted or ignored.

The methods and objectives of the labor lieutenants of the Kremlin are not fundamentally different from those of the labor lieutenants of capitalism. Their main disagreement arises over what brand of misleadership to saddle on the working class. Militant unionists must reject them both and continue the struggle for a new kind of labor leadership in this country and throughout the world a leadership that will be independent of all varieties of exploiters and oppressors

- a leadership that will be dependent only on the interests and aspirations of the working people.

Corruption, Violence, Mass Jailings

As opposition to the pro-landlord, pro-capitalist rule of the Congress Party grows, the government uses similar violence to prevent the election of Socialist Party candidates. "In Gorakhpur, a [Socialist] Party worker, Rishidev, lost his life as a result of injuries received from Congress agents. Patwaris, constables and police officers brought the voters, under compulsion, and made them vote for the Congress."

At Kilsagar, Congress workers seized 350 ballots and destroyed 192 of them. The authorities winked.

The old princely rulers work hand-in-glove with the Congress Party. Another Socialist Party report states: "The Raja of Oudh stationed himself at one of the polling booths with a revolver in hand. Backed by 50 goondas, he challenged anyone to vote for the Socialists. In spite of this, the polling for the [Socialist] party candidate was brisk. So the goondas started assaulting the people. Then the polling was peremptorily stopped and the injured voters emoved to the hospital.'

The H-Bomb Isn't All

By Fred Hart

If American imperialism's H-Bomb fails to wipe out all humanity in the next war for which the capitalists are preparing, Washington is readying some additional weapons of annihilation that are guaranteed to complete the job.

The March 17 N. Y. World-Telegram and Sun reports the results of a United Press survey of 'secret' and semi-secret weapons now ready or in the world's laboratories" — meaning, in U. S. laboratories.

Truman's H-Bomb will continue to "top all terror weapons." But the trouble with the H-Bomb is that "it is actually so powerful there are only a handful of targets large enough to warrant it: New York, London, Moscow, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and a few other places with more than 1.000.000 population."

Washington regards as sheer waste the use of a bomb that could wipe out New York's eight million people in the blink of an eye on some picayune spot where there are less than a million men, women and children congregated. So the economy-minded capitalist politicians and militarists have devised more efficient means of mopping up the smaller and less dense areas of population. These, rated in order of their deadly efficiency, are:

1. "Germ bombs, to spread plague and panic in big cities" and to spread disease among live stock and destroy plant life. Those who don't die of disease in world-wide epidemics spread through biological warfare, will die of starvation because of germ-blasted animals and crops.

2. "Atom bomb, also useful against large concentrations of troops and ships unless they fight in small units." Even the improved atom bomb, whose crude forebears wiped out two sizable Japanese cities with one blast apiece, is now rated third in efficiency. 3. "Radioactive clouds, to lay waste agricultural areas and cities" - just so you won't think you will be safer in the suburbs or out in the country. 4. "'Sound bombs,' a misleading term for use of prolonged high-pitched noises which some scientists think will break civilian morale as diabolically as anything yet conceived." The insanc capitalist rulers figure to drive everybody elsa crazy before finishing them off with atomic radiations and microbes.

Finally, (5.) "Poison gas, of which there are new heavy types not dissipated by high winds and for which there is no known antidote." They no longer talk about poison gas being "too horrible' for "humane" warfare.

We are also informed that "guided missiles can carry most of the foregoing death and destruction over ever-increasing distances into the cities and towns and even little villages."

These weapons, you will note, are not designed for use against opposing military forces. They are primarily weapons of civilian annihilation On the basis of this survey, the World-Telegram concludes that the "fighting front will be safes! when next war looses horrors."

Will the future recruiting posters read: "Join the Army - Escape H-Bomb, Germs, A-Bombs Radio-Active Clouds, Sound-Bombs and Poisor Gas"?

Maybe. But if the workers of America don' take the power away from the capitalist ruler and halt the war plans, there may not be anybody alive to recruit.

Compromise Stand On Civil Rights

At Queens Parley JAMAICA, L. I., Mar. 26 The Long Island Conference on Civil Rights was held here today under the auspices of the local ALP, NAACP and various other liberal and labor organizations. The Stalinists, who had previously lefeated in panel session a proposal to defend Trotskyists and other victims of the witch-hunt, permitted a compromise resolution to be passed unanimously in the plenary session. This included the proviso that "all organizations convicted under the Smith Act be pardoned" without specifying the organizations convicted. In the most heavily attended panel session - "Right to Think" - under the chairmanship of Prof. Oscar Shaftel of Queens College, a YPA delegate proposed that the panel and conference go on record to demand the immediate repeal of the Smith Act and the granting of presidential pardons to the 11 Communist Party leaders and 18 Socialist Workers Party leaders "whose conviction under the Smith 'Gag' Act was used as a legal precedent for Foley Square." Prof. Shaftel demanded that this proposal, in the form of a resolution, be withdrawn and that general statement of opposition to the Smith Act be substituted instead. Referring to the N. Y. Bill of Rights Conference of last summer, Shaftel declared that it had been "almost sabotaged by just such a dispute over the same minor issue."

