By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

RICHARD EVANS, a young and helpless human derelict, was hanged in the Cook county jail last Friday morning for the killing of a policement, while young Evans was under the influence of moonshine. Evans was hanged because he had no money. Had he belonged to any of the several powerful gangs that operate here in Chicago he would be in no more danger of death than had he merely stolen a banana. This should be a lesso nfor those who might be tempted to imitate their betters in the prohibition enforcement department in the matter of violating law. . . .

BEFORE a man can commit murder with impunity in this tough town he should first join a capitalist political organization, the Crowe-Barrett wing of the G. O. P. preferred. Having done this he should become a member of a "gang" and salt away some money. In the accumulation of the coin a little slaughter might be indispensable, but with the fruits of his toil and the political pull, nothing but the merest accident should prevent the aspiring citizen from dying in bed. Richard Evans paid the price of unpreparedness. Now, as Arthur Brisbane would say, if he only had a fleet of airplanes—

THIS is a democracy! Those who A had their doubts should prepare to idea of the Leninist unity of the shed them now. Not that the average party." American—the kind that joins the klan-has anything to shed. But on with the story. "A pair of pretty hands upon which a good many dollars have been spent for manicuring, peeled potatoes today in the Campbell soup factory for 80 cents an hour." This is how the International News Service starts the tale about Miss Elinor Dorrance, 18-year-old daughter and principal heir of Dr. John T. Dorrance, multi-millionaire and big soupin-the-can man. It is quite obvious that if the poor little rich girl must work for 30 measly cents an hour, even the her papa owns the factory, the rest of the help have no reason stay there until the publicity dies out and millions of babies will take many geois lackeys supported by Russian more drinks of Campbell's Then Elinor will quietly marry a bankrupt European count. "I'm proud of her," said Dr. Dorrance. "It's something of a relief these days to see a girl of the flapper age think of something else beside tea-ing, dancing, drinking and smoking." And a final paragraph: "Elinor recently returned from a select French finishing school at Sorbonne. She is the only unmarried daughter of Dr. Dorrance, whose wealth is estimated at fifty millions." Now, here is a chance for a soup-juggling factory worker to make fifty million dollars.

SOVIET WORKERS CONTRIBUTE ANOTHER HALF MILLION DOLLARS FOR RELIEF OF STRIKING MINERS OF BRITAIN (Special Cable to The Daily Worker)

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Oct. 31.—On receipt of an appeal for immediate relief from A. J. Cook, secretary of the British Miners' Union, the Presidium of the Central Council of Trade Unions, transferred one million rubles (half a million dollars) to the striking miners' relief fund.

This brings the total raised by the workers and peasants of the Soviet Capitalists Hurl Mud Union for strike relief to about $4,000,000, which is considerably more than the workers of all the rest of the world have contributed.

In his message to the Russian workers, Cook declared that the British miners are in a desperate plight and are actually starving. Collections are continuing energetically in the U. S. S. R.

WASHINGTON IS SENDING HARSH NOTE TO MEXICO FOR THE OIL INTERESTS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 .- Following a conference between Ambassador Sheffield, Secretary of State Kellogg, former Ambassador Charles Beecher Warren and Assistant Secretary of State Olds, it is learned that the U.S. government is sending a "stiff" note to the Mexican government concerning the Mexican land and oil laws.

This is in reply to Mexico's previous note answering U.S. protests at these laws as "confiscatory." Mexico declared that such was not the case, the laws simply being regulatory provisions for enforcing the Mexican constitution, and that If any injustice were done in enforcing the regulations, the matter would be remedied.

While the capitalist politicians are hurling mud at each other in their mad scramble for the spoils of office and boasting of their love for labor in order to win the votes of the workingclass, the workers in twelve states will have the opportunity today to go to the polls and cast their ballots for candidates who are pledged to represent the interests of labor if elected to office. The Workers (Communist) Party has a ticket in the field in eight states and is supporting farmer-labor party candidates in four others.

Super-Lobby Is Created in Washington

WASHINGTON,-(FP)-In an editorial headed "Congress, Watch Out," the current issue of the Journal of Electrical Workers and Operators calls attention to the fact that the Electric Power club, the Associated Manufacturers of Electrical Supplies and the Electrical Manufacturers' Council have merged into a new superlobbying organization called the National Electrical Manufacturers' association.

Permanent Lobby.

