Hands Off Korean People's Right To Decide Own Fate!

By John G. Wright

The "calculated risk" taken by the American imperialists in connection with the Korean events has at a single stroke revealed their true character. They have acted in a way that leaves no doubt about their immediate and predatory "safeguarding world peace," "defending the rights of small nations against aggression," "actorder.'

Through the moves of his Stalin has supplied the capitalist rulers in this country with the desired pretext. They have eagerly seized upon it not only to force a showdown in Korea "up to the 38th parallel," but also to take simultaneously a whole number of steps. summed up in Truman's enunciation of his "new foreign policy" for the whole of Asia. These new moves go far beyond what they are already doing in Korea.

There American air and naval squadrons - under MacArthur are now engaged in combat actions. It has been officially announced that not only North Korean armed forces but all cities cccupied by them, which naturally includes the South Korean civilian population, will be considered as military targets and bombed.

As we go to press, AP dispatches report the first landings echelon" on Korean soil and the Church as head of ,all the South Korean forces. A complete war censorship on all news about Korea from Tokyo has been clamped down by MacArthur.

All this has been done without the approval of or even consultation with Congress, let alone the American people as a whole.

But this war in Korea, which some dailies have inadvertently "illegally declared termed an war," is only part of what the people of this country have been committed to by Truman's decrees and arbitrary acts.

There is Formosa, a territory only yesterday acknowledged by the State Department itself as outside U. S. jurisdiction, ' now encircled by American naval units.

One man, President Harry Truman, acting without consultation or consent of Congress and in downright violation of the Constitution, has precipitated this country into a full-scale war in Asia. One man, President Harry Truman, has committed the United States to warlike measures in Formosa, the Philippines and Indo-China in total disregard for the will of the peoples or the rights of sovereign nations in that part of the world. One man, President Harry Truman, has decided to gamble with the lives of the American people in a "calculated risk" which could lead to World War III. As the conflict comes closer, the differences between the totalitarian methods of Truman and those of Stalin become harder to find.

"Seeing the Twin Cities branches listed high up on the scoreboard is a mighty pretty sight!" writes Grace Carlson of Minneapolis. "Prettiest of all will be when we are 100% - which will be in plenty of time." St.

West Virginia came in with Faul and Minneapolis sent in a combined $52 payment. A $50 payment shot Seattle up the scoreboard to tie Boston with 77%.

> Worcester made a big gain, loubling its previous score to hit 67%.

Cleveland sent in $15 during the week, Akron $25, Detroit $66, Los Angeles $140.85. New York $53.-50, Newark $15.

"This $21 payment brings our total to $85 or 57% of our quota," says Comrade Virginia for Milwaukee. "Not so good considering the late date. But I know the stragglers will pay up their pledges when they see that the deadline is just around the corner. You can count on Milwaukee for 100% in the final scoreboard."

We've been spotlighting those branches that have stayed on schedule throughout the campaign, hoping all the branches would follow the pace setters. Now with only a short time left to complete this $10,000 fund to help print The Militant, we ought to reverse this pattern. However, we believe every branch on the lower half of the scoreboard is already painfully aware of its position. We also believe that steps are being taken by these branches to fulfill their quotas 100% by July 15.

'Welfare State' - Or Socialism? (Part II) How National Income Is Divided

By Art Preis

Although the phrase itself had not yet been coined, it was in '1933 that the Democratic administration launched its "welfare state," under the name of the "New Deal." Let us see, therefore, what kind of welfare and security the majority of the American people now enjoy after 17 years of the New Deal-Fair Deal-Welfare State.

A recent series of tragic events symbolizes the real state of welfare. In November and December 1949, reports seeped from sunny Arizona and California that hundreds of babies of farm workers were dying of STARVATION. In one Arizona farm labor camp, over 100 infants and children were found close to death from what the officials chose to call "malnutrition." Shortly thereafter, from the fertile San Joaquin Valley in California, came the substantiated reports of 28 infant deaths by starvation.

Want amidst plenty is one of the characteristic features of capitalism. The starvation conditions in Arizona and California occurred while the Truman government had four billion dollars worth of "surplus" commodities, mainly food of all varieties, stored away in groaning warehouses, idle box-cars and ships, and even in caves.

