IT has come to pass, and later than expected. The Soviet government is blamed for the malady that affects the king of Roumania. In fact, there is a hint thrown out that Ferdy is quite well, but that the skillful Soviet propagandists made the world believe that he is ill. If Ferdy dies, and he is liable to do that little thing, the question may be brought before the league of nations, but as the league has the utmost respect for a set of sharp bayonets, it is possible that the dead may be allowed to rest.

BELGIUM is tired of annexed territory, says Edgar Ansell Mowrer of The standing of the the Chicago Daily News. The correspondent declares that in 1914 King Di Albert swore that Belgium would not accept an acre of territory as the spoils of victory. It is true that Albert did not live up to his vow, we are informed. But who the devil did? Now Belgium is sick and tired of what it got as the fruit of victory and wants to get rid of it. Furthermore, Germany is willing to buy back the territory that victorious Belgium wrung from it in 1918. And, furthermore, Germany has the dough. Belgium is broke. Great is victory. In the next war the aim of each warring nation should be a disastrous defeat.

In a writ of certiorari filed by the Southern Illinois Coal company in the superior court of Cook county, Judge Joseph B. David, the blame for the so-called Herrin massacre of June, 1922, in which 22 lives were lost, is laid at the door of the mine superintendent, C. Kline McDowell.

The case is one taken on appeal from a decision of the Illinois Industrial Commission, awarding Beulah M. McDowell, the widow, $3,750.

A reversal of the award is asked first on the ground that McDowell was not an employe of the company under the compensation law, since he was not receiving a wage, but was on a salary of $350 a month, plus a bonus, and that he held the positions of stockholder, member of the board of directors, vice-president, treasurer, and secretary, and that he was in full charge of the mine during the absence of the president, William J. and this combine is seen as too formidable for those opposed to farm legislation to sidestep. Conditions of the cotton growers in the south have forced the southern representatives to join hands with the westerners in the demand for relief.

Fear of their constituents is forcing them to attack the exhortations of the representatives from the manufacturing districts that "there is not enough time to consider farm legislation."

Business Blocs Let Loose. Much propaganda, inspired by manufacturers' blocs, is being let loose in capitol halls in an attempt to magnify the importance of all legislation except that dealing with the farmers. Everything, including the tax refund proposition, alien property claims disposition, foreign treaties, the prohibition department, tariff laws, and the treasury surplus, is being projected to divert attention of the representatives farm relief Senator Robinson of Arkansas, partly floor leader in the senate, has announced that the party's program includes first a "liberal policy or relief of the farmer," followed by a reduction in taxes, revision in tariff rates, and action against corruption in primary elections.

Nye Attacks Mellon.

Several significant pre-session speeches have been made by congressional leaders. Senator Gerald F. Nye of North Dakota, in a speech in New York, denounced Secretary Mellon as being the one who prevented the passage of farm relief at the last session.

"Mr. Mellon holds that the only necessary legislation is that that helps pay back the people who provide the funds for political campaigns. That is why John D. Rockefeller, Jr., saved more by Mellon's tax bill than did were Thomas W. Lamont, George F. Baker, J. Pierpont Morgan and the rest." he said.

Nye declared that the farmers should be treated in the same manner as the foreign debts are being treated. mentioning the fact that Italy's debt was settled on the basis of 25 cents

Dickinson attacked the national industrial conference and United States "fact-finding" body to examine the farm problem. .This commission, he said, was not devised to help the farmer, but to befog the issue and prevent aid. The farmer knows, he said, that these same industrialists are responsible for the conditions, and that they are not "visitations of providence."

Bolshevik Triumph Set Many Things Happening SMITH AND VARE Fear Revolt Against the for First Time in History

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

ONE of the many books written i about the Bolshevik revolution in Russia is entitled, "The First Time in History." It is an apt title, full of meaning, vividly flashing the fact that upward thru all the ages that mankind has struggled, this thing had never happened before, that an oppressed class should succeed in throwing off all its chains and completely win all power, establishing its own rule.