"From a brief prospectus of the new organization," says the Journal, it is evident that formation of a high-powered and permanent lobby at Washington is intended. The president and guiding genius is Gerard Swope, president of the General Elecrio Co. . . Analyzing the coming is ues rightly, Swope and his crowd mow that the real fight between them and the public will be fought out in the corridors and cloakrooms of the mational capitol. Baptize Fascist G. O. P. Democrat as "Comrade"

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—The socialists of Philadelphia and the state of Pennsylvania take no chances when they nominate candidates for office. They mean to have them elected even before the vote is cast and they have discovered an ingenuous way to do it.

A Fascist. In the second assembly district the republicans and democrats have decided to throw off the mask and admit that there is no difference between them. So they agreed upon a fusion candidate in the person of Charles C. A. Baldi, Jr., whose father is a leading fascist largely controlling his young son in matters of political opinions and action.

Now the socialists are not to be sneezed at when it comes to ambition to make a noise about the number of members in legislature or city council. Numbers count with them.

The Trinity. So they must be able to boast at least three members of the general assembly this coming season. Can they make good? We say they can. How do they do it? Easy. They simply wave their wand and nominate C. C. A. Baldi, Jr., and the trick is done.

That's one. How the Trick is Done. In the 18th district the republicans are in the saddle and the democrats have not a peep in, so they have separate candidates. The republicans same man. That is easy. Now the republicans must have one more and so they nominate Harry Greeby. The

And these are sure of election. So the republicans elect these two and the fascist Baldi, Jr., and the socialists go out into the wide and innocent world and tell the workers that they have three members in the general assembly who fight the battles of the working class. This method of getting socialist members elected is considered up-todate and nifty, whatever else it

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 31.-Further progress was made today in the check-up before master in chancery Charles G. Briggle to fix the amount, Gov. Len Small owes to the state of Illingis for unpaid interest on state funds during his term as state treasurer, when interest totals paid by 19 Illinois banks, totalling $61,000, were agreed upon by attorneys for the governor and Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom and aids. The hearing in the master court was then continued to December, but three conferences at Chicago between opposing counsel were arranged and the first set for Nov. 15.

Attorneys stated that about sixty banks remain to be checked. The state claims the governor is liable for $1.000,000 withheld while Small was state treasurer.

American Federation of Labor Faces Demands of Pan-Pacific Militants

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL. .

THE labor movements of three Great Britain and Mexico-are exerting a growing influence on the American trade unions. This was clearly seen at the Detroit convention of the American Federation of Labor. Altho there was not a real left winger at Detroit, nevertheless, left wing issues, such as world trade union unity, recognition of the Union of Soviet Republics and the sending of delegates to the Union of Soviet Republics and to Mexico, to study the local conditions in these two countries, became live issues before the gathering. During the months ahead, the labor unions in two, if not three additional countries, will exert an increasing influence on American organized labor. Australia and China. with probably Japan, are pushing into the ring of militant labor that now hems in conservative and complacent American labor, East and West.

Australian labor threw down the gauntlet to the American reaction, at its recent Third All-Australian Trade Union Congress, held at Sidney, in August, when it voted unanimously for a Pan-Pacific Labor Conference to be held at Canton, China, in May, next year.

This action was taken with the declaration that, "For the workers of the Pacific and of the world, it is of the utmost importance that socialists nominate Harry Greeby. unity should be realized, but by perseverance we will win and unity will be achieved, and a basis will be laid for a new advance by the proletariat of the Pacific for victory over the exploiters."

> The move for the Pan-Pacific Conference was started by the Australian trade unions. It was to have been held last July at Sidney. The first effort at sabotage came from the Australian Labor Party, that immediately called a rival conference to be held at Honolulu. Even the Australian Party proposals, breathing the spirit of MacDonald labor imperialism, was rebuffed by the American Federation of Labor. The A. F. of L. executive council did not mention this question at the Detroit convention.

Real vitality in developing the Pan-Pacific Conference seems to be lodged, however, in the All-Australian Trade Union Congress that was not content with merely corresponding with the labor movements of other countries, but also sent its representatives to visit and consult with the workers' organizations in other lands. The declaration of the Third All-Australian Trade Union Congress on this subject takes into consideration:

"The increased competition and struggle for markets and raw materials in the borderlands of the Pacific-the last resort of declining world capitalism. "The growth of military and naval competitions, which will inevitably lead to a new war, if not prevented by the militant and class conscious workers' movement.

"The split and disruption of international and many national trades union movements and at the same time an unprecedented concentration of capitalist forces against the

"The growth of militant labor movement in the Far East, especially in China, greatly changing the situation on the Pacific resolves:

"1. To take an active part in the struggle towards international trade union unity, and to assist in calling a single world congress of all trade union organizations.

"2. To attend the Pan-Pacific Trade Union Conference to be called in Canton on the first of May, 1927.