Truman's Secretary of Agriculture Brannan proposed to dye 25 million bushels of "surplus" potatoes blue and sell them for hog-feed and fertilizer at 1 cent a bushel. The government "disposed" of 1.120.000 hags of potatoes to fascist Spain for a penny a bag. The fascists were glad, said one columnist, "not so much because of the cheap potatoes, but because of the bags, which were produces. worth 30 cents apiece in Spain.'

This contrast, of starving American babies and billions of pounds of food being withheld, destroyed or shipped to fascists, expresses the real essence of Truman's capitalist "welfare state."

One Out of Three in Want

LESS than a WPA relief wage! He also said that the "benefit period" should be extended in all states to 26 weeks.

The slight improvements Truman proposed were promptly pigeonholed by his own followers in Congress. Even if they were The SP Convention passed, they would still hold out only a bleak and miserable existence for the jobless under Truman's "Welfare State."

Conditions of the Employed Workers

How do the American workers fare when they do have jobs? At a recent convention of business men in Atlantic City, Trunan's Secretary of Commerce Sawyer boasted that average hourly money earnings of manufacturing production workers rose from 63 cents in 1938 to $1.39 in November 1949. These figures conceal the real state of affairs.

A March 23. 1950, United Press analysis of Labor Department wage figures reveals that while the average worker's weekly pay check increased from $23.86 in 1939 to $54.94 in 1949, "his buying power has climbed only 35%." Due to higher taxes and made shortly after the 1948 elecprices, the average worker's wage "boiled down to only $32.17 in tion, which, in fact, he entered terms of 1939 purchasing power. . . the real increase over the only under the greatest pressure 10-year span was only $8.31."

The account of the Socialist Party convention by Comrade George Breitman in the June 12

On several matters, however, Breitman would have done better to examine his facts more clearly. Norman Thomas' decision not to run for President in 1952 was in outright want.

This is the startling fact revealed last year by the Congressional Joint Committee on the Economic Report in its study, "Low-Income Families and Economic Stability." Here is the state of welfare they found in 1948, before the more recent rise of mass unemployment:

"Nearly 16 million, or one-third of all families and individuals in the United States, received incomes under $2,000 (a year), and 8 millions of these received incomes under $1,000. . . The 10 million families having incomes under $2,000 represent 32 million persons." Another 7.9 million families had incomes of between $2,000 and $3,000; and 8 million got between $3,000 and $4,000.

This same Congressional report fixed "the minimum budget necessary for a family of four persons" at more than $3,200 a year, as estimated in 1947 by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. This minimum budget allowed for no luxuries, no savings, no medical expenses for a major illness. Back in March 1946, before the biggest leap in postwar prices, the Senate Education and Labor Committee reported: "Even the inadequate maintenance budget developed for families on work relief would cost $1,700 at current prices."

Thus, of the 38.5 million American families in 1948, the lowest third had incomes no better, and in most cases worse, than a relief maintenance budget during the prewar depression. Of the next third, half were below the borderline of the minimum standard for

The Growth of Unemployment

The threat of mass unemployment has been with us since the end of the war. Only briefly, in the fall of 1948, did unemployment fall below 2 million. This enabled Truman, in his Jan. 1949 "state of the union" speech, to boast of "maximum employment."

His boast was short-lived. Unemployment grew to an average of 3.5 million in the last half of 1949, reaching nearly 5 million in February 1950, according to the government's own conservative figures.

In 1949, more than 7 million workers were forced to collect unemployment compensation sometime during the year. Since a third of all wage earners are not "covered" by the compensation law, it is safe to say that that not less than 10 to 11 million workers suffered some jobless period during last year.

aid at all. For those who collected unemployment compensation, ployed or too old; when we see profits swell fourfold in a decade, Truman admitted in his April 6 message to Congress, "weekly benefits averaged only $20 - not enough to preserve a minimum standard of living."