The Bolshevik victory and the creation of the Soviet power have brought in their wake a whole series of events, "for the first time in history." The launching of the Union of Soviet Republics made possible the building of the Communist International, that effectively organizes and develops the social-revolution on a world-wide scale "for the first time in history."

Few readers of The DAILY WORKER hardly realize, for instance, what it means to receive daily detailed reports, cabled directly from Moscow, of the sessions of the enlarged executive committee of the Communist International. Not only brief bulletins, but an account in full of the discussions, in thousands of words, taking up columns of space, reviewing the development and outlining the strategy of the workers' world struggle for power. This has never happened before in all the history of the international labor movement. Only today, after thousands of years' effort on the part of the world's oppressed to organize their forces, do we find the gathering of the revolutionists in the Great Palace of the Kremlin, in Moscow, U. S. S. R., within a few hours of the editorial office of The DAILY WORKER, in Chicago.

Hardly have the sessions of the Communist International in the capital city of the Union of Soviet Republics closed before the news of the proceedings finds its way into type 8,000 miles away, in this great industrial center of world capitalism. Quickly the information is spread to the nation's working class. . . .

First came the detailed account of the opening of the seventh enlarged plenum of the executive committee of the Communist International, with the introductory address of Nikolai Bukharin, greeting the struggles of the Chinese people, the British coal miners and the Indonesian workers and peasants. Most workers had never heard of Indonesia. Even editors of foreignlanguage Communist dailies asked about it, little realizing that it embraced the imperialist hopes of the Dutch oppressors of the 34,000,00 inhabitants of the island of Java in the East Indies, where a Communist Party and militant trade unions struggle to develop the unity of labor in the orient. Here is a huge mass of humanity in Java nearly equal to that in France, and exceeding that of many other countries of Europe. The Communist International draws it into the stream of the world revolutionary struggle, just as the representative of the Kuomintang party of China, Shau Li Tze, pledges co-operation with the Communist Party of China and declares the Chinese national revolution a part of the world revolution.

Then Bukharin opens the discussion of the international situation as it confronts world labor, reviewing the important tasks facing the Communist Parties in many countries. Delegates from different lands upon every continent take up the debate, giving from the wealth of experiences of the various parties they represent. Such a discussion continues inevitably for several days. It takes up the struggle between the imperialisms of the United States and Great Britain, and living symbol of the disintegration of the British Empire is the fact that Willie Gallacher, the British Communist, presides as chairman while M. N. Roy, delegate of the Communist Party of India, is talking, assailing the British oppressor. The discussion shows the Communist Party of China on the right path. Ernest Thaelmann, the Communist candidate against Von Hindenburg for the presidency of the German republic, speaks, outlining the difficulties, as well as the successes of the revolution in Germany. Latin-America and Japan, Norway and Poland, Turkey and Belgium, efforts among the youth, and women workers, all enter into the discus-

Fascism in Italy is discussed and the causes of its inevitable disintegration are pointed out. It is also shown why the Chinese revolution must press on to victory, and the looming conflict on the shores of the Pacific, between the United States, Great Britain and Japan is analyzed. Thus the discussion of the far eastern question gets under way.

All this news goes out of Moscow by wire and cable, not only to the Communist press here in the United States, but to many of the other countries among the more than 50 having Communist Parties affiliated with the Communist International. It flashes its way to Canton, China, as well as to Berlin, Germany, and Paris, France, enabling the forwardmarching vanguard of world labor to keep in step everywhere,

How different from the days of Karl Marx and the First International, when the only means of communication was the slow-going mail, that required weeks to cross the ocean. Even Marx's correspondence to the powerful New York Tribune went by mail, the first successful cable spanning the Atlantic not being put down until 1865.

As late as 1907, when the Second (Socialist) International met in congress at Stuttgart, we find A. M. Simons, editor of The Chicago Daily Socialist, attending as one of the delegates of the American Socialist Party. He sent no cabled news to his own paper. Instead he was employed by the United Press, a capitalist press service, to send a 100word cable daily, no more.