"3. To issue an appeal to all workers of the Pacific pointing out that necessity of unification of their forces against international capitalism and its war preparations.

"4. To send greetings to the awakened Chinese working class and its trade unions.

"To accept the invitation of the All-Russian Council of Trade Unions. to send as soon as possible official trade union delegation to the Union of Soviet Republics."

Thus the Australian labor movement comes into open clash with the present regime in the A. F. of L., that rejects world trade union unity which must of necessity include labor in the Soviet Union, that joins in the promotion of nests of militarism in the shape of so-called Citizens' Military Training Camps and helps drive "the first rivet" in Wall Street's battleships, that adopts a passive attitude toward China's struggle against the world's imperialists, and refuses to send an American delegation to the Soviet Union.

Since the United States is the greatest imperialist country bordering the Pacific, the Pan-Pacific Trade Union Conference at Canton, China, the seat of the Chinese revolutionary government, will further expose the pro-imperialist and pro-Wall Street policies of the Green-Woll-Duncan regime in the A. F. of L. The sycophantic phrases of the A. F. of L. toward the Chinese masses will no longer hold water as American gunboats slaughter Chinese workers, its complete side-stepping of the issues raised by the demands of the Filipino workers and peasants for independence will be unmasked, while from the Far East, from the mouths of the Englishspeaking workers of Australia, will come a new message to the workers of the United States telling of the tremendous advances made by the workers and peasants of the Soviet Union, a message that will make a speech by Dr. Sherwood Eddy look tame and inconsequential.

America's workers must be represented at the Canton Conference on May 1, 1927, with the consent of the A. F. of L. officialdom if possible, if not, then without it.

ALTOONA, Pa., Oct. 31.- Every dollar spent by the machine for the election of Boss Vare to the United States senate is an investment which the workers must pay with interest, the Vare will be their enemy, Sen. Norris of Nebraska told the people of Pennsylvania here.

Choosing a railroad shop town as the scene for his initial speech in defiance of Mellon, Coolidge and Vare, the republican told his audience that Workers Must Pay.

"This investment for Vare must all be repaid with interest," he said. "In fact, the principal is repaid many times, and this payment must come thru some form or other of tribute from the average citizen. The farmer the laboring man, the business and professional man, all must bear their share of the expense. Those who must pay for political debauchery in Pennsylvania live all over the United States. The posters contained the pictures of all the candidates except the Negroes.

SQUEALER TELLS STORY OF BIG LIQUOR GRAFT

Five Patriots Shared in the Boodle

What purported to be the inside story of how Major Percy Owen, former prohibition administrator of the Chicago district, was drawn into a gigantic conspiracy whereby thousands of gallons of sacramental wine were distributed for beverage purposes was told from the witness stand in federal court today at the trial of Owen and state Senator Lowell B. Mason on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

The witness was Harry R. Schlau, a former bathhouse owner who became one of the leading figures in the socalled wine graft. The proposition that Owen be bribed to issue fraudulent permits, he said, came from Louis Abelson, who with Schlau and four other defendants are to be gov ernment witnesses.

How Graft Was Divided.

"Abelson," Schlau said, "wanted to charge $1,000 for each permit but finally agreed on $300. Half of that was to be divided between Owen and myself, the other half to go to Abelson and the two prohibition agents who were to be named upon his recommendation. They were appointed by Owens after he had thot over the proposition and decided to come in with us."

After that, the witnesses swore. sacramental wine dealers who wanted permits, with the right to sell wine to any and all, saw Abelson first and after paying him were given permits by Owen.

Co-operation and Trade Unionism

Co-operative Disputes.

"The co-operators of 1860 upheld co-operation as superior to trade unionism altogether. In the co-operative era strikes and lockouts and unions of labor against capital were to be weapons of the past." But, the conditions ganization of capitalist society decide vent the employers from putting into dictated by the general economic orotherwise and the dispute and strike of the N. U. D. A. SOCIALISTS HEAR

Reich Member Talks to Cleveland 'Old Guard'

> By SADIE AMTER (Special to The Daily Worker)

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 31.—Miss Tony Sender, woman socialist member of the German Reichstag, spoke in Cleveland, Oct. ', to the scattered forces and defunct membership of a one time thriving party. An audience of about fifty-four people occupied the first few rows in Moose Hall, all that is left of the socialist party in Cleve-Monarchists Join Hands.