Truman proposed to add an average of only $4 a week to the FARED state? present $20. This proposed $24 would equal about $14.20 in 1939

Capitalists Can Be Grateful

One group, however, has every reason to be grateful to the welfare state," although they assail it most loudly. These are the profiteering capitalists, particularly the monopolists.

Truman was justified in complaining about their ingratitude when he said on May 12, 1950, that "government action during the tinue, as he has throughout his last 17 years has been the salvation of private business in this life, to serve the cause of socialcountry and has strengthened the private enterprise (profit) sys- ism and in so doing he will remain tem. . .

By 1948, they soared to $21.2 billion - a gain of more than 400% in nine years. wish to thank George Breitman In 1949, they dipped to $17.2 billion; but in the first quarter of for a good job of reporting which 1950, profits of 508 leading corporations averaged a 6% increase I urge my fellow Socialists to over the 1949 period.

The corporations are making bigger profits with smaller output. The April 29 Business Week observed that although "profits to heart. are comfortably above last year. . . Yet the Federal Reserve Board's decency and health and the other half were barely able to keep index of industrial production averaged only 182 in the first three Socialists in states where the SP months of 1950, compared with 188 in the same period last year."

Ill Fares the Land

It is precisely during the period of the "welfare state," and particularly its war, that monopoly growth has reached its fastest pace. The Senate Small Business Committee report, "Economic Concentration in World War II," revealed that "the relative importance of big business, particularly the giant corporations, in-creased sharply during the war. . . " The 250 largest corporations wound up the war with $39.6 billion in facilities, or almost as much as all 75,000 manufacturing corporations had held before the war. Words that aptly describe America today were penned back in the 18th Century by the British poet, Oliver Goldsmith:

"Ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey, "Where wealth accumulates, and men decay."

When we see monopolies fattening as never before on the toil How did the "welfare state" provide for them? Millions got no of the people, who are tossed mere 'crusts when they are unemwhile the wage-earners get an ever-smaller share of what they produce - when we see these things, what shall we call the government that has produced them? A "welfare state" or an ILL-

The October legislation took a bold step in the direction of such a family. Economic and cultural backwardness has produced a cruel reaction. The Thermidorian legislation [of the Stalinist bureaucracy] is beating a retreat to the bourgeois models, covering its retreat with false speeches about the sacredness of the 'new' family. 'National Unity' and Korea

The shouts for "national unity" have already become so loud and domineering that even such a conservative "critic" of the administration as Senator Taft receives severe treatment for his rather cautious remark about Truman's flagrant / usurpation of power in connection with the Korean events and is immediately called to order in the press and over the radio.

This clamor for "national unity" is the favorite and most deceptive device of the bitterest enemies of the people, those who would without a scruple sacrifice the vital interests of this country if they or their class benefited personally thereby.

The capitalists of all countries invariably raise this cry in hours of crisis which they themselves have brought about. This small minority tries to pass off its own vested interests for those of the country as a whole; otherwise they could never retain their rule and carry out their policies. Above all, they must beat the workers into line; and this they succeed in doing by beating their leaders into line. It is for these official labor leaders that the entire hue and cry about "national unity" is, in the first instance, intended.

If anyone has had no say whatever in the present emergency, it is the workers. Their organizations were never consulted nor even informed; nor was their opinion so much as solicited. Now they will be told, and it will be the cowardly leaders who'll do it, that this is not the time to ask questions, or to be concerned about what is being done, who is doing it and why. The workers, moreover, must be kept from seriously thinking about such issues as: How are the interests of the workers and their unions affected? What will the consequences be, if labor does not follow an independent road and prevent the installation of a police state in the name of "national unity" and of ostensibly fighting totalitarianism?

Let every serious-minded worker ask himself: If elementary democratic rights are to be exercised; if there is any time these rights must be most jealously safeguarded, when is it if not at a time of "national crisis"? What good are "democratic processes" if they are the very first ones to jettisoned at the hour when the fate of our people, and even of the whole world, may be, at stake?

