LABOR UNIONS DEFY MEXICAN CHURCH

By THOMAS J. O'FLAHERTY

FRANK O. LOWDEN, former governor of Illinois, will not be accused of looking for inspiration in foreign countries preparatory to throwing his hat in the ring for the G. O. P. presidential nomination. Lowden went to Denmark, Sweden and Germany to consult with the cows rather than to Russia to consult with the Bolsheviki. That Lowden thinks he knows who's who in Illinois was demonstrated when he invited several hundred Illinois bankers to visit his model farm, where the cows smoke London Life cigarettes and the pigs listen in on the radio. Lucky quad-

WHETHER the bankers sampled Lowden's prize lacteral fluid or something more rare is not public property. But judging from the eulogistic introduction of a banker spokesman, the son-in-law of Pullman's millions will have all the bank burglars in the state behind him if he challenges Coolidge for the nomination. This raises the question: While the bankers are busy boosting Lowden for president who is going to look after the peoples' deposits. If this is read by a professional bank robber he will burst his false face laughing.

AST Sunday was cloudy and dreary Lin Chicago. It was press picnic day for the Workers Party flock of have enough influence with our god to get an even break on the weather. Why the slip up? Ah! Here is the explanation. This is the day (this is written on Sunday) chosen by the pope for a barrage of catholic prayers against the Mexican government. And, of course, as soon as the chorus reached heaven the angels began to weep, and those angels who were washing their feet preparatory to going to bed got excited and dropped the contents of their tubs over Chicago, instead of on Mexico City.

OR perhaps they read a statement issued by S. P. Luzzo, vice-president of the Chicago Building Trades Council, who attributed the action of the Mexican government to the diabolical intrigues of Moscow and "its agents." The angels in righteous wrath wept on us, or at us, and perhaps lorgot to dampen the ardor of very day. Verily, indeed the ways of a union agreement. But the blu heaven are mysterious. ders of heaven does not remedy matters for us. Farmers may welcome summer showers, but picnickers prefer sunshine.

in Many Cities

The International Workers' Aid is mobilizing its entire forces thruout the country for the raising of funds to aid the women and children of the locked out British miners.

On Saturday, August 7, and Sunday. August 8, men, women and young folks will be on the streets and at the house doors asking the support of all workers and their friends in behalf of the brave miners who were locked out on May 1 of this year because they refused a reduction in pay.

Shop Collections. Workers in the shops will take up shop collections. The funds of the International Workers' Aid are being used to feed the children of the counties of Kent and Wales thru the soup kitchens that have been established by the English section of the International Workers' Aid.

In Many Cities. Boston, New York, Philadelphia, New Haven, Hartford, Chicago, Detroit, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and countless smaller cities are ready for the collection drive on the 7th and 8th. Every worker who can possibly give a day, or even a few hours, should hold himself in readiness to serve the British miners. Watch this paper for list of centers where workers should report for duty. I victims were urged.

LONDON, Aug. 2. - President Coolidge has instructed Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to establish connections with various European governments and open discussions with them on the prevalent finance situation in Europe, according to the Geneva correspondent of the Central News.

The Central News correspondent declares that Secretary Mellon informed him of this action by the president in an interview granted at Geneva, while the secretary was enroute to Rome.

The correspondent declares that the secretary refused to discuss the exact nature of the discussions which he had been instructed to open, but it is reported that they will concern European debts.

LONDON, August 2.- The General Council of the Trade Union Congress and the National Executive of the Labor Party of Great Britain, meeting in the house of commons, joined in sending a letter to Governor Alvin T. Fuller of Massachusetts in which they appealed for a new trial for Sacco and Vanzetti. The communication expressed the feeling that the continued postponement of the execution of the two men obviously indicated very considerable doubt in the minds of the authorities themselves as to the justice of their trial and added that acknowledgement of perjury by prominent witnesses since the men were convicted only served to emphasize that widespread feeling. > The sudden renewal of this medieval demand had a certain significance, altho the demand itself was manifestly impossible of realization. It was an announcement to the world that the catholic church was again a world political factor of first-rate importance.

The European social order was in state of flux; long-established institutions were crumbling; monarchies were falling; the triumphant Russian Bolshevik Revolution was proving an rresistible force of attraction for the to live feebly thru a new brief existexploited workers of western Europe. maintaining close contact with wide sections of the population. Is it any wonder that American imperialism opened its arms to the catholic church? Is it not quite understandable that mililons of American dollars should be poured into the publicity fund of a eucharistic congress at Chicago, that ostentatious government honors should be paid to the attending cardinals, that the entire press of the land should be mobilized for the event and that catholic, protestant and Jew alike should sing its praises?

The medieval church has found a modern social basis, with ramifications reaching into the new world as wel as into the old.

So it is that, in the twentieth century, a conflict between church and state becomes a tremendous thing, with imposing forces mobilized on each side and the reverberations of struggle echoing loudly far beyond the borders of the Mexican republic.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, July 19 (By Inprecorr) .- The court resumed session today. Day before yesterday all the papers reported that today's session would begin with the examination of Stefan Vagi. As a result hundreds of workers assembled in front of the court building and demanded admission. They were dispersed by the Hungarian Workers' Problem. Altho there was not a worker in the audience, strained tension prevailed in the courtroom as Vagi was led into court. Vagi stated that he had been a member of the social democratic party for a generation. "The problem of getting power had never been discussed in the party before the war.' began Vagi. 'In feudal-agrarian Hungary the working class had had neither suffrage nor the right to organize. They fought for the right of suffrage. The Hungarian proletariat established ts revolutionary traditions in this struggle. The peasant masses also fought heroically for democratic rights. After the revolution it was not the social democratic party but history itself which raised the question of power. It is nonsense to maintain that the revolution was the work of a few agitators. The establishment of the workers' rule was the historical deed of the Hungarian proletariat.

"I am no Communist," declared Vagi, "but I stood for the platform of Parkins, of unflinching class struggle. Viewed from this standpoint, we are also the executors of the incomplete bourgeois revolution, and just as I do not disayow the bourgeois revolution Victoriano Huerta in power. Religion plays only a secondary role being of course two entirely different things. What we are witnessing is a phase of the Mexican revolution. It is customary in Mexico nowadays to speak of the revolutionary period as embracing the years 1911-1920, but actually the revolution did not begin with the overthrow of Don Porfirio Diaz any more than it was terminated by the overthrow of Venustiano Carranza. The beginnings of the bourgeois revolution in Mexico date back to the so-called "Ayutla revolution." the 1857. The struggle of those years was against army, church and landed aris-

THE famous Reform Laws and the constitution of 1857, carried thru under the leadership of Benito Juarez, severed once for all the official relationship between church and state They also abolished monasteries and convents, prohibited the church from owning property and secularized public education.