She said that after the revolution that changed Germany from a monarchy to a republic there was no resistance at all on the part of the war generals and upholders of monarchy but that on the contrary they showed every desire to join hands with the socialists. "The socialists," she said were against the submarine warfare knowing that that would bring America into the battle and that Germany would thereby lose. And when the war was ended with a defeated Germany, the revolution took place and the great task of the Socialist Germany was to bring back and give employment to millions of men and to do it as quickly as possible in order to avoid the greatest disaster of the world."

Miss Sender did not say what disaster that would have been but from her talk I gathered that the same thing would have happened to the socialist regime that happened to the Kerensky government in November of 1917, and it appears that every move of the So cialist Party of Germany from that time to the present was made for the sole purpose of heading off too much movement toward rebellion of the workingclass and an overwhelming turn toward the left.

Germans Sentimental.

Speaking of the election of Hindenburg, Miss Sender declared that it was not a triumph for monarchy as many believed but merely a sentimental feel ing on the part of the German people "for the old general who had fought so well during the war." Miss Sender went on to say that she did not think it was fair that the families of the princes of Germany should be allowed such enormous incomes when millions of the people are near starva tion. She said that 22 families of the nobility use millions of dollars in incomes and, of course, the socialists are fighting this.

It was astonishingly clear listening to Miss Sender that the socialist party of Germany, where it is in the majority, offers no hope to the exploited workingclass and that the socalled social gains of Germany were not worth fighting for. It is clear that what Germany achieved was a revolution changing it from a monarchy to men are guilty or not." And it re- a republic and that it is no nearer to the goal of a victorious workingclass land at the present time.

Praises Dawes Plan.

Miss Sender in her last sentence said that the German socialists look forward to a free and happy world but she said not one word of how this is to be brought about. It may be new trial on the basis of new evidence that she believes the Dawes plan is going to lead Germany to her goal for she said, "The Dawes plan is making the German people to accept."

"Last year we had 30 per cent of their trade and first place in it. This year we shall have second place and there are some who think it will not run higher than 20 per cent." Professor Willis gave as the reason the refusal of American bankers and manufacturers to grant credit. "Under proper conditions and under suitable safeguards the Russian trade field offers one of those new and almost unlimited opportunities for development which are only occasionally presented.

Rev. E. A. Walsh, who spent two years in Hoover's relief expedition, was the second speaker on trade with NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 31.—Shooting Soviet Russia. He pointed out that down James Nelson, an employe of the Soviet government confiscated all the Chef-Mente Bag Company, two private property at the time of the revolution and that therefore "busipayroll. Impressive Occasion

Detroit Celebration

IN MANY U. S. CITIES

EVERY PARTY ORGANIZATION MUST STAGE DEMONSTRATIONS TO BRING MESSAGE OF RUSSIA TO WORKERS

The Ninth Anniversary of the Russian revolution has a message of vast significance for the American working class—and there is a growing mass of workers who are ready to listen to this message and to understand and absorb it. It is up to our party, the bearer of the ideas that the Russian revolucion and proletarian dictatorship represent to carry these lessons to the American working masses and to rally them in defense and support of the Soviet Union.

Preparations are being made by party organizations in all large cities for demonstrations in celebration of the Ninth Anniversary of the Russian revolution. But there are yet numbers of smaller party organizations where very little has been done in that direction. There is no excuse for any such situation. The Russian revolution campaign must penetrate every part of the country where we have any sort of party organization, no matter how small. Every single party unit, every single party comrade must get on the job and see that this is carried out.

Must Arrange Demonstration.

Every party organization must arrange some sort of Russian revolution demonstration for the early part of November. Wherever it is at all possible public mass meetings should be organized. If this cannot be done because of the lack of forces of the party organizations where there are only one or two units in a city then there must be arranged open meetings of these units and every effort made to attract workers to them. These meetings should be organized as Russian revolution demonstrations and celebrations. There is an opportunity for every party organization to do something and that something must not be left undone.

Slogans.

Mr. Woll's presentation was weak in comparison with the strength of the case for which he was pleading, and he failed to stand his ground when questioned by members of the insurance commission.

For instance, when questioned as to whether or not he would want the been asked to represent America at state to be financially liable for the solvency of the fund, he hemmed and violence in the colonies to be held in hawed and did not answer the question directly. Milwaukee Company Is Horrible Example

By a Worker Correspondent

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 31.-Boynton Cab Co. that controls the city's cab system, keeps its employes on the verge of starvation, paying a miserable wage of from $6 to $15 a week. Drivers are hired on the basis of 27 per cent commission which is so Yow that in order to make a living, one must work 12 to 14 hours a day and keep right at it for full 7 days. because to lay off a day means only one meal a day, or none. After working a whole week await ing the pay day, you find in many cases that you have nothing coming, and if you have, it's very little. Always on the back of your check you will find that the company has held out on you for something you know nothing about. This of course is an every day occurrence.