The Defeat of Senator Graham

The labor and Negro leaders allied with the Democratic Party are getting a sound beating in the first stages of the 1950 election campaign — the primaries which are equivalent to election in the South. First, labor-supported Senator Claude Pepper of Florida was beaten in May by Rep. George A. Smathers, an openly anti-Negro, pro-Taft-Hartley demagogue who ran his campaign along "McCarthvite" lines. And now labor-supported Senator Frank P. Graham of North Carolina has been defeated in a decisive primary runoff by corporation lawyer Willis Smith, whose campaign closely paralleled that of Smathers.

progressive legislation in the 81st Congress.

Even when the PAC-LLPE policy of supporting "liberal" capitalist politicians "works," it doesn't bring any gains to the American workers. And this year, if the primaries properly indicate the trend, the PAC-LLPE policy isn't going to "work" as well as it did in 1948, and the most reactionary forces are going to become stronger and bolder.

There are many reasons but the one that stands out most prominently is the witch-hunt atmosphere which Truman helped to create and which is now being used by Republicans and conservative Democrats alike against the administration and any political figure who ever took a position slightly to the "left of center."

IFT KOREAN PEOPLE DECIDE OWN

III. The Federated People's Republic

With the complete nationalization of banking and state control foreign trade, the basis for a socialist economy has been created in Yugoslavia. It was under the leadership of the Communist Party that the working class fought a national liberation war against he fascists and their native allies, the reactionary Serbian and Croatian bourgeoisies, seized the state power and guaranteed the iberation of the masses of Yugoslavia.

The Yugoslav experience demonstrates the truth of the theory permanent revolution - that the bourgeoisie in this epoch of perialism cannot lead a national revolutionary war, and that his task devolves on the working masses, and their vanguard, the proletarian party, in the struggle for socialism. It illustrates that in this imperialist epoch the independence of a small country can be achieved only through a social revolution — a class war against ascism, imperialism, and their local agents, the native bourgeoisie.

During the war the Yugoslav Communist Party was under pressure from the Allied governments, including the Russian, to subordinate itself to Mikhailovich, who was the representative of the emigre government in London as well as a collaborator of the Nazis, using the arms he obtained from the Allies against the partisan fighters and not against the fascists.

But the stormy development of the struggle prevented this, and the Communist Party followed an independent policy, just as later it resisted the pressure to turn its country into a sphere of interest of the Soviet Union. Instead, in the fire of the national liberation war, the old organs of administration and power were overthrown and supplanted by democratic organs elected by the masses to organize the rear and gear it to the needs of the war. In the midst of the liberation struggle a new Federated People's Republic of Yugoslavia was created on the recognition of the sosalist right of self-determination of peoples and the right of seession from the federation.

The Functioning of the New Government

The Federated People's Republic of Yugoslavia is governed by fortunately, is that the Greens Murrays and Reuthers have sold two elected assemblies: the House of Nationalities and the Federal Assembly. The former is elected on a Republican basis where every republic sends in 30 deputies, the autonomous provinces 20, and the autonomous regions 15. The latter is elected on the territorial basis of wages, censorship and a drastic the North Atlantic Pact and of one deputy for 40,000 citizens. Every law has to be approved made them official union policy. by majorities of both houses.

Election to these assemblies and to all other administrative organs is by adult universal franchise, and every man and woman over 18 years of age has the right to contest an election as well as vote. Though for the economic development of this country this centralized administration is essential, yet the stress today is on decentralization of administration, whereby the various Republics have the authority to draw up plans for their own development and make their own constitution, while there is a mutual recognition of the necessity of aiding the more backward sections of the country.

It is necessary to stress the attitude of this state toward the men who produce in order to emphasize the difference with the attitude to working class conditions in capitalist countries. Here the new factories are not set up in drab surroundings, but in a beautiful setting, and the factories are equipped with showers, reading rooms, restaurants and rooms for relaxation in sport. The workers' towns that are constructed side by side with the mines and factories are equipped with modern conveniences, and the factory gives a low interest loan to the worker to furnish his flat. Schools, theaters, lecture halls, cinemas, reading rooms and libraries are part and parcel of the preconceived architectural plan.

The cultural life of the workers gets every attention of the trade unions and the state. Culture and art, which were hitherto the monopoly of a privileged few, are now the prerogative of the masses. Dramatic clubs, discussion groups, lectures on literature, music and politics, are organized at the lecture halls and reading rooms. Courses of general education are conducted to liquidate illiteracy. Physical culture organizations at factory and school receive special attention, and the masses participate more and more in this field of activity.