The YPA delegate pointed out that what Prof. Shaftel had labelled a "minor issue" touched the very heart of the struggle for civil rights which is indivisible and permits of no double standard."

> Court is. It is just another department of the capitalist government, and its entire past record proves that it is just as devoted to Jim Crow : any other department."

The Supreme Court has a reputation for liberal ism, but this reputation is undeserved. Ever when it ruled a few years ago that restrictive covenants cannot be enforced by the courts, i went out of its way to add that the covenant themselves are still legal. Since then the cour has acquired Southern Democrat Tom Clark, wh cannot be described as anything but an enemy o the Negro struggle for equality.

But, some people ask, if the court doesn't intend to throw out the "separate but equal" doctrine then why do its members bother to hear the appeal in these three cases? The main reason I would say, is because they have their reputation for liberalism to sustain. But it doesn't follow that they will knock out segregation. What the Stalinists voted it down in they can do in these cases is rule that the plaintiffs did not get "equal" facilities, order the Southern states to provide better Jim Crow facilities, and let it go at that, maintaining the system of segregation intact.

Judging by their past decisions, that is what they will probably do. In any case, we have no circles against Stalinist disrup with the office altogether by reason to sit back and relax now. Case of Seretse nnama

By Albert Parker

The prosperity and power of Western capitalism used to rest on its colonies, especially Asia. But since Asia is being torn out of their exploiting hands by mass uprisings and revolutions, the colonial center of attraction has moved to Africa. It is no secret that Britain, in particular, looks fondly forward to recovering its former proud position by the super-exploitation of this vast area for another fifty or a hundred years.

But this great expectation is doomed to disappointment. There has been a notable growth of nationalist sentiment throughout the British colonies in Africa since the end of the war; labor organizations are being built and courageous strikes have broken out despite cruel repressions. In other words, Africa is going the way of Asia - a little more tardily, perhaps, but just as surely. The case of Seretse Khama is both an example and a symbol of this trend.

Seretse, 27-year old chief of Bechuanaland, a small British "protectorate" surrounded by the Union of South Africa, Rhodesia and Southwest Africa, had married a white typist while he was studying in England and had returned with her to rule over his tribe. The South African authorities were outraged at this affront to their official white supremacy doctrines, and fearful of the effects it might have inside South Africa and neighboring countries. They tried to get his uncle to stir up a rebellion against Seretse over this marriage. But the subchieftains refused to be taken in, and recognized Seretse's right to rule.

A few weeks ago Seretse was called to London for a conference. There a British government

PIONEER PUBLISHERS 116 University Place New York 3, N. Y. official offered him a bride to abdicate. When he refused, they announced that Seretse had been exiled from Bechuanaland for five years. The imperialists have often done things like this, and usually got away with it without difficulty. But not in this case - despite the tiny size of Bechuanaland and the fact that they already had Seretse in their power.

In the first place, Seretse resisted, appealing for help. In the second place, his tribe resisted too. The sub-chiefs, pledging to continue the fight man administration which, with against the ban, informed British authorities that the Congressional election camthey would pay no further taxes without their chief's authority. When the British high commissioner called them to a meeting where he extent of idleness and the perwould "explain" his government's action, they announced a boycott and he had to call it off.

In addition, the Pittsburgh Courier reports, "Tension mounted everywhere, as black legislators in Ceylon, Nigeria, Sierra Leone, Gold Coast. Kenya, Tanganyika and the West Indies denounced the government, and high colored officials whose positions and future depend upon standing in well with the powers-that-be, risked everything in loud tongue-lashings of the London regime. In England Dr. Arthur Lewis, West Indian professor of economics at Manchester University, expressed his protest by resigning from the Colonia Economic and Development Council.

Members of the British Labor Party protested some because they were angered by the govern ment's trickery, others because they realized that the government was playing into the hands o the Tory opposition. Many conservative British papers followed Churchill's suit; their real made-work and relief, and govmotivation was expressed by the Daily Mail which complained: "By their stupidity, they [the government] may inflame Bechuanaland. The thing is bad." Bad, that is, from the imperialist stand point.

In the end the British government had to back down. It did so with poor grace, by agreeing to let Seretse return to his native land until the birth of his child, which is expected in the summer. It appears that, barring unforeseen developments, the British government will try to le people forget about the hornet's nest it stirred up