During the long years of the Diaz dictatorship, however, the church slowly regained much of its former power. The constitution of 1857 was still nominally in effect but most of its anti-clerical provisions, like many others, became dead letters.

With the popular revolution against Diaz the modern period in Mexico begins. To the revolutionary movement was added a new force: the agrarian revolution, the struggle of the poor peasants for the land. Moreover, as the rapid stages of revolution from 1911 on succeeded each other, the upheaval ceased to be entirely capitalist in the classic sense. A militant proletariat emerged, and peasants, workers not only economically but socially and and petty bourgeoisie became the dominant social forces in the revolutionary movement-more or less under the uncertain hegemony of the pettybourgeoisie.

WRITE AS YOU FIGHT!

WHEN estates began to be partitioned out to peasant communities and nationalist legislation began to be projected, American imperialism took alarm. As soon as the Mexican people began to lay hands on the oil question and on the question of foreign economic domination in general. Wall Street became the outstanding enemy of the Mexican revolution, allying itself with every reactionary element in Mexico, from Felix Diaz to the catholic church.

Thruout this period the church remained an active rallying center for reaction in Mexico. In the name of religion, it mustered "the faithful" for one political coup after another. It openly and covertly supported counterrevolution. It even stooped to treason against the national interests, engaging in countless intrigues with the representatives of foreign capital.

TT was natural and necessary, there fore, that the constitution of 1917 which was a revolutionary nationalist constitution aimed particularly at the foreign monopolists of Mexico's oil and other resources should strike hard blows at the power of the church. President Calles is the outstanding

Filipinos in California Appreciate Aid Received in Fight for Liberation

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TWENTY-THREE Filipinos living in or near Santa Monica, California, signed their names to a declaration just received reading as

"We, the undersigned natives of the Philippine Islands wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation for your masterly editorials, published in The DAILY WORKER, in defense of liberty and a demand for justice for the Philippines and its peoples.

"It gives us great courage to know that in this great 'Land of the Free' and 'Home of the Brave,' there are some who put justice and equality above the dollar sign. Yours for the Day of United Humanity."

In every large American city there are Filipino colonies that hold themselves somewhat aloof from other races and nationalities. The Pacific Coast, especially California, has a considerable Filipino population.

It is safe to say that the great percentage of these Filipinos are workers. There are a few professionals among them, but not many. Most of these Filipinos are also young, the youth that has come to this county of great "opportunities." Many of them have been or are stu-

All of these characteristics,youth, education, workers .- are the best beginnings these Filipinos could possibly have to aid them to get in touch with the only element in this country that can be aroused to take a stand for the independence of the Philippines. That element is the American working class that suffers under the same tyranny that is crushing the Filipino masses.

Manuel Quezon, president of the Filipino senate, declares that the islanders feel, with General Leonard Wood as governor general of the islands, that they are living under a military dictatorship. This is the same dictatorship of the exploiters that rules over American labor, that stepped out into the open in the 1919 steel strike, when this same General Wood led the army in the Gary, Indiana, steel zone against the steel strikers.

General Wood is just one of many links, continually growing more numerous, that shows to the workers. both in the United States and in the Philippine Islands that their interests are identical.

The American Federation of Labor has declared that:

"We respectfully petition and urge the congress of the United States to forthwith grant the earnest prayer and petitions of the Filipinos—the right to exercise in full, liberty, freedom and self-government."

That is the labor officialdom speaking. The rank and file workers must be spurred to greater resentment against the enslavement of their brothers of the Far Pacific.

It is the duty of the Filipinos living in this country to act as that spur. They can do it by spreading propaganda telling the truth about the Coolidge-Wood tyranny in the

They can do even better work if they will become affiliated, wherever possible, with the American trade union movement, if they will link themselves organizationally with the Workers (Communist) Party and help build the Labor Party.

They must also work for the closer affiliation of the organized labor movement in the United States with the labor unions in the islands.

There are about 15,000 Filipinos in the United States, to be found in such scattered cities as Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle, New York City, Omaha, Detroit, Cleveland, Baltimore and Minneapolis. About 7,000 are students, working their way thru American schools, and planning to return to the islands. It may be taken for granted that every one of these is an advocate of independence.

Few workers in this country today realize the fact that a growing colonial empire is developing under the stars and stripes, and that the Philippine Islands constitute the richest part of that empire, thereby making it a valuable and treasured source of loot.

The conditions of labor in the colonies directly affect the labor struggle in the homeland. Already the American Federation of Labor fears the competition of cheaper Filipino labor. It is, therefore, to the self-interest of American labor to help raise the standards of living, not only of the Filipino, but of all oriental peoples.

The Filipino workers must learn, even as American workers are learning, that they cannot depend on any other class to achieve their emancipation. The latest news sent out by the press agents accompanying Colonel Carmi Thompson, Coolidge's eye, on his tour of the Philippines, is that a native "lawyer and a business man." have informed the president's representative of their emphatic opposition to independence at this time.

It is to be expected that such traitors will turn up. The ruling class always has gold to purchase them. It does purchase them.

The British Empire has purchas ed them in India, Egypt and else where. The American Empire buys them in Hawaii, the Philippines, Cuba, Porto Rico, or in the semi-subject nations of Latin and South America.

The DAILY WORKER fights for the Filipino workers as part of its struggle for the whole world's workng class.

It puts special emphasis on the liberation movement in the Philippines, because that struggle is the special concern of the workers of the United States and The DAILY WORKER exerts every effort to make them realize that fact. May the courage that The DAILY WORKER inspires in the Filipino workers resident in this country encourage them to join in this effort. The working class must achieve unity in its war against the enemy capitalist class.

STEEL AND IRON COMBINE FORMED FOR WORLD GRIP

U. S. and Continent to Fight the British

PARIS, August 2.—After negotiations of six months, in which differences between the different interests were ironed out, the rumored giant combination of iron and steel interests in which the American steel interests will have a large share thru recently acquired holdings in Germany, has been settled upon and the artciles will probably be signed here August 12.

A final business meeting of the participants will be held in Luxemburg August 8, according to the International Chamber of Commerce. The participants are Germay, France, Belgium and Luxemburg, and it is likely to bring in the iron and steel interests of Poland, Czecho-Slovakia and Austria.

British Have to Fight.

The British are left out of the pic ture in this great combine, and indeed may have the fight of their lives to maintain British iron and steel in the international market.