In 1910, with the Second (Socialist) International holding its world congress at Copenhagen, Denmark, the last regular congress before the war, neither of the two American socialist dailies at that time, the Chicago Daily Socialist and the New York Call, worried about cabled reports. Few words trickled thru over the cables of the capitalist press agencies. Some of the correspondents of the European socialist dailies sent their reports to their papers by mail. The Second (Socialist) International was in reality a correspondence institute. Its spirit was found voice in its press. It so remained up to the breaking out of the war. While the conflict raged it was compelled to go out of business. With the ending of the war it reverted to its old ways, except now many of its leaders, capitalist prime ministers, may affix the insignia of their respective kings to their letters composed in the comfortable shadows of some royal palace. Fighting the daily struggles of the workers, against the well organized and well-equipped enemy, the Communist International leaves no stone unturned to rally labor in support of the world revolution. Thus the gathering in the Kremlin reports today, and every day, its activities, its hopes, its aspirations, its plans, its strategy as the leader of the struggle to abolish capitalism. Not next week nor next month, when the situation may have entirely changed, but today, in the heat of the actual combat. Fighting thus, "for the first time in history," world labor presses forward more rapidly to the final victory.

DEATH OF SURGEON WILL EXPOSE BRUTALITY USED ON CHICAGO PRISONERS

The coroner's investigation of the death of Dr. Arthur E. Price from alleged prison beatings may bring to light the many assaults by prison authorities on workers under arrest or sentence.

The dreaded cruelty of the Chicago police and prison administrations, which labor is powerless to check and which nobody else cares about, picked the wrong victim when it descended on Price who once was in the top rank of Chicago surgeons but fell into poverty because of the drug habit. His death in the county hospital Oct. 22 was pronounced suicide but the coroner discovered that his skull had been fractured, eyes blackened by blows and the whole body dis-

Contest Senate's Power Over Primaries

(Special to The Daily Worker) WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 1 .-Democrats and irregular republicans on one side and regular republicans and some democrats on the other, are girding themselves for the battle over the seating of Frank L. Smith of Illinois and William S. Vare of Pennsylvania in the United States senate. It is now apparent that the battle will e unavoidable.

Primary as Issue.

With primary corruption in each case virtually established, the main issue of conflict will be the right of the senate to withhold membership because of primary activity. The sen ate will have to decide if the primary is a part of the election, as the constitution gives the senate power to deny seating to anyone convicted of irregularities in the election, but does not mention the primary. Defenders of Vare and Smith declare vehemently that the senate cannot question a can didate's expenditures in the primary elections, and that the state is the sole judge in that case.

Getting Evidence. Sen. Norris, however, is amassing evidence to show that there was corruption in the election campaigns as well as in the primary campaign. Threaten Southern Senators.

Republicans are countering the democrats with the threat that if the senate has jurisdiction over the primary investigations into primary activities of seven southern senators will be started, as in the south the primary is usually the election. They will also challenge the southern senators on the grounds of the disfranchisement of the Negro, they threaten.

Many observers fell there is no doubt hat Vare and Smith will be ousted. . as the combination of democrats and republicans is enough to accomplish that-provided they stick.

Cleveland Prisoners Break Day's Fast on Thirty Cents in Food

CLEVELAND, Dec. 1. - According to a report of the state welfare department, prisoners incarcerated in the Cleveland jail are forced to go without food for 24 hours unless they have money to buy from the restaurant man who brings coffee and sandwiches to the cells. After the 24-hour starvation period the city spends 30 cents a day for each prisoner.

This is quite in keeping with the harges against Sheriff Kohler, who has been continually accused of proiding the prisoners with a most indequate diet, too much starch and too few green vegetables. Furthermore. Kohler is asserted to have kept no account of his expenditures, so that insinuations are abroad that he or some of his men have pocketed part of the allowance money.

