NEW YORK, June 4 — A large attendance is expected at the conference called to put a united independentsocialist ticket on the New York state ballot. The conference will be held June 13, 14 and 15 at the Great Northern Hotel in New York.

The original call for the conference was issued by a group of prominent individuals including independents and leaders and members of various organized socialist groups. It urged a campaign of socialist opposition to the bi-partisan policies of cold war, witch hunt and suppression of civil rights. The conference call has now

An Editorial

The cave-in of the French Parliament and the imposition of de Gaulle as French premier under threat of the Party ticket in the Novem-Militant; Bert Deck of the extending the army's insurrection in Algeria to France poses a great peril for the French working class.

> Beyond Parliament the insurgent generals in Algeria aim at the liberties and the organizations of the French working class.

> An officer caste, infuriated by defeats handed it by the national independence movement in the colonies, wants to compel the French masses to work, sacrifice; die in its armies, and in general suffer obediently for its dreams of empire and glory. The generals, colonels and captains would not scruple to launch a bloodbath to accomplish their purpose.

de Gaulle's protection, to build up the repressive apparatus at home.

In its huge May 28 demonstration in Paris, in partial strikes and street clashes with the police, the French working class demonstrated its will to fight the fascist menace. It has heroic traditions of revolutionary struggle. Properly organized it would be more than a match for the rabble of frustrated army officers and their hangers-on.

But the workers are unarmed. Their ranks are divided. Their leadership is not mobilizing for struggle but either backs de Gaulle (as in the case of many "Socialists") or pursues the goal of coalition government (as in the case of the CP leaders) with the same type of capitalist Two members of Those who followed the drive in the Militant from week to week know that it wasn't an easy task. From the beginning the Fund Drive ran into the grave problem of mass layoffs and short work-20,000 weeks cutting deeply into the incomes of the membership of a working class party.

The answer the party membership and all the friends of the SWP gave to this problem was to redouble their efforts to raise money on the principle that the last place to cut is on contributions to the socialist cause. Obviously our comrades and friends reasoned: if American capitalism is proving the basic truth of the socialist contention that the system of private profit is a breeder of poverty, war drives, racism and witch-hunting, socialists should become more determined than ever to get their vital message to the people.

This kind of response to the challenge of capitalist depression is, in our opinion, a sign of a new. vitality and a spirit of optimism that is spreading in the ranks of the socialist movement.

We started this drive on March 1 with the idea that 1958 was a year of socialist opportunity; a year for socialists to

Nature of Bonapartism

In February 1934, events took place that were in many ways similar to the ones that have currently brought de Gaulle to power. Then several thousand fascists and royalists, armed with revolvers, clubs and razors; imposed upon the country the reactionary government of Doumergue, under whose protection the fascist bands continued to grow and arm themselves. We reprint below Leon Trotsky's analysis of the Doumergue government from his book, Whither France, as an aid in explaining the present character of the de Gaulle regime. - Ed.

In France the movement from democracy toward Fascism is only in its first stage. Parliament exists, but it no longer has the powers it once had and it will never retrieve them. The parliamentary majority, mortally frightened after February 6, called to power Doumergue, the savior, the arbiter. His government holds itself above Parliament. It bases itself not on the "democratically" elected majority but directly and immediately upon the bureaucratic apparatus, the police and the army. This is precisely why Doumergue can permit no liberty for the civil servants or in general for employes of the state. He needs a docile and disciplined bureaucratic apparatus on whose summit he can maintain himself without danger of falling. The parliamentary majority, scared of the Fascists and the "common front," is forced to bow before Doumergue.

At the present time much is being written about the forthcoming "reform" of the Constitution, on the right to dissolve the Chamber of Deputies, etc. All these questions have only a juridical interest. In the political sense, the question is already solved. . . . The appearance on the arena of armed Fascist bands has enabled finance capital to raise itself above Parliament. In this consists now the essence of the French Constitution. All else is illusion, phraseology or conscious dupery.

The present role of Doumergue (like that of his possible successors, of the type of Tardieu) is nothing new. It is a role analogous to that played, in different circumstances, by Napoleon I and Napoleon III. The essence of Bonapartism consists in this: basing itself on the struggle of two camps, it "saves" the "nation" with the help of a bureaucratic-military dictatorship. Napoleon I represented the Bonapartism of the bourgeoisie's impetuous youth. The Bonapartism of Napoleon III developed when the bourgeoisie was already slightly bald. In the person of Doumergue we meet the senile Bonapartism of capitalist decline.