All competition is removed within the boundaries of the respective countries and the foreign market is divided into spheres on the basis of capacity of production. France has a large quota and is in a favorable situation, owing to her getting Alsace and Lorraine back during the war.

Methodists Think No Liquor Used in U. S.: Dry Europe Could Pay

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—America is prosperous because it no longer spends its earnings for liquor, says the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals. The board, in a press statement, argues that the war did not cause the contrast between the economic condition of Europe with that in America, but that the annual drink bill of the American people, which was about $2,438,000,000 before the war and would reach $5,-000,000,000 in this year's prices, was the burden that kept America back with the old world.

Weird Economic Theory.

"Europe was perhaps able to deal with its drink loss before it sustained its war injuries," says the board, "but the continuation of these losses on top of the war losses makes a situation impossible with which to deal. Great Britain at present is spending a little short of $2,000,000,000 a year on drink. France was in 1921 spending 13,500,000,000 francs for liquor. ## MILWAUKEE TO GET RELIEF FOR PASSAIC STRIKE

19 Organizations Have Delegates at Meet

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 2.-A conference for relief of Passaic textile workers was held here in the Labor Lyceum, 759 Garfield street. Twentynine delegates attended, representing 19 organizations. This did not include the labor unions represented in the Central Trades & Labor Assembly which is carrying on its own relief campaign among affiliated organiza

The conference was addressed by Rebecca Grecht, field organizer for the General Relief Committee.

Relief Urgently Needed.

Leo Khzycki, general organizer of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, who had just returned from a visit to Passaic, told of the heroism of the striking textile workers, confronted by daily brutal police onslaughts. He emphasized the plight of the children of the strikers, and praised the splendid work carried on by the General Relief Committee in its gathering and distribution of funds.

Many books of milk and meal seals. as well as contribution lists and pictorials were distributed. It was decided to call a second relief conference on August 19 and to invite all labor unions of the city to send delegates.

An executive committee of thirteen was elected, with A. J. Piepenhagen, manager of the Milwaukee joint board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, as chairman, and M. Mankoff, also of the joint board, as secretary-treasurer. The committee was instructed to make immediate arangements for #### Elect Executive Committee.

UNIONS TO AID PASSAIC STRIKE VAGI DERIDES LOCOMOTIVE ENGINEERS URGE

PASSAIC, N. J., August 2.—The Locomotive Engineers' Journal, in its uly issue thru an editorial makes the following appeal for strike relief:

"Can such industrial autocracy, coupled with unashamed command of the police and sheriff's offices, be tolerated here in America? Are we to solve industrial problems by policemen's clubs, employers' czarism and Raps Social - Democrats workers' starvation? That is not the lesson of the railroad industry, where the ways of peace have been substituted for the ways of war. Every force in America which looks toward industrial progress and social well-being and that means every labor union, every church and public-minded group, should bring pressure to bear immediately on Governor Moore, their United States senators, and their related organizations in Passaic to bring about a just settlement. In the meantime the strikers and their children suffer keenly in their fight for industrial justice. Contributions addressed to the General Strike Committee, 743 Main Avenue, Passaic, N. J., will help relieve

AGITATORS AND PROPAGANDISTS ARE NEEDED IN THE STRUGGLE FOR THE LIBERATION OF LABOR

NOTE: - This is the fourth article in a series on the development of The DAILY WORKER into a mass organ of the left wing of the American labor movement. It will interest those anxious to function effectively as agitators and propagandists in the struggle for the emancipation of labor.

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

THE "On to Moscow" subscription drive of The DAILY WORKER, just ended, has proved above all things that there are not enough DAILY WORKER builders in the land. Without builders, loyal to their press. The DAILY WORKER cannot achieve the goal we all hope for it, of great influence and prestige among America's tens of millions of bitterly exploited workers and farmers. The resolution on The DAILY WORKER, adopted by the party lenum, declared:

"No matter how excellent a publicaion our party organ may be, it cannot carry far unless the driving force of the party and of the left wing is

It may be said in all candor that neither the party organization nor the forces of the left wing, small tho they are, supported this subscription drive It is only by facing the bitter truth that the foundation can be laid for better results in the future.

WHERE the party and the left wing supported the drive there results were achieved, as in New York City, Pittsburgh and Detroit.

Where the party organization and he left wing turned their backs on cago, there, of course, it was impossible to secure results, except thru the strenuous efforts of individual comrades.

But that is only part of the story. Active and energetic officials can get some results even with inactive members. An active membership can get some results in spite of the inertia of officials. But, of course, the ideal sitcratic nominee for governor, and stat- uation develops thru officials and rank ing that the people of Texas "have and file working harmoniously and

This can only be achieved when directed toward the same goal, with the same desire to reach that goal.

First. The common outlook must be the building of the party and the left wing press, The DAILY WORKER. Many members and officials do not yet accept this task seriously. Others completely ignore it. They have a wrong direction, toward the rear, not TOWARD THE FRONT!"

Second. The goal must be the mass press. Not a DAILY WORKER with tens of thousands of circulation, but with hundreds of thousands of readers; ves, even running into a million.

Third. The goal can only be reached thru struggle, thru the ceaseless efforts of thousands, tens of thousands, a hundred thousand tireless agitators, undaunted propagandists, always on the job.

THE whole problem, therefore, simmers down to the plain fact that our officials, and members, in sufficient numbers, do not function in the role of agitators and propagandists, which is the most important work of our movement right now.

The honor roll of press builders, made up of builders who secured 1.000 or more points, resulting from the getting of 10 yearly "subs." contained only 35 names. It should have contained thousands. The big trait about the leaders among the press builders is that they ake their work seriously. They are workers. I know, because I have met Arthur Smith, New York City; John down the list. Sarah Victor showed telling the last party plenum "How ve do it in Detroit." W. H. Scarville, in Pittsburgh, has the right idea when e works to develop Builders out of all the other comrades. The results tell the story. Here they are: Sarah Victor's Detroit got points than Chicago, while the Detroit district nearly equalled the showing of the whole Chicago district.

Scarville's Pittsburgh district did almost twice as well as the Cleveland district, that worked under practically similar conditions, except that it did not produce a Scarville. Nor did it turn out a John Kaspar, who put East Pittsburgh, Pa., on the man with more points than the total scored by the entire cities of Cleveland. Toledo, Buffalo, Kansas City, St. Louis. Milwaukee, St. Paul or Philadelphia, he last being the nation's third large est city.