Enlisted Man May Eat More and Carry Less

WASHINGTON-The load is to be hifted somewhat from the doughboy's back to his stomach, if the recommendations made by Maj. Gen. Robert Allen, chief of infantry, to the secretary of war are accepted and put into effect. He says that rations are too small and packs weigh too much. He also criticizes the amount of drill and fatigue duty, which have become heavier since the men of the regular army have had to do valet service to the city men who take a summer outing at R. O. T. C. and C. M. T. C. camps—tho that isn't exactly the wording of the report.

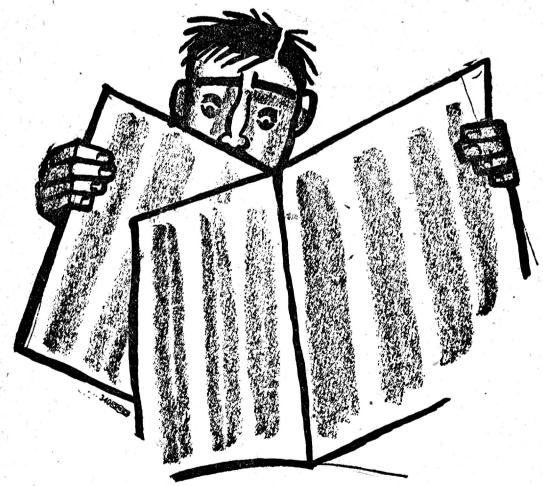

Peace time desertions he attributes in part to "improper home training." but more especially to the large amount of drilling and fatigue work now required, to insufficient rations, inadequate housing, and service at the summer camps.

It is disclosed that the rations of the regular army are distinctly inferor to those of the summer camps, from which it appears that bank clerks who are taking a free vacation are not expected to live as cheaply as. the poor boys who have joined the regular army because they found the recruiting office cheaper than the emloyment agency.

GENEVA LABOR OFFICE MAN IS ON TOUR OF U.S.

Calls Labor Problems International

By CARL HAESSLER, Federated Press.

"Some sort of international machinfor handling labor problems is bound to obtain universal recognition because the problems themselves are International," says Harold Butler, deputy director of the league of nations international labor office in Geneva, Switzerland. Butler is journeying thru the United States to get arst-hand knowledge of its industrial situation, meeting employers, trade union officials and radicals in an effort to comprehend what he calls the *extraordinary labor situation you have here."

Asked why he came to the United States, which is not a member of the league of nations and has not ratified any of the labor agreements sponsored by the league's labor office, Butler replied that America exercises a profound influence on the economic fate of all other countries.

Immigration Law Effects. "Your immigration quota law," he said, "directly affects the labor market of the rest of the world by disturbing the natural flow of surplus labor from one point to another. Your exclusion statutes do the same thing. Your tariffs influence production everywhere else. And your immense accumulation of investment surplus not only is a prime factor in the world's money centers but takes a sort of revenge on your own country by undermining the results desired from your immigration laws. You keep out foreign labor, but you are at the same time sending your capital abroad, where it gives to foreigners jobs that formerly went to Americans at home, and you are sending machinery to China and Japan and India, where the populations barred from your shores get factory jobs that displace your factory employes at home."

Exceeded Spending Limit. Gould was charged with exceeding the election expenditures limit, including bribery of officials. He was cleared of the charges by the secretary of state, who sat as a court, but the democrats are not satisfied with this and announce they will carry the fight against Gould to the senate. The fight will be a bitter one, for if of this except the feeling that you Gould is ousted the republicans will have saved some child from sorrow probably lose control of the senate.

NAVY SECRETARY TELLS HOW HARDING'S GREAT DISARMAMENT WORKS

That transferring war from the ocean to the air is one of the august triumphs of Harding's disarmament conference was disclosed by Secretary of the Navy Curtis D. Wilbur, who detracted attention from the midehipmen's mascot goat, long enough to tell how the Saratoga and Lexington, originally planned to be dreadnaughts, are being converted into airplane carriers.