The Press and the Fight Against Illiteracy

The press in Yugoslavia indicates the rapid progress achieved indicates the tempo of development. Over 45% of the people in pre-war Yugoslavia could not read or write; in Macedonia over 67% of the population could not read or write, and had hardly any educational institutions. There were no schools for minorities or for nations like the Macedonians, and hardly any schools were built in the villages. Today the Federal Republics, the trade unions, the People's Front, the anti-fascist women's front and the state all combine in a powerful drive to build more schools, universities, technical colleges and teachers' training institutions. Newspapers in Serbian, Croatian, Macedonian, Italian, Hungarian, Czech, Slovakian, Rumanian and Russian are published in Yugoslavia, and the press is certainly a popular press. The trade unions have their own paper in every republic, the workers' collectives, technical institutions and literary societies have their own magazines and newspapers. Today the level of illiteracy has been reduced to almost 12%. Over 1,350,000 daily papers are sold and an average edition of a book runs to about 30,000 copies. Even the national minorities have their own schools.

This removes from the Senate two of the three Southern Democrats who have been held up by labor and Negro leaders as the models of "liberalism" and "decency," Southern style. It adds to the Senate two outright reactionaries who don't feel called on to pay even lip-service to the cause of civil and labor rights.

A few more primaries like this, and it will become obvious even to the PAC and LLPE leaders that no matter which party captures Congress next November, it will continue to be controlled by the same kind of conservative, anti-labor coalition that has blocked the passage of

Five Million Times Zero

The Stalinists are busy helping to collect five million American signatures to a petition calling for "prohibition" of atomic weapons and vowing to regard the first government which uses them as a "war criminal." They are also busy -in a Daily Worker column entitled "Questions on Peace" - explaining how the collection of such petitions can prevent war. On June 25, this column ran the following:

Question: How can signing a petition prevent war?

Answer: There's a world-wide campaign on in every land, on every continent, to get hundreds of millions of signatures. Under these circumstances, an individual is multiplied by hundreds of millions - and that's a force to be reckoned with. In other words, war can be prevented if the people's will for peace is organized. Modern war depends on people and the total mobilization of people for war. Total mobilization of the people for peace can therefore prevent the would-be warmakers from carrying out their plans.

Instead of calling that an answer, it should have been labeled as an evasion of the question posed. A petition with one name on it protesting against war is worth zero in the struggle against war. Multiply zero by five million, or by hundreds of millions — it still amounts to zero, and it will still have zero effect on the plans of the warmongers.

The official labor leaders share responsibility with Truman for these successes of reaction. They not only elected Truman but they refused to put up a fight against his witch-hunt and even imitated it within the unions. The American workers are paying dearly today for the cowardice and stupidity of their leaders, and they will have to pay still more dearly until they succeed in winning their unions over to a program of unambiguous struggle against all forms of capitalist politics and witch-hunts.

The warmongers already know that

The Fourth of July

- By William E. Bohannan -

SWP Candidate for Congress, 11th District, N. J.

To most Americans today the idea of revolution in this country seems impossible or unnecessary - or even "un-American." But the Fourth of July is an annual reminder that the United States was founded by a revolution and has a proud revolutionary tradition that is not surpassed in many other lands.

The revolution that began in 1776 was not the first on American soil. As William F. Warde pointed out in his brilliant series of articles in the Fourth International last year, the first great social revolution on this continent that we know about was the overthrow of the tribal Indian society that the European immigrants found when they came here. The system of private property was introduced in America as the result of this revolution that crushed the pre-capitalist system of communal property under which the Indians had lived.

The next stage in the revolutionary process which has made the U.S. what it is today was the war and civil war in the 18th century for independence from Britain and for the right of the American colonists to rule themselves and the country's resources as they saw fit.

The "irrepressible conflict" that broke out in the 19th century was a revolution against the system of slavery, which was hampering the industrial development of the nation on a capitalist basis and threatening to destroy the hard-won democratic rights of the masses, white as well as black.