THESE are sufficient enough and perhaps a few ideas, to keep those who read them busy for a little while considering their own role in the left wing of the American working class. Some more facts will be considered in common outlook, but it is in the an early issue.

letarian dictatorship of Hungary. "After the fall of the proletarian dic tatorship the blackest night began for the Hungarian proletariat. The white terror raged thruout the land." The president calls Vagi to order and instructs him to speak in his own

Vagi continued fearlessly: "Seventy thousand prisoners were thrown into the dungeons and numberless martyrs were sent to eternity." The president again called Vagi to order. Vagi: "Even at that time I already protested against the attitude of the Hungarian social democracy. Social democratic leaders participated as ministers in the first regime of blood They gave their assent to extraordi nary courts and internment. The so cial democratic leaders thus became accomplices of the most appalling white terror. Altho the Hungarian proletariat kept on fighting under the most dreadful white terror, kept true to its revolutionary traditions and offered heroic resistance, the leaders of the Hungarian social democratic party continued their betrayal of the class struggle.

"Altho the brutal white terror sienced every liberation movement and endeavors to exterminate the proletariat, the leaders of the social democracy at every decisive moment de clared their readiness to support the counter-revolution. I can state with a clear conscience, without fear of exaggeration, that the Hungarian social democratic leaders are the surest and most reliable supports of the counterrevolution.

"As a revolutionary Marxist, I could not stand aside and remain passive while the Hungarian proletariat, which them all: Paul C. Reiss, of Los An- had remained resolute even during the geles, Cal.; Sarah Victor, Detroit, most terrible reign of white terror, was Mich.; Leo Kling, New York City: being slaughtered. I saw how the agricultural workers and poorer peas-Kaspar, East Pittsburgh, Pa.; W. H. ants were cheated by the so-called Scarville, Pittsburgh, Pa., and so on agricultural reform. Greater villainy was never committed than the be er earnestness when she insisted on trayal of the rural proletariat by the Hungarian ruling class with the agri cultural reform. I saw how the ruling class enriched itself shamelessly with the aid of this 'agricultural reform. saw how the so-called patriots loud mouthly gabbled of the disgraceful Trianon peace treaty and of the integrity of Hungary, and at the same time sold the country and its sover eignty to foreign capitalists thru the reconstruction plan.'

Reconstruction in Hungary. "'Reconstruction' plunged Hungary into unprecedented misery. Not only is the Hungarian proletariat perishing in starvation and wretchedness, but the city middle class and the so-called intelligentsia are being proletarized. Month after month hundreds seek an escape from 'reconstructed' Hungary thru suicide. Even under these circumstances the social democratic leaders were true to Bethlen and followed him as a shadow follows light. They concluded a pact with him. During reconstruction, they have concluded a truce with him, and attained world records in history in the field of berayal in matters great and small. Together with the decay of the Hungarian counter-revolution the mentality of the social democratic leaders has also decayed more and more.

Fear of Revolution.

"The counter-revolution is only held together by the fear of the revolution. nothing so much as of the revolutionary stirrings of the proletariat. After guy rope of a huge derrick caused the open compacting with Bethlen was no decapitation of one worker and the longer possible, the social democratic severe injury of six others at the new party formed a bloc with the democrats who were under the leadership of the legitimists. While Horthy and had been installed on the auditorium the awakening Hungarians were turnlevel, a story above the street, and its ing Hungary into a vast cemetery, the first load was lifted from a stone pit social democratic leaders wallowed in the slough of corruption of the white The guy rope broke at this point and terror and enriched themselves with the left-overs of the various Panama

The entire Copenhagen Report his matter—for Hungary is not only the classic land of Panama scandals. but also of lawbreakers-as we could According to information received by not hold a congress where this question could have been decided."

The President: "Why did you say that the socialist labor party wants to put the slow, wobbling locomotive of the Hungarian labor movement back Need New Leadership,

Vagi: "Because the social demo crats repress every mass movement; because the social democrats have infected the workers with cowardice for years. Five thousand four hundred years would be insufficient for the Hungarian social democratic leaders to carry on an earnest campaign even for the right of suffrage. That is why the Hungarian proletariat is the most oppressed people in the world, and that is why I said that we need other locomotives and other locomotive engineers and another track."

GREEN INVITED TO VISIT SOVIET UNION; COUNCIL DENOUNCES MOVE: OTHER OFFICIALS WILLING TO GO

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2-(FP)-William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, was urgently invited, by special letter, to join the proposed trip to Europe of a group of American labor executives which was to include in its itinerary the industrial centers of Britain, France, Germany, Italy and the Soviet Union. He was further urged, if he could not go, to name someone to go in his stead.

tional Association of Machinists, in response to the press statement issued at Cincinnati which began with the sentence, cred-machinists, Noonan of the electrical ited to the executive council's press agent: "Efforts of the soviet government of Russia to have a labor whitewashing committee sent from the United States to that country were condemned by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor at its meeting in Cincinnati this week.'

Green Answers.

Green seems to have replied to this letter of invitation, and in a tone far more cordial than is reflected by the council's press agent. The council adopted a declaration, evidently written by someone other than Green, in which it not only declared its opposition to any plan for visiting Soviet Russia by labor executives not sent there by the council or the A. F. of L. convention, but openly challenged the good faith of the promoters of the

It is well known that when A. A. Purcell, British fraternal delegate to the A. F. of L. last year, who headed the British Trades Union Congress delegation to Russia in 1924, spoke in this country for Russian inquiry, a cash fund was collected at the meetings which he addressed. This money was banked by Timothy Healy of the Stationary Firemen and Oilers' Interhational Union as the start of a fund to send an American labor group to inquire into the success or failure of Soviet Russia under the proletarian dictatorship.

No Communists.

In the letter addressed to Green it was made plain that executives of five or six big labor organizations had agreed to go, under the rule that no socialist or Communist should be in the party. It was further understood that various labor organizations would be asked to contribute funds to the enterprise. The whole plan hinged on getting men to visit Europe, to com pare conditions in Russia with condiions in other European countries, and o make sure that these investigators re not radicals.

Labor Notables Agree. was this conception of the plan which led Sheppard of the railway conductors, Manion of the railway telegraphers, Shea of the locomotive remen, Johnston and Hewitt of the workers (who was suggested as chairman) and Ziegler of the railway clerks to consider making the trip. W. Jett Lauck, former secretary of the war labor board and national famous industrial economist, was to make one of the party. These men were apparently astonished at the council's declaration that "we seriously doubt the good faith of such a self-constituted commission," in view of the earnestness with which Green had been invited to

No Complaint on Bankers.