They will be ready for their trial trips, the secretary said, by July 1, and soon after that will follow naval air maneuvers on the most extensive scale ever undertaken.

Further light is thrown on disarmament by the secretary's statement that "advances made in aircraft and gunning made it imperative to modernize these ships or scrap them."

Zausner Evades.

Zausner's principal defense at the trial was a naive rejection of all responsibility in money matters, this belonging, he contended, to the financian secretary. Zausner's actual responsibility, which could not be brought out at the trial on account of the refusal of cross-examination, h shown by Article 8, Section 4 of the by-laws of the district, which says the secretary's duties are, among others, to "attest all money orders drawn on the council, also keep a record of all orders of whatever purpose on the minutes" and to "receive proposition (initiation) fees and issue permits for same and turn same over to the financial secretary every week."

Altho waving the banner of progressivism. Zausner's incumbancy of office in the painters' organization has proved of most advantage to the bosses' organization which has never before flourished strongly. A suggestion of Zaugner's makeup is indicated by a recent action. One of the bosses, I. Ories, received an affidavit from Zausner maintaining he was living up to union rules and that there was no basis for action against him, such as was being carried on by the Brooklyn District Council. This affidavit served Ories in getting an injunction against the Brooklyn council,

LABOR PROBLEMS COURSE FORMED AT N. Y. SCHOOL

New Class Will Open on December 3

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 .- The living problems being thrashed out by the American labor movement today are all of them scheduled for consideration in a new symposium course offered by the Workers' School in which persons prominent in the labor movement and expressive of every shade of opinion will participate.

Stuart Chase, Thomas J. Curtis, Wil-Weisbord, Arthur C. Calhoun, Robert W. Dunn, Morris Kolchin, D. J. P. Warbasse, Ben Gold, Rogert Baldwin, *William Pickens-these few names indicate the wide range of viewpoints represented in this symposium course. At Workers' School.

The course is to be given in the Workers' School, under the direction of Alexander Trachtenberg, and the entire top floor of the new building at 106 East 14th street will be used every Friday night for the next three months for this purpose.

Begins Dec. 3.

The course begins on Friday night, Dec. 3, at 8 p. m. with a lecture by Stuart Chase on "Waste in American Industry." On the following week Roger Baldwin will talk on a subject which should provide interesting discussion, "Civil Liberties and the Class Struggle.'

Topics perhaps no less controversial will be "The Aims of Workers' Education." with A. J. Muste as lecturer, and "Class Collaboration," with Wm. Z. Foster, to be given on December 17 and January 3, respectively. On January 14 Benjamin Stolberg will take up the same problem as Foster takes up, namely, "Class Collaboration," and on January 21 Ben Gold and Sascha Zimmerman will talk on the vital topic of "Amalgamation in the Clothing Industry."

Other Lecturers.

Subsequent lecturers include Dr. Je P. Warbasse, "Co-operation and the Labor Movement;" Theresa Wolfsohn, "The Woman Worker and the Trade Unions;" H. W. Laidler, "Injunctions and Boycotts;" Morris Kolchin, "Unemployment Insurance in the Garment Industry," and Thomas J. Curtis, 'Industrial Accidents and Workmen's Compensations."

Each problem will be taken up in an introductory talk by Alexander Trachtenberg, who is directing the symposium, then a talk by the leading speaker of the evening, then questions and a general discussion, in which the viewpoints will be controversial thrashed out. Admission to the three months' course of lectures is $3.50. Individual lectures 50 cents.

That was the reason she was so indifferent to the charms of oil-workers, and not because she was wrapped up in Paul. Sisters didn't make such fuss over brothers—no, that was rubbish! Bunny remembered that Bertie said this same thing; and strangely enough, Rudolph Liebich the proletarian Eunice Hoyt had said it also-it had been one reason why she composer of songs and music, did the hated to have him go up to Paradise. Bunny decided that it was translating from the German; Michael better not to tell women about one another; and especially not capitalism, and patriotism, and has Gold helped with some of the adaptato introduce them, if it could possibly be avoided!"