Thus we can see from our own national experience that no system is eternal. When conditions demand and opportunity permits, a system which the people regard as outlived gives place to a new system. Sometimes the change is peaceful, sometimes violent; it all depends on the power and ability of the old ruling class to use violence to obstruct the change demanded by the majority of the people.

The present capitalist system owes its existence and power to three victorious revolutions against Indian tribalism, against British colonialism, against Southern slavery. It seems very imposing today, but we know that it is not eternal, and that it will give way to a better system when the majority of the people want a change and are ready to fight for it. In the opinion of the Socialist Workers Party that day is not far the Socialist Workers Party that day is not far off, and it is being hastened by the social, political, economic and moral bankruptcy of a ruling class that has outlived its usefulness and can only provide us with increasing wars, depressions and invasions of our civil rights. That is why the Fourth of July is not a day

This is not all. Since the government gets its wars on credit, it's not only the astronomical cost of war but interest on the debt too. Interest is up in the billions a year now and nothing in sight to bring it down.

How are we to get out from under this burden? An immediate obvious remedy is heavier taxes on the giant monopoly corporations. Their profits soared to all-time highs during the war. They came out of the conflict with tremendous new holdings abroad and vast increases in plant equipment built at government expense. Now they're

Next you add special taxes like those slapped on show tickets, whiskey, cigarettes, the baby's talcum powder and other such luxuries. Then the tax on gasoline, train fares, telegrams, the telephone — so many items that when you figure it up you wonder how the family eats on what's left of that poor, battered pay-check.

Obviously there's a job waiting to be done on taxes. The poor should not have to pay through the nose. The tax load should be placed on the rich. After all they can afford to pay and it was their government that ran up the bills.

Looked at from a dollar and cents view, isn't it about time labor was putting its own tax experts in Congress?

Stalin and Nationalism

By Ruth Johnson

To the amazement of the world press, Stalin has finally called a halt to one expression of Great Russian chauvinism. The Russian language, he admits, is not the instrument created by a new social system. The theory dreamed up by N. Y. Marr and taught as gospel truth by the Kremlin since 1934 is now declared "un-Marxist." Its long reign is brazenly confessed to be due to "a regime under which even the gentlest criticism was condemned and under which scientists were removed from their posts or demoted for criticism of Marr's teachings."

In a signed article prepared for Pravda, Stalin speaks as though he were Rip Van Winkle awakening in a deplorable world. Marr was all wrong; his theory that different classes develop different languages is "absurd," and it's high time for a change in the books.

No one can believe that Stalin was previously ignorant of the Marr theory, or of the bureaucratic tyranny which extends to every branch of Soviet science. The spectacle of the Kremlin laying sole claim to culture, scientific progress and knowledge generally is familiar to exeryone. No one can seriously believe that Stalin will relax the brutal dictatorship over Soviet thought; his article itself is a call for a new bureaucratic purge.

Back of this change in line, we can see Stalin's desperate fear of Titoist sympathies in the satellite countries. The connection between language and national oppression is excellently presented in a recent pamphlet, The Russian Language and Great Russian Chauvinism, written by Radovan Lalic, Professor of Foreign Languages at the University of Belgrade. (Published by the Yugoslav Information Center, New York 10.)

Lalic calls attention to a Moscow order intended to make Russian the prime language of Czechoslovakia. This was not the individual crime of a misguided zealot among the bureaucrats, but the avowed policy of the Kremlin. The Literary Gazette of the Soviet Union on Jan. 1, 1949, had arrogantly decreed just such action:

"The replacement of one world language by another," the Gazette had written, "has occurred Hansen, Bartell time and again throughout thousands of years of the history of mankind... Looking at the future on New Year's Day, we see the Russian language as the world language of socialism."

Stalinist censorship does not allow us news of how the Czechs received the application of this theory, but resentment must have reached a high, although the party had overcome pitch to produce Moscow's sudden change of tone. all the tremendous obstacles The story of the Kremlin's Great Russian placed in its path by the reacchauvinism did not begin and does not end, how- tionary election laws, its nominatever, with the language question.