The council, ignoring the letter to Green, which was preceded by many efforts to discuss the matter with him personally, warned all labor unions against contributing funds to send a "self-styled" labor commission to Europe, and at the same time asked where the money was to come from to enable labor executives to make the journey. This combination of a ban upon foreign and American labor money likewise astonished the men who were thinking of taking the trip. They were more surprised because the council raised no complaint against the journey of American bankers, financial editors or manufacturers such as Vauclain of the Baldwin Locomotive Works to Russia to report on the profits to be made there.

The answer to the riddle is seen by some of the disappointed ones in the final section of the council's statement, wherein it says its opposition will continue "until such time as the A. F. of L., thru its legally constituted tribunals, creates a commission and clothes it with authority to visit Russia and other European countries."

U. S. Admits Soviet Strength.

On the day this statement reached Washington, the United States board of tax appeals issued its decision that Russian imperial bonds are worthless and have been worthless since 1920. In that year, it decides, the soviet government established itself beyond question, and "it became certain that the soviets were to be in a position to enforce and make good their decree repudiating the debts of the imperial Russian government." Wrangel, last of counter-revolutionaries, was suppressed in 1920.

MOSCOW (By Mail).—A dispatch from Peking reports severe fighting in the Shansi province between insurgent peasants and detachments of Wu-Pei-Fu's army, commanded by Lu-Chen-Hun, in charge of the southern and central parts of the province. The peasants, armed with all sorts of improvised weapons, and in some cases even with regular modern arms, are chasing the Lu-Chen-Hun soldiers from the villages.

In the Kushi region (Honan province) 4,000 armed peasants issued two demands to the officers of the Lu-Chen-Hun forces: (1 To stop illegal attacks, and (2) to prohibit arbitrary incursions of soldiers into the villages. Both these demands have been met by the officers to the satisfaction of the peasants.

WEST PORTAL, Colo., August 2.—Rescue crews are working feverishly n an effort to reach five men buried beneath tons of rock and dirt, two and one half miles underground from this point.

The men were caught in a fall of hundreds of tons of rock, while working in soft dirt in the main heading of the Moffat tunnel at noon Friday. H. T. Thompson, one of the six workers to be rescued alive, died Friday night. Be fore he expired he begged the workers to not give up.

No sound of life has come from the pile of rocks under which the men are buried, and officials in charge of the rescue work, believe there is but a small chance of finding them alive.

SOVIET UNION'S EXPORTS TO U.S. ARE INCREASING

Russia Imports Much Industrial Machinery

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.-American rade with the Soviet Union during he first six months of 1926 showed a turnover of $33,939,928, a decrease of 8 per cent from the same period of 1925, according to figures of 14 trading organizations, gathered by the Russian information bureau. The turnover is about 50 per cent higher than the pre-war rate of trade.

American Exports.

American exports to the Soviet Union for the period were $25,962,982, as compared with $52,610,645 for the same period last year, while imports were $7.976.925, as compared with $6. 169.091 last year. Import figures for this year, however, do not include manganese ore, estimated at about $4,000,000, and furs imported by one large trading company, estimated at about $1,500,000. Thus imports virtually doubled over the same period #### of last year. Sharp Decline.

The sharp decline in American exports to the Soviet Union, upwards of 50 per cent, was explained as follows by Harold Kellock, statistical director of the Russian information bureau.

Need More Machinery. "During the first six months of 1925 he Soviet Union was compelled to purchase flour valued at nearly $18. 000,000 in the United States, owing to the poor harvest of the previous ummer. Such purchases ceased this year. Cotton purchases this year, valned at $12,000,000, were less by $14,-500,000 than last year. On the other hand, Soviet purchases of agricultural machinery increased from $3,415,000 ast year to $6,053,650 this year, oil well machinery from $690,000 to $702,-529, and other industrial machinery rom $2,516,000 to $3,700,642.

German Imports Increase. "Despite these gains, however, American exports to the Soviet Union have fallen back this year relatively, while Soviet imports from Germany and England have gained proportionately. Germany, in particular, is now making every effort to regain her supremacy in Russian trade, and it is fair to assume that under present conditions American manufacturers will find Germany an increasingly difficult competitor in that market, save for such things as tractors and other specialized machinery, in which American mass production has distanced competition.' Some of the principal American imports from the Soviet Union were furs, about $6,000,000; manganese. about $4,000,000; casings, $906,124; fibers, $629,208; bristles, $538,876; flax, $418,663; licorice root, $317,892; hides, $242,572.

PASSAIC, N. J., Aug. 2. —(FP)— Sylvia and Esther Kleiman of New York City, who were arrested on Sunday, July 25, when the police here broke up a procession of 350 fur workers who had come from Manhattan to express sympathy for the textile strikers, were fined $25 each for disturbing

Police Judge Davidson voiced his indignation against the visit of the furriers, asserting that they came to stir up trouble. He had no criticism for the brutal clubbing of many of the furriers by the cops. Eva Kleiman, a sister of the two girls who were fined, was held for trial later. She is charged with striking a policeman.

Plan Great Concert for Relief

To raist funds for the purchase of milk all summer for the children of Passaic strikers, a great ballet and sympany concert is to be staged Aug 28 in Coney Island Stadium under the auspices of a group of prominent citizens here who have been investigating conditions in the textile strike zone Various dancers and musicians have volunteered to take part, most of them widely known and some of them worldfamous, according to Ludwig Landy 799 Broadway, who is treasurer of the project.

Aid Campaign.

The Stadium has already been en gaged. It will seat 25,000 persons, and Lundy says that the committee expects that every seat will be sold-in view of the widening interests in the Passaic situation. The Milk Fund Committee includes: Samuel Untermyer, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, Paxton Hibben, Susan Brandeis, Rev. Edmund B. Chaffee, Elizabeth Glendover Evans, James P. Warbasse, John Nevin Sayre, Rev. # AUTO DEALERS UNITE TO LOCK OUT UNIONISM

Secret Circular Reveals Boss Combination

By LAURENCE TODD. Federated Press.

WASHINGTON, August 2, -(FP)-Evidence that a nation-wide lock-out of union men in automobile shops and garages is being launched by the distributors' combine, known as the National Automobile Dealers' Association, is pouring into the grand lodge headquarters of the International Association of Machinists, in Washing-

This combination of dealers is working in complete harmony, in this attack, with the automobile chamber of commerce, which is the combination of manufacturers. In this latter combination General Motors is the largest single corporation. General Motors has just announced record-breaking earnings of $93,285,674 for the first half of 1926, which means a profit of $17.33 per share of common stock. It is determined to solve the labor probem in the automobile industry along Judge Gary's lines by exterminating unionism.

Work In Unison.