Morning came, and the newspapers were outside the door of their room. Sitting up in bed in silken garments they devoured -no, not the elaborate accounts of the world premiere with details of the gowns worn by the women—they would come later; but first, their eyes leaped to the headline:

STAR SLAPS RIVAL IN LOBBY.

There it was! The reporter, having been unable to get the real story, had made the inevitable romantic assumption. Another triangle of the screen world! He had written a highly playful article about the world-famous star, emerging in the hour of her glory upon the arm of the young oil prince-about whom so many interesting rumors were being circulated. Seeing him leave her side and join some other woman, the star had China, living with the workers and the Church of All Nations, 9 Second ave rushed over in a fit of jealous fury and smacked the other woman revolutionary armies. He can speak nue. The admission is 50 cents, and in the face. There was an interview with Officer Tony Reber of the Angel City police department, who had stepped between the infuriated combatants. The star had called her rival an awful name, which the officer's modesty would not permit him to repeat. "But I'll say this," he told the world, "she certainly packs an awful punch, that lady. If I was to hit anybody as hard as hat I would sure get canned.'

Bunny met the other combatant on the campus that same lay, and her face was pale and her dark eyes sombre. "Mr. Ross," she began, quickly, "I want to tell you I'm ashamed for what I said."

"You don't have to be ashamed," he replied. "It was true." "I know, but I had no right to say it to a friend of yours, nd after all you have done for me. It was just that I was so rought up over that picture."

"I understand," Bunny said. "Miss Tracy wishes me to tell ou she is truly sorry for what she did."

"I know, you'd make her sorry. But I don't care about that -we Jews have been struck many times, and we workers also, and there'll be more of it before the class war is over. The real narm is one she can never atone for—that hideous picture that's coing out to poison the people's minds—millions upon millions of hem. For that she can never apologize." It was an aspect of the matter that had somehow fallen into he background of Bunny's consciousness during all the excitement. "I've nothing good to say about the picture," he replied, but I think you must make allowances for Miss Tracy. She loesn't know as much about Russia as you and I.

"You mean she doesn't know there were hideous cruelties in old Russia—that the Tsardom was another word for terror?" "Yes, but then—"

"She doesn't know that the men she portrays as criminals have most of them been in the dungeons of the Tsar for the sake of their faith?"

"She may not know that, Miss Menzies. It's hard to realize how ignorant people can be, when they read nothing but American newspapers and magazines.'

'Well, Mr. Ross, you know that I'm not a Bolshevik; but we have to defend the workers of Russia from world reaction. That picture is a part of the white terror, and the people that made it knew exactly what they were doing-just as much as when they beat my brother over the head and started to deport

'Yes," said Bunny, "but you must understand, an actress loes not write the story, and she's not always consulted about the parts she plays."

"Ah, Mr. Ross!" Rachel's face wore a pitying smile. "She would tell you that, and you're so anxious to believe the best about people! Well, I'm going to tell you what I think, and maybe you won't ever speak to me again. A woman who makes a picture like that is nothing but a prostitute, and the fact that he's highly paid makes her all the more loathesome."

"Oh, Miss Menzies!"

"I know, it sounds cruel. But that's a murder picture, and that woman knew it perfectly well. They paid her money and ewels and fur cloaks and silk lingerie, and her face on the billboards and in all the newspapers; and she took the price—as she's done many times before. I don't know one thing about her private life, Mr. Ross, but I'll wager that if you investigate, you'll find she's sold herself, body as well as mind, all the way from the bottom up to the pedestal she's on now!"

And Bunny decided that he had better postpone for a while the plan he had had in mind, of having Vee Tracy and Rachel Menzies meet and understand each other!

The strain of work in the laundry costs to meet the southern competition is so great that only a few women can stand it for a considerable time. The labor turnover in the laundries is very great indeed.