The Doumergue Government represents the first step of the passage from parliamentarianism to Bonapartism. To keep his balance, Doumergue needs at his right hand the Fascist and other bands which brought him to power. To demand of him that he dissolve the Patriotic Youth, the Croix de Feu, the Camelots du Roi, etc. - not on paper but in reality - is to demand that he cut off the branch upon which he rests.

Temporary oscillations to one side or the other are, of course, possible. Thus, a premature Fascist offensive might provoke a certain shift to the "Left" at the top of the government. Doumergue would temporarily give way not to Tardieu but to Herriot. But in the first place, no one has ever said that the Fascists would attempt a premature coup d'etat. Secondly, a temporary shift to the Left at the top would not change the general course of development. It would only postpone the showdown.

There is no longer any path back to a peaceful democracy. Events are leading inevitably and irresistibly to a conflict between the proletariat and Fascism. (From Whither France, page 9) ence with Gen. de Gaulle. The tary has been tremendously restored some of the workers' conclusion is inescapable: a plot emboldened and has shed all lost confidence — the result of of such duration and connec-pretense of responsibility to the watching the militarists and union federations.

Whether the parliament, of its defense units in every union and political party. These will be the basis of the workers' militia which alone can protect the working class if the generals launch their paratroops and strikebreaking police. If the workers prepare and realize that the ultimate stakes are fascism or workers' rule the active defense can in time pass over to the offensive.

De Gaulle is starting off as the classical type of bonapartist ruler, the self-proclaimed savior of society who, dispensing with democratic forms, rules by decree via the police, army and bureaucracy. A bonapartist ruler actually balances on the antagonistic classes and to maintain his balance and demonstrate his "impartiality" actually deals blows to both right and left. But being a capitalist ruler his blows to the left have much more force than those against the right. But such a regime today can be only transitional. De Gaulle has long legs but they cannot forever span the growing gap between the classes in France.

ITALY, GERMANY, SPAIN

In this direction lies more frustration and ultimate defeat. Is it wrong then to fight for rights won under capitalist democracy? Not at all. Political freedom and the rights of the labor movement must be defended against every attack. But this fight must be waged in political independence from the capitalist class. The workers must be free to advance a program that can truly resolve the crisis of France. For instance, the workers must be free to solve the Algerian "problem" by giving the Algerian people their national indepen-

The SWP and the Soviet Union—A Court Record

(One dramatic refutation of the charge that the Socialist Workers Party is "anti-Soviet (See editorial) is provided by the court record of the 1941 Smith Act prosecution of SWP leaders. In the face of heavy witch-hunt pressure, the defendants utilized the trial to expound their pro-Soviet views. Following are excerpts from the examination of SWP National Chairman James P. Cannon by his attorney, Albert Goldman. -Ed.)

Q. What is the position of the Party on the Soviet Union at present?

PROSECUTOR: I object to that, Your Honor

THE COURT: He may answer that. A: The characterization we make of the Soviet Union as it is today, is of a workers' state, created by the revolution of November 1917, distorted by the bad present regime, and even degenerated, but nevertheless' retaining its basic character as a workers' state, because it is based on nationalized industry, and not on private property. Q: Now, what is the position of the Party towards the defense of the Soviet Union, and why?

A: We are in favor of defending the Soviet Union against imperialist powers for the reason I just gave, because we consider it a progressive development, as a workers' state, that has nationalized industry and has eliminated private capitalism and landlordism. That is the reason we defend it.

Q: That is, you consider the Russian or the Soviet State, a state based on the expropriation of private industry from the capitalists?

A: Yes, the operation of industry as a nationalized industry.

Q: And you are defending that kind of a state? A: Yes

Q: Isn't it a fact that Stalin has killed most all of the so-called Trotskyists in Russia?

A: Yes. We are against Stalin, but not against the Soviet form of industrial production.

The basic political issue motivating trict have run into a grassthe Davis attack is perfectly clear. This is certainly a serious political difference, one that is and will continue to be vigorously debated throughout the REAL REASON radical movement. Brown, Powell will not be strengthened by the Republican nomination. Acceptance of the nomination ties one hand behind his back, since it prevents him from exposing the equal responsibility of both parties for Jim- Crow. It leaves Brown in a position to evade Powell's indictment of the Democratic record by pointing to the equally bad Republican record. If Powell didn't have to take responsibility for the Republicans, Brown would be in the position of trying to defend on its merits the completely indefensible Democratic record.