The Dealers' Association has recenty shown its power in Joliet and Chicago Heights, Ill., and in Ithaca, Corning and Elmira, N. Y. In Joliet the dealers all mailed identical letters to the Machinists' lodge at the same hour, announcing cancellation of their agreement with the union and declaring they would henceforth operate open shops. In Chicago Heights and in the three cities in New York state the union men in the garages were told they could give up their union cards or their jobs. In Chicago Heights the dealers employed gunmen, but the locked out men have put up a hard

Secret Circular.

A secret circular issued as Bulletin No. 18 by the N. A. D. A. on July 9, after devoting a paragraph to warning the dealers that a leakage of this secret information has occurred, describes an alleged meeting in Cincinnati, with President Green of the American Federation of Labor as the speaker. Green says no such meeting was held.

"The meeting," says the report of the combine's detective which is issued as being true, "held in A. F. of L. hall, June 25, opened by Green at 2 p. m., was a closed session. Eleven ties of the organization. The purpose officers were on the rostrum and a total of 87 present.

Cal Asks New Term Thru Unpopular Men

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2. - Hard-boiled republicans who know the way to bamboozle the voters, are disturbed at the bungling tactics of Coolidge in opening his campaign for re-nomina tion. They gloomily relate that Coolidge is picking the most unpopular people to voice his ambition for another term from his home in the Adirondacks

Have the "Evil Eye."

Senator Fess of Ohio is one of the 'evil eye" tribe. Fess led the administration's fight for the substitute bill on farm relief, and from Coolidge's home talks airly of the populari ty of Coolidge out west as being the basis for another term for Cal.

But the visit of Richard Washbourn Child to Coolidge's fishing camp and his eulogy of Coolidge as deserving of a secnd term is still worse. Child 2—"A Moscow Diary," by Anna is a hot partisan of fascism, is endless in his praises of Mussolini, who admitted his responsibility for the murder of Matteotti.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

J. Arnold Ross, oil operator, formerly Jim Ross, teamster, is unsuccessful in signing a lease with property holders at Beach City, Cal., because of intrigues of other operators and quarrels among the holders. While he is at Beach City, Bunny, his thirteen-year-old son, meets Paul Watkins, slightly older. Paul has run away from home. His father is a poor rancher in the San Elido Valley who is a "Holy Roller." Paul goes away to make his living on the road and Bunny goes about learning the oil business from his Dad who is bringing in a well at Prospect Hill. Dad was working hard and Bunny suggests a quali hunting trip to the San Elido Valley. Dad agrees and shortly they arrive at the Watkins ranch and pitch their camp. In hunting for quail they find oil oozing out of the ground and Dad wheedles the sale of the ranch out of old Watkins and also arranges to secretly purchase adjacent lands. Paul's little sister, Ruth, and Bunny become friends. Bunny starts to high school at Beach City. With plenty of money and social standing he enters into the life of the school. His Dad warns him of dangers, tobacco, drink and women—a little bashfully on the latter. He falls in love with another student, Rose Taintor. In the meantime Dad's oil business grows rapidly. The World War begins and Dad, along with other capitalists, benefits by selling oil to both belligerents. Christmas holidays come and Dad and Bunny go quail hunting on their new preserve. Bunny meets Ruth again. Ruth tells him that Paul sent her a book that spoke against the bible and that her Dad caught her reading it and whaled her. It was the "Age of Reason." Bunny arranges for Paul to come and live with Ruth on a nearby ranch. Paul had been living with a lawyer who took a liking to him and bequathed his library to Paul when he died. Paul "has it out" with his "holy roller" father who scorns him as unfaithful. His brother Eli is a hopeless religious fanatic, subject to fits. religious fanatic, subject to fits.

Next morning they set forth after trout; and on the way they is a hot partisan of fascism, is endless stopped to see Mr. Hardacre. Before they went in, Dad cautioned Bunny, "Now don't you say a word, and don't make any faces." Jist let me handle this." They entered, and Mr. Hardacre said that he had an offer from young Bandy, speaking for his father, to sell the ranch for twenty thousand dollars. Bunny's heartleaped, and it was well that Dad had warned him, for he wanted to cry out, "Take it, Dad! Take it!" But he caught himself, and sat rigid, while Dad said, "Holy smoke, what does the fellow take us for?"

Mr. Hardacre explained there was about twenty acres of good land on this tract; and Dad said all right, call that a hundred an acre, and the improvements, say four thousand, that meant young Bandy was trying to soak them fourteen dollars an acre for his thousand acres of rocks. He must think he had a sucker on his

"To tell the truth, Mr. Ross," said the agent, "he knows you're an oil man, and he thinks you're going to drill this tract."

"All right," said Dad. "You jist tell him to hunt round and find somebody to drill his own tract, and if he gets any oil. I'll drill mine. Meantime, the land I got now will raise all the quail the law will let me shoot in a season."

The end was that Dad said he would pay twelve thousand cash, and otherwise he'd forget it; and after they had got into the car and started the engine, Bunny whispered, "Gee whiz, Dad, aren't you taking a chance?" But Dad said, "You let him stay in pickle a while. I got all the land I can drill right now."

"But Dad, he might get someone else to drill it!"

"Don't vou worry! You want that land, because you got a and underscored the consummate ful- hunch; but nobody else has got any hunches around here, and young Bundy'll get tired after he's tried a while. Let's you and

So they went, and drew beautiful cold shiny trout out of a little mountain lake, and late in the evening they got back to the Bascum place, and Paul fried the fish, and the three of them had a generous supper, and afterwards Dad smoked a cigar and asked Paul all sorts of questions about science. Dad said he wished he had-a got that kind of education when he was young, that was a sort of stuff worth knowing; why didn't Bunny study biology and physics, instead of letting them fill his head up with Latin and poetry, and history business about old kings and their wars and their mistresses, that wasn't a bit of use to

Next morning they said good-bye to Paul, and went back into the mountains, and spent most of the day getting fish; and then they set out for Beach City, and got in just about bed-time Bunny went back to school, and his new duties as treasurer for the base-ball team; and Dad set to work putting four more wells on the Armitage tract, and three on the Wagstaff tract. And meantime the nations of Europe had established for themselves two lines of death, extending all the way across the continent: and millions of men, as if under the spell of some monstrous enchantment, rushed to these lines to have their bodies blown to pieces and their life-blood poured out upon the ground. The newspapers told about battles that lasted for months, and the price of petroleum products continued to pile up fortunes for J. Arnold Ross.