Graft System.

The graft system is in full swing. everybody from the lowest strawboss to a manager, always expect something for nothing, and at the end you will find that the poor driver is gen erally the one to take the consequences. In order to get your 2 per cent raise to which every driver is entitled to after working 3 months, it will first east you a lot of extra work for some punk who was hired to watch over you, or almost your Loyalty and Hard Work.

The main slogan of the company is hard work and loyalty. If you expect any promotion or increase in wages, which very seldom occurs, you must be a loyal and a hard worker.

At every one of the so-called "driver's meetings" you will see al: the fat boys delivering nice slick speeches on how the company treats lits employes and how it expects to treat them and so on, but never a word is mentioned as to how and where a driver will eat tomorrow, and for what. And never a word about an increase in wages or how the conditions of the drivers would be improved. As a matter of fact, the drivers have no say at all thruout the whole meeting. They just sit there and listen to the slick speeches where one would think that the drivers are making a fortune working for the company.

THREE PRIZES OFFERED WORKING CLASS WRITERS FOR BEST NEWS STORIES

Three splendid books will be given as prizes to the workers who send in the best worker correspondent stories between now and Nov. 3.

The first prize will be an intensely interesting and important book by Friedrich Engels, "The Peasant War in Germany." This is just off the press and is a classic in its first American publication. Who will be the worker correspondent to get this fine book?

The second prize will be that famous collection of vivid Red Cartoons. There are over seventy cartoons by seventeen leading proletarian artists.

For the third prize, the boardbound edition of the famous Russell-Nearing Debate has been selected. Bertrand Russell is known as an "intellectual glant" of England, and Scott Nearing has one of the keenest minds in America. It is a book worth having.

The prizes will be awarded Thursday, Nov. 3. Send in that story now that you have been thinking about. It may win a prize—and, anyway, your fellow workers want to read it!

RAISES MINERS WAGES TO KEEP SCABS WORKING

Coal Demand Forces Concession

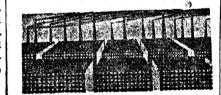

> By GEORGE PAPCUN. (Worker Correspondent)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 31 .- The Pittsburgh Coal Co., after breaking the agreement with the coal miners in District 5 and using every means in trying to starve and terrorize the coal miners into going back on the 1917 scale, has now announced a raise in wages, in some cases even above the Jacksonville agreement. The notice says that the raise is only temporary, as it seems that the price of coal on the market has risen and that as soon as it will go down the wages will be adjusted accordingly.

Too Keep Scaberna od The this is what the coal company is telling the men, it is not the real reason behind the raising of wages. A lot of miners were actually starved into working on the 1917 scale, but because of the British strike the demand for coal from across, tho it is temporary, has opened up a lot of independent mines in the district. With the opening of these mines the Pittsburgh Coal Co. is losing even what ton the scale from drift ing away and leaving it flat, it has

Bunny was so much absorbed in these unhappy far-off things, that he did not hear the door of his cabin very softly opened, nor the key very gently turned on the inside. The first thing he noticed was the faint elusive sweet odor, and he gazed upon a vision standing by his bedside, clad in a purple kimono with huge red hibiscus flowers. The vision looked timorous, and had its two hands clasped in front of it, and it whispered in a voice he could hardly hear, "Bunny, may I talk to you a little?"

> Of course Bunny had to say that it might; and the vision sank down on its knees by the bed, and gently one of the soft hands touched his, and the soft voice trembled, "Bunny, I'm so onely and so unhappy! I don't know if you can understand what it means to a woman to be so lonely, but you are the first man I've wanted to trust for a long, long time. I know I shouldn't come like this but I have to tell you and why shouldn't men and women be frank with each other?'

Bunny didn't know any reason why they shouldn't and so they were. The substance of the frankness was that the dream of love had stirred once more in the soul of a woman who was utterly bewildered about life. He must not think that she was shallow or light, she had never done anything like this before. and it was honest—the tears came into her eyes as she said it, and oh, please, please not to despise her, she wanted to be happy and there were so few people you could love. "Bunny, tell me, are you in love with any other woman?"