Thus, while Powell's race provides a very significant expression of the growing anti-Tammany mood in the community, the fact that he has not taken the road of independent struggle means that the job of further developing and concretizing that sentiment re-

Conference Call To Inaugurate a United Independent-Socialist Electoral Ticket in 1958 June 13, 14, 15

"The people of our country are beginning to search for pathways to a better future. They have rallied in increasing numbers against repression. They have begun to roll back the evil known as McCarthyism and have scored signal victories in the courts for civil liberty. The Negro people have embarked on a great effort for full equality. Citizens of all walks of life have joined in protest against the development and testing of nuclear weapons. Throughout the house of labor is heard the repeated demand for an independent political course. The forces for social change in our country are seeking a common meeting ground to present to the people of our country alternatives to a course of greed, brutalization and repression."

The New Richard

By E. F. Loftus

When evaluating Nixon's recent South American fiasco, it should be kept in mind that during the past year, almost as much newsprint has been wasted in selling the U.S. public on the new, clean Nixon as on the "clean" bomb.

It was the new, statesmanlike, scrubbed-up Nixon who was dispatched to rekindle a good neighbor policy by a government that has for the past several years ignored the economic troubles of all South America. In place of policy, they got Dick and Pat.

Nixon's presidential race was to be accelerated by stories of a resolute Richard (with the gallant and photogenic Pat at his side) selling democracy in the face of a few Communist-led demonstrations. Dope stories of CIA "warnings" began the build-up. The "new" Richard was to be a certified red-white-and-blue hero. But the master planners forgot one thing the people of South America who have suffered under dictators supported by the U.S.A.

South America was to provide the veneer of statesman to his white-washing. Nixon's trip had no other purpose; he had no staff, and no authority to negotiate loans or tariff agreements. He was to smile, place wreaths, make well-rehearsed, impromptu talks, and to so dazzle the Latin Americans they would forget their economic difficulties. With his simulated friendliness, that special sincerity his own countrymen have come to know so well, plus Pat, what could go wrong?

Well, everything went wrong. The small "Communist" opposition turned out to be popular demonstrations against U.S. pretenses and policies. The "planners" goofed and they tried to drown out that fact by beating the welcome-drums when the Nixons returned. But the spectacular staged in Washington with school children and government employes released from their confining duties could do little to overcome the spontaneous manifestation of South American anger at U.S. "good neighbor" policies.

That it was Nixon and the policies he stands for that drew South American ire was shown by the fact that the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Leonard Bernstein, played before cheering crowds in Lima, Peru, where Nixon was stoned. In Caracas, where "mobs" smashed the VP's car, Bernstein, a few days earlier, was mobbed too but by/enthusiastic symphony aficionados.

Perhaps, next time the Nixons go abroad they should take their dog Checkers along. This little dog seemed to be an effective prop in this country in 1952 when Nixon had to explain his financial affairs to the American people.

Miriani Puts Ax To Last Detroit Day Nurseries

DETROIT — A broad grin crossed the usually crankylooking face of Mayor Miriani. The nine members of the Common Council heaved sighs of relief. Together, the mayor, elected with CIO support last fall, and the councilmen, six of whom were elected with CIO support, had just won "the battle of the budget." The 1958-59 city budget is now set at 325 million dollars — which rate. The big corporations and banks approve too. They have been advocating a property tax cut, at least for themselves, despite rising welfare and relief costs. But they didn't really expect a direct cut this coming year. Right after his election Miriani had given them a $551,-000 tax cut in the form of a reduction in the tax assessments on their business inventories. Earlier this year he and the Council had further lowered the assessment valuations

However, to keep their promise on taxes, mainly for the benefit of the rich, Miriani and the Council had to break a

"The Young Lions" By Ruth Norton For the first time since World War II, an American movie presents a soldier in the Nazi army as a human being instead of a beast. This is a notable feature of the Young Lions currently showing throughout the country. Because it depicts how Christian, a Nazi officer in World War II, becomes a pacifist, this movie belongs solidly in the ranks of current anti-war films emanating from Hollywood.

The sections of the film portraying an enemy soldier who winds up as a spokesman for peace are what must have bothered Bosley Crowther of the Times when he wrote, "The Young Lions is strangely impositive about totalitarian aggression and all-out war."

There should be no puzzle as to why Hollywood did not make a rabid, patriotic film out of the Young Lions. Hollywood's markets abroad are of ever greater importance because of the pronounced decline of movie-going domestically. No theme has more appeal to people in formerly war-devastated areas of the world than one that taps their anti-war sentiments. In this case the film is pointed directly at the West German market.

There were very few Nazi sympathizers left in Germany when the war ended. The brutality of the dictatorship at home, the enormous toll of casualties, the privations, the military reverses and the utter bankruptcy of German imperialism — all produced a mass revulsion against war that continues in Germany today. A German worker drafted into Hitler's armies, would, of course have provided the best representative of the revolt against Nazism. But inasmuch as disillusionment with the Fascists was