Summer was here, and Bertie had plans for her brother. Bertie was now a young lady of eighteen, a brilliant, flashing, creature—she picked out clothing shiny enuf for a circus dancer. If Bertie got a dress of purple or carmine or orange or green, why then, mysteriously, there were stockings and shoes, and a hat end gloves and even a hand-bag of the same shade; Dad said she would soon be having sport-cars to match. Dad was grimly humorous about the stacks of bills, and not a little puzzled by this splendid young butterfly he had helped to hatch out. Aunt Emma said the child was entitled to her "fling" and so Dad paid the charges, but he stood as solid as Gibralter against Bertie's efforts to push him into her social maelstrom. By golly, no-he was scared to death of them high muckymucks, and especially the women, when they glared at him through their law-nets, or whatever they called them—he felt the size of a potato-bug. What could he say to people that didn't know an under-reamer from a sucker-rod rotator?

This vulgar attitude had been taken up by Bunny, who thought it was "smart"—so his sister jeered. Of course a young lady of eighteen hardly condescends to be aware of the existence of a kid of sixteen; but there were younger brothers and sisters of Bertie's rich friends, and she wanted Bunny to scrape the oil from underneath his finger nails, and come into this fashionable world, and get a more-worth while girl than Rosie Taintor. Bunny, always curious about new things, tried it for a while, and had to confess that these ineffable rich young persons didn't interest him very much; he couldn't see that they knew anything, or could do anything special. Their talk was all about one another, and they had so many cryptic allusions and so much home-made slang that it amounted almost to a new language. Bunny didn't like any of them well enough to be interested in deciphering it, and he would rather put on his oil clothes and drive out to the roughneck," he would help the cathead-men and the tooldressers to scrape out the mass of sand and ground-up rock that came out with the mud, and that was forever choking the way to the sump-hole.

Meantime Bunny was thinking, and pretty soon he had a scheme. "Dad," he said, "what about that cabin we were going and to build at Paradise?"

"Well, what?" asked Dad.

"Paul writes that Ruth has come to stay with him. So next fall, when we want to go after quail, there won't be any place for us. Let's go up there now, and have a holiday, and build that cabin now."

Page Senator Borah!

We have another job worthy of the steel of the brass-lunged senator from Idaho.

In a recent issue of the Norfolk Journal and Guide, a Negro paper published in Norfolk, Virginia-that state so justly famous for the elegancy of its lily white aristocracy and for being the birthplace of Woodrow Wilson-we find two news items that should make people sit up and think.

News item number 1: The last general assembly of Virginia passed a law making it unlawful for fraternal insurance companies with white officers to insure Negro members. Thousands of Negroes in the state are insured in such companies and many of them have yet to learn that the policies that represent the nickels and dimes they could ill afford are not worth a French franc. Thus is the noble Nordic saved from contamination by the touch of a Negro hand, but we dare say the noble Nordic would risk pollution many times over, for the sake of the Negro's cash.

News item number 2: A Mrs. Blanche Brookins, colored, was taken from a Pullman train at Patalaka, Florida, incarcerated in a jail for the night, and brought before a judge the following morning, who fined the lady $500 and costs with the alternative of six months' imprisonment. The fine and costs amounted to $518.17. It was paid.

What was the lady's offense? Was she caught stealing a ride? Was she guilty of some improper action? Surely, the noble Nordic of Mayflower ancestry will protest that the Anglo-Saxon conception of justice would not touch a human hair unrighteously.

But listen. The lady paid her fare. She was not charged with attacking a defenseless white person. Her crime was to be a Negro and with having violated Florida's Jim Crow law which prohibits Negroes from riding on a Pullman train.

"Mrs. Brookins purchased Pullman reservations in New York, for a thru trip to Orlando, Florida. At Jacksonville the conductor requested the lady to leave the car. She quite properly refused. The conductor then wired to the authorities at Patalaka who took action. When the judge inflicted the fine he said: "That happens to be the maximum penalty or it would be more."

According to the Norfolk Journal and Guide a test case will be made of this incident. We hope so. And the Negro organizations that may take up the matter should not appeal for aid in the fight to Negro organizations only.

Every worker in the United States should feel that this is a matter of concern to him. The treatment accorded to Mrs. Brookins is only one incident in a long series of insults to the Negroes of the south. We admit that it is a lesser crime than the countless lynchings that go unpunished in the motherland of the ku klux klan and the stronghold of the democrat party. But no line can be drawn between lynchings and other abuses. They have their origin in the hateful, ignorant tyranny of the spawn of the southern slave owners and in the lack of organization of the Negroes.

Those who would be free must fight their own battles. But this is a battle that every intelligent white worker must call his own. The enslaved white workers and the twice-oppressed Negroes must fight shoulder to shoulder.

Perhaps Senator Borah might be induced to deliver another speech in the south and wax as eloquent over the violation of the 14th amendment by the southern kluxers as he did over the war waged in the north against the Volstead law.

Last Words on Evolution

By ERNEST HAECKEL.

Evolution and Dogma. THE controversy over the idea of evolution is a prominent feature in the mental life of the nineteenth century. It is true that a few great thinkers had spoken of a natural evolution ago. They had, indeed, partly investigated the laws that control the birth and death of the world, and the rise of the earth and its inhabitants; even the creation stories and myths of the older religions betray a partial influence of these evolutionary ideas. But it was the idea of evolution took definite shape and was scientifically grounded on various classes of evidence; and it tury that it won general recognition. The intimate connection that was proved to exist between all branches of knowledge, once the continuity of and the union of them all thru the Monistic philosophy, are achievements of the last few decades. The great majority of the older ideas that thoughtful men had formed and their own frame were far removed from the notion of "self-development." They culminated in more or less obscure creation myths, which generally put in the foreground the idea of a personal creator. Just as man has used intelligence and design in the making of his weapons and tools, his houses and his boats, so it was thought hat the creator had fashioned the world with art and intelligence, according to a definite plan. Among the many legends of this kind the ancient us as the Mosaic narrative, but drawn for the most part from Babylonian sources, has obtained a very great influence on European culture owing to the general acceptance of the Bible. The belief in miracles that is involved in these religious legends was bound to come in conflict, at an early date, with the evolutionary ideas of independent philosophical research. On the one hand, in the prevalent religious teaching, we had the supernatural world, the miraculous, teleology: on the other hand, in the nascent science of evolution, only natural law, inconsistency with the predominant religion.*

If we glance for a moment at the various fields in which the idea of evolution is scientifically applied we find that, firstly, the whole universe is conceived as a unity; second, our earth; thirdly, organic life on the earth; fourthly, man, as a special immaterial entity. Thus we have, in historical succession, the evolutionary research of cosmology, geology, biology, anthropology and psychology.