It might have been a kindness to tell her that he was; but this was his first adventure of the sort, and he told the truth, and it was like sunlight after an April shower, as the smile shone through her tears. There was a little catch in her voice, as she whispered, "I'm being silly, the tears will come, and they make a woman look so ugly, let me put out the light." So she pulled Bell Telephone building, on which the little golden chain, and was no longer the least bit ugly, but only sweet-smelling, as she clung to his hand with her two hands and whispered, "Bunny, do you think you could love me just

Bunny learned something from this incident. He knew that he had only to stretch out his arms and take her; and he knew what to do-Eunice Hoyt had taught him how to love a women. He could have swept her into ecstacy and from that hour forth she would have been his slave, he could have had everything she owned; he might have mistreated her, used her money to keep other women, but still she woold have been his slave. So now he could understand things that went on under his eyes, in this world that was a gambler's paradise. There were men who would not share Bunny's lofty indifference to luxury and power, but would go in deliberately to seduce Dame Fortune, turning their bodily charms and social graces into weapons of prey-there were many names for them, lounge lizards, parlor snakes, tame cats, Romeos, sheiks. How may years had old August Norman slaved to build a great steel plant and a floating mansion in the ocean, and a ten times bigger one on the shore; and here all these treasures were magically incorporated in one feminine body, clad in—well, the kimono had slid off and there was a night dress so filmy that it was nothing, and a faint sweet odor, and a pair of soft caressing arms, and lips pressing hot, moist kisses. "Bunny," whispered the voice, "I would marry you if you wanted me to. I would give you everything you asked for."

Bunny had learned from Eunice that when you are disposed to love, the lips can be seductive; he now learned from Mrs.no, Thelma—that when you are not so disposed, they are repellent. "You know," Thelma," he pleaded, "I don't happen to need anything."

"I know, and I'm a horrid vulgar thing. But I'm trying in my poor blundering way to make you understand that I do care for you, and you mustn't think ill of me!"

That gave him his lead, and he explained to her that he wouldthe fight against the bosses divided. never think ill of her; but he did not love her, he had thought of her as a friend. And so gradually her clasp relaxed, and she sank down in a pitiful heap by the bedside, sobbing that he would be sure to loathe her, he would never want to see her again. He pleaded that that was not so, there was no disgrace about it, there was no reason to quarrel because you did not happen to love. She was so abject, he was sorry for her, and he put out his hand to comfort her; but he saw at once that this would not do, she had caught his hand and was kissing it, and he was being tempted by his sympathy. Away back in the eighteenth century, one of the English poets had announced the discovery that pity moves the soul to love.

According to news reports tucked away in inconspicuous corners of the capitalist press open shop coal operators are boasting of away the labor masses from the inboosting the wages of their employes from 20 to 30 per cent. It seems as if there is a concerted plan on the part of the operators to make a gesture, calculated to convince the miners that a union is superfluous.

Either the operators granted those wage increases thru fear of a revolt of their employes or they are doing it in order to forestall a campaign to organize their slaves into the United Mine Workers of America. Very likely the latter reason.

Just now there is great demand for American coal, chiefly because of the British coal strike. The operators can make enormous touched several questions on practical profits provided the coal diggers do not take advantage of the situation and demand a reasonable wage. But just as soon as the rush is over there is nothing to stop the coal barons from reducing the wages to the former level or lower. Nothing, except a union.

The operators are well aware of the fact that there is an election campaign on in the U. M. W. of A. with the Lewis machine fighting for its life. Union Membership Is Growing Says Tomsky MOSCOW, Oct. 31.—This morning's session of the fifteenth conference of the All-Union Communist Party ended with the debate on Alexis Rykov's report in which forty-eight delegates took part. After the concluding speech the conference unanimously approved the theses presented by Rykoff. The conference then heard a report by Tomsky on the activity in the labor unions and the immediate tasks in that field and then proceeded to a discussion. During the evening sessions the debates continued.

In the morning session on October 29 Rykoff's concluding speech pointed out that the practical proposals made by many speakers deserve considera tion. Rykov declared that a comparison between the accumulation and extension of the fundamental industrial capital of the Soviet Union and of the oreign capitalist states leads to the onclusion that our development is wice as rapid as abroad, except America.

A rational direction is necessary to ensure the continuance of such development. The greatest attention must e paid to the industrialization of The characteristic feature of the debates was the absence of parallel separate platforms on economic ques-

The opposition ought to have declared at the conference if it intends to uphold or to drop that platform. The conference adopted in principle Rykoff's theses and named a committee for final edi-

Reporting on work in the trade unions Tomsky, with figures at hand, refuted the assertions of the opposition about the decline in the number of organized workers in the Soviet Union and the immense increase of non-proletarian elements in the Soviet apparatus. The total of organized workers was 8,768,200 as against 6,950. 400 last year. The number of shop committees increased during the year from thirty to fifty-six thousand. Tone of Speeches.

All the speakers dwelt on Debs' great contribution to the workingclass movement in America. The tone of the speeches was in sharp contrast to the sentimental slobbering of the socialist lawyers and ministers that officiated at the burial services in Terre Haute, Each speaker said something of the great battles that Debs fought on the industrial battlefields of America and pointed out that great the his love for the workingclass was, he lacerated the misleaders of labor with as bitter a tongue as ever coiled itself around the English lan-

C. E. Ruthenberg, the last speaker, told of Debs' challenge to the warcrazy imperialists of the United States in his historic Canton speech, which was delivered across from the workhouse where Ruthenberg was serving year's term for mobilizing the workrs of Ohio against the war.

Debs went down the line for his rinciples.

Debs was always on the side of those elements in the socialist party that were in favor of waging the class struggle militantly, as against the reformists. Ruthenberg read several excerpts from Debs' speeches and letters in proof of his contention.

After Ruthenberg was released from Sing Sing prison he visited Debs in Atlanta and explained to him the differences of opinion over policy that brought about the split in the socialst party. Debs Memorial Meet In Buffalo to Show Frame-up Protests

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 29,-At the ime when the capitalist courts have taken a vicious slap at the cause of he working-class prisoners by denying Sacco and Vanzetti the right to a new trial, it is expected that all workers and sympathizers with the labor movement will take every opportunity to show their opposition to the capitalist frame-up system and their solidarity with International Labor Defense, the organization which fights this menace. When one of the great leaders of the workers dies it becomes doubly necessary to demonstrate.

ranged such a demonstration in the form of a Gene Debs memorial meeting, which is to be held on Friday, November 5, at 8 p. m. in the Elmwood Music Hall.

Representatives of all elements in 6 WEST 111th ST. (Near Fifth Ave.) the radical and liberal movements are to speak.

The main speaker will be James P. Cannon, national secretary of the International Labor Defense. Eustrace Reynolds, well-known radical attorney; Rev. Hahn, liberal pastor of the Salem Evangelical Church, and Herbert Benjamin, of the Workers (Comnunist) Party, will also speak.

It is expected that all Buffalo workers will attend, not only to pay respect to the memory of a great workng-class leader, but also to perpetuate his spirit in the unceasing fight to defend the victims of capitalist frameups and class injustice.

Two N. Y. Halls Packed at Big Debs Memorial

(Special to The Daily Worker) NEW YORK, Oct. 29.-With the meeting scheduled to begin at S o'clock, the workers began demand ing admission to Carnegie Hall at half past six and by seven-thirty the great hall was filled to the topmost gallery and every available bit of space on the stage as well, for the mass meeting called last Monday by the International Labor Defense in honor of Eugene V. Debs. Long before eight o'clock the crowds turned away from Carnegie Hall had found their way to the hastily prepared overflow meeting at Central Opera House and had packed that hall to the last seat in the gallery and addiional workers kept trying to secure admission to the two halls thruout the evening.

The speakers for these two meetings included Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, Bishop Brown, Robert Dunn Roger Baldwin, C. E. Ruthenberg, secretary of the Workers (Communist) Party, A. Shapiro of the Furriers' Union, Carlo Tresca, Enea Sormenti of the Anti-Fascist Alliance, Ben Gitow, Bert Wolfe, M. J. STRIKE STRATEGY

By WILLIAM Z. FOSTER

ARTICLE III

CRAFT AND INDUSTRIAL STRIKES.

A major consideration of strike strategy is the broadening out of strikes and trade unions from the traditional craft basis to that of industry. Even as the ideological conceptions of the workers must be raised from the purely economic and opportunistic to the political and revolutionary, so must their organizations and struggle be expanded.

Craft unionism and craft strikes can no longer cope with American capitalism. The workers' fighting front must be broadened out to that of the industry or of whole groups of industries. Such a situation as that in the railroad shop mechanics' strike of 1922 when nine of the sixteen railroad craft unions stayed at work and helped to break the strike of the seven which struck, is a crime against the working class.

In the competitive state of industry the workers can and do use the craft strike effectively, at least so far as the skilled trades are concerned. But with the concentration of capital, the centralization of industry, and the elimination of skill, craft strikes become obsolete, even to protect the interests of the skilled workers. The question of organization by industry, which is emphasized by the growing demand of the unskilled unorganized for labor unions, becomes a burning necessity for skilled as well as unskilled. In American industry the craft strike is almost obsolete,

In the clothing trades, which are still competitive, and in localized trades such as building and printing, where the fact that all or most of the work has to be done on the spot gives the unions a special advantage, the craft strike still lingers and has some effect. But even in these industries it is fast becoming useless. In the big, highly industrial strike. Even the conservative trade union lead- masses into the unions and strikes. There are fundamental tage to them of playing off the skilled workers against the ers are forced to recognize this at least partially and they adopt some sort of an industrial organizational front by patching up various types of federation. Recent examples of national industrial strikes are those of the steel workers in 1919, the coal miners in 1920 and 1922, and the packing house workers in 1921. Many of the railroad strikes and wage movements show the same tendency.