The first comprehensive idea of cosmological evolution was put forth by the famous critical philosopher Immanuel Kant, in 1755, in the great work of his earlier years, "General Natural History of the Heavens, or an Attempt to Conceive and Explain the Origin of the Universe Mechanically, According to the Newtonian Laws. This remarkable work appeared anony nously, and was dedicated to Fredrick the Great, who, however, never saw it. It was little noticed, and was soon entirely forgotten, until it was exhumed ninety years afterwards by Alexander von Humboldt. Note particularly that on the title page stress is laid on the mechanical origin of the world and its explanation on Newtonian principles; in this way the strictly Monistic character of the whole cosmogony and the absolutely universal rule of natural law are clearly expressed. It is true that Kant speaks much in it of God and his wisdom and Semitic story of creation familiar to omnipotence; but this is limited to the affirmation that God created once

*The word "evolution" is still used in o many different ways in various ciences that it is important to fix it in the general significance which we here give it. By "evolution," in the widest sense, I understand the unceasing "mutations of substance," adopting Spinoza's fundamental conception of substance; it unites inseparably in itself "matter and force (or energy") or "nature and mind" (equals the world and God). Hence the science of evolution in its broader range is "the history of substance," which postulates the general validity of "the law of substance." In the latter are combined "the law of the constancy of matter" (Lavoisier, 1789) and "the law of the conservation of energy" (Robert Mayer, 1842), however varied may be the changes of form of these elements in the world-process. Cf. Chaper xxvi of the general significance which we here give it. The idea of a natural development of the world occurs in a clearer and nore consistent form, and is provided with a firm mathematical basis forty years afterwards, in the remarkable 'Mecanique Celeste" of Pierre Laplace. His popular "Exposition du System du Monde" (1796) destroyed at its roots the legend of creation that had hitherto prevailed, or the Mosaic narrative in the Bible. Laplace, who had become minister of the interior, count, and chancellor of the senate under Napoleon, was merely honorable and consistent when he replied to the emperor's question, "What room there was for God in his system?" "Sire had no need for that unfounded hypothesis." What strange ministers there are sometimes!† The shrewd ness of the church soon recognized that the personal creator was dethron ed, and the creation myth destroyed by this Monistic and now generally re eived theory of cosmic development Nevertheless it maintained towards i he attitude which it had taken up 250 ears earlier in regard to the closely elated and irrefutable system of Co pernicus. It endeavored to conceal the ruth as long as possible, or to oppose t with Jesuitical methods, and finally t yielded. If the churches now si ently admit the Copernican system and the cosmogony of Laplace and have ceased to oppose them, we must ittribute the fact partly to a feeling of heir spiritual impotence, partly to an astute calculation that the ignorant masses do not reflect on these great (To be continued.)

†Certain orthodox periodicals have lately endeavored to deny this famous atheistical confession of the great La-place, which was merely a candid deducworkers was merely a candid deduction of his splendid cosmic system. They say that this Monistic natural philosopher acknowledged the Catholic falth on his deathbed; and in proof of this they offer us the later testimony of an Ultramontane priest. We need not point out how uncertain is the love of truth of these heated partisans. When testimony of this kind tends to "the good of religion" (i. e., their own good) it is held to be a pious work (pia fraus). On the other hand, it is interesting to recall the reply of a Prussian minister of religion. Von Zedlitz, 120 years ago, to the Bresleau Consistory, when it urged that "those who believe most are the best subjects."

He wrote in reply: "His majesty (Frederick the Great) is not disposed to rest the security of his state on the stupidity of his subjecta." tion of his splendid cosmic system. They Closed Town.

"No one is allowed in the town exept those whom the spotter knows. A tramp was in town a few days ago and asked a lady for a bite to eat. The spotter was close and he put the hase on him. Pretty low down, eh? "Come on, boys: give us some more ulletins."

Indiana county is a big coal producer on the western border of the central Pennsylvania district. It is dominated by the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh nterests who broke their contract with the miners' union a year and a half ago. The union's preliminary propaganda drive in the county, leading towards a recovery of the field, has put he local bosses into a highly nervous condition, as the above story—one of many-shows.

Millinery Workers of N. Y. Form New Demands

NEW YORK, Aug. 2,-Millinery workers of New York want a mininum wage of $65 weekly for all in the trade, meaning raises for others than cutters and operators, who now get this rate. The union asks a change from piece work to week work in eight large shops which retain the old system. The workers also want a guarantee in their new agreement that employers in smaller shops will not work at the bench

ART FOR ART'S SAKE.

You'd never have thought it, but Art Shields of the Federated Press has blossomed out with an appreciation for humor that we never suspected he possessed. Art comes to bat with the following on Weigh Bosses, who are the mine owners' representatives on the coal mine tipples, supposed to weigh the cars sent up by the miners, but who-if not watched by a union check weighman—usually robs the miners on

The Three Brothers.

Bill and John and Jim were three brothers and all were bosses in the same mine. Bill was the superintendent; John, the mine foreman; and Jim, the Weigh Boss.

An evangelist came to town and Bill and John hit the sawdust trail and joined the church. They were very happy in their new faith and begged Brother Jim, the Weigh Boss, to join too.

Jim thought it over. He wanted to join. He wanted to have peace of mind and to be one of the company of converts and go to heaven when he died. But there was something in the way. He worried all one night and found no way out.

"No, brothers," he said, "I can't join. I'd like to go to heaven, and I'd like to be happy like you. But I can't join. It's all right for you, Bill, to be a christian. You are only the superintendent. And for you, John. You are only the mine foreman.

"But if I join the church, who in hell is going to weigh the coal?"

O, SO BACKWARD!

Returning from a five-day trip thru the remote provinces of the Philippine archipelago, Colonel Carmi Thompson arrived in Manila in time to see the telegrams from the United States telling all about the latest slush fund exposures. He at once sat down and dictated the following message to the American press correspondents:

"Outside of the city of Manila, the Filipinos are decidedly a backward people. They have no pep nor adaptability to the modern world. In 12,000,narrative of the company "spotter" on | 000 population there is only 150,000 daily newspaper circulation. This condition hinders the development of an enlightened public opinion as a check on the politics which is essential to the democratic form of government. Some Americans believe that it is impossible for the Malays ever to govern themselves and that they are destined always to remain a subject people."

JESUS IN JERSEY.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. — Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, widow of the Reverend Edward W. Hall, has been locked up in the county Jail charged with mur-der. The bodies of the clergyman and Mrs. Eleanor Mils, choir singer and wife of the sexton of his church, were found under a crabapple tree, two days after they disappeared.