Such wide struggles supersede the narrow, localized strikes which were formerly the type in these industries. The tendency is to counter the growing power of the employers in all the industries by involving greater numbers of workers of the most varied trades and callings in single actions against the employers.

The left wing organized in and around the T. U. E. L., must intensify this broadening out tendency, which is the unskilled, playing one nationality off against another, the very essence of craft unionism. now being checked by the reactionary trade union leaders with their program of class collaboration and no fight against the employers. An important point in our strike strategy must be the elimination of the craft strike and the development of the national industrial strike.

This requires a corresponding broadening out of the workers' unions from a craft to an industrial basis and the mobilization of the unorganized millions into the trade unions. The realization of the two left wing slogans, lows: 'Amalgamation" and "Organize the Unorganized" is a vital pre-requisite for a successful strike strategy under present day conditions in the United States.

Uniting the Workers' Forces.

A FIRST consideration in strike strategy is the development of unity and solidarity among the workers involved in a given action against the employers. Potentially the workers constitute a tremendous force. The 26,000,000 or more organizable workers, when once united, will be irresistible. They will eventually sweep away the capitalist

But the obstacles to this unity are many and deep-The modern, effective type of strike is the national seated. It is more than a problem of simply bringing the divisions in the ranks of the workers themselves that have to be overcome. The working class is far from being a to race, nationality, color, creed, age, sex, skill, etc.

The differences among the workers in these matters are of themselves great obstacles to the complete unification of the working class in its struggles against the employers. But the problem is still further complicated and skillfully to play upon these differences and to split up the workers disastrously on the basis of them.

Moreover, the employers are ably assisted in this policy by the reactionary trade union bureaucracy, who divide excluding from the unions Negroes, young workers, and strikes.

the workers, in spite of race, creed, color, nationality, skill, etc., into one unbreakable proletarian mass. To do this

(1) Education; we must carry on an intensive educational propaganda among the strikers or prospective They must be shown their identity of interests with the strikers to acquaint and convince them of their common against the employers. (2) Organization; we must insist bureaucrats. upon a labor organization broad enough to take into its folds all the various working class elements involved in the struggle. (3) We must have a policy in the struggle which protects the interests of all these elemtns and which does not allow of any of them being sacrificed for the benefit of the others.

SKILLED AND UNSKILLED.

Employers are widely awake to the tremendous advan-unskilled. Especially during these days of a flourishing American Imperialism, when they are flush with superhomogeneous mass. It is divided against itself in regard profits wrung from exploited peoples all over the world, are they able and willing to bribe the skilled workers with a few concessions in order to have them betray the unskilled.

The reactionary labor leaders are willing tools in furthering this employer strategy. Indeed, their traditional policy is to support the interests of the skilled labor aristocrendered more difficult because the employers have learned racy at the expense of the great masses of unskilled. This is their program before, during, and after strikes. They refuse to organize the unskilled; they refuse to support their demands in strikes; they systematically sell them out at the settlement conference table to the advantage of the the workers' ranks by cultivating craft interests, betraying skilled workers. Such an organized system of betrayal is

This betrayal of the unskilled by the skilled (and of women, etc. All these tendencies are fatal to success in one group of skilled workers by another) is an ever-present and menacing danger at all stages of a strike struggle. Our strike strategy must be skilled in checking and It must be combatted by applying the above-stated threecounteracting all such splitting tendencies and in uniting phased policy of education, organization, and a defense of common interests.

The skilled workers must be taught the utter folly of we must, briefly stated, have a three-phased policy, as fol- their short-sighted policy, for the history of the American labor movement goes to show that this policy in the long run also sacrifices the interests of the skilled workers. unskilled. The masses of unskilled must be brought into interests and to infuse them with a fighting solidarity the unions in spite of the opposition of the right wing

The demands of the strikers must fit the needs of all groups, and they must be adhered to at all costs. Uniting the skilled and unskilled workers, under present conditions in American industry, into an unbreakable unit of strikers is one of the greatest tasks of our strike strategy. But it must and can be accomplished by systematic application of the foregoing principles.