NEW SHAKE-UP OF POLICEMEN TO CURB CRIME

District Captains

"Passing the buck," seems to be one of the favorite games in the Chicago police department.

After a conference between Chief of Police Morgan A. Collins and Mayor Dever, an order was issued distributing 21 of the detective bureau squads to various police districts, to which they will hereafter report instead of, as formerly, to Deputy Chief of Detectives John Stege. The intention, it is said, is to make the district captains responsible in the future for crime in their districts.

It is charged that many crimes have not been reported by district captains to headquarters, but even those which have been so reported have been numerous enough to cause uneasiness in the chief's office.

The shake-up has brought out some it is top-heavy. Too many bosses and too few workers. There are 53 captains and only 39 districts, the letective bureau, and the traffic division to need them. In spite of this surplus, immediately after the elecion, five more captains were appointed. No place has yet been found for them. As there was no appropriation to cover their salaries, this was goten around by giving them an increase in pay of $300 over that which they had received as patrolmen.

This latest of the many so-called 'shake-ups" in the department comes after a grand jury had indicted 74 politicians and policemen for being mplicated in the booze traffic.

Purpose of Meeting.

The chairman opened the conference by reading the call and making an appropriate address stating the purposes of the meeting and the program to be adopted. He spoke of the expulsion policy in the S. W. P. U. and in the B. & S. W. P. U., showed how each city competes with the other, the bosses promising steady work in one center if the workers will submit to lower prices existing in some other shoe center, thus making the lowest scale the standard for all. He outfeeling in the police department that lined the organizational means to make the conference permanent by electing an executive committee with headquarters in New York City and a large national committee.

He said the immediate task is to nitiate a campaign to organize the unorganized shoe and leather workers, (2) to carry on a fight for amalgamation of all existing shoe workers' unions. (3) to enter the fight to stop wage reduction and for wage increases, (4) to carry on a campaign against state boards of arbitration and agreements made thru them.

Issue Manifesto.

The conference also outlined the points for a manifesto to the shoe and leather workers to be issued by the incoming executive committee, dealing with wage reductions, hours of labor and general conditions in the industry and the need for militant leadership and an adequate program, and for amalgamation and unity in the trades,

After discussion and reports upon the local situations each resolution was unanimously adopted and the delegates were enthusiastic in their support of the program outlined at the in the office of the late S. FOOD, HOUSING, DISCUSSED WITH WORKING GIRLS

Shop Cafeterias Keep Wages Down

(Special to The Dally Worker)

NEW YORK, Dec. 1. - Employers who feed their girl workers in company cafeterias and lunchrooms at cost are subsidizing these workers and help keep down wages, Benjamin R. Andrews, professor of household economics at Teachers' College, Columbia University, told the Association for the Proper Housing of Girls annual conference. Parents subsidize girl workers who live at home in New York City an average of $2 a week, he figured from his examination of 100 girls' budgets, some of the girl workers living in clubs, some at home and others rooming and boarding out.

Office Workers Mostly.

The girls concerned in the conference are chiefly office workers. Andrews recommend increasing the school age to 18 years, claiming that further education for girls would help standardize their wages. He said emplovers should pay full support wages to the girls as to adult workers and not depend on the subsidies of families or from low-cost housing. Andrews' comparatively small survey found wages averaged from $21 to $30 week; that girls at home paid an verage of $13.50 for room and board, in clubs $14.50, and those on their own pay $15.50. New York women actory workers average only $16.50 er week in wages.

Dr. Mary S. Rose, nutrition proessor at Teachers' College, told the working girls they should spend less for deserts and more for milk to have the most healthful diet. At least a pint of milk a day she recommended. a fifth of food expense should be for at Chicago Lighthouse fresh vegetables, a fifth for fruit, a fifth or less for meats and a fifth or There are in Chicago at least thirty- less for cereals, sugars and fats. The Hearst press echoes the Tribune. In a boldface box, headed "Army-Navy Tie Brings Recruit Stampede Here," the Herald-Examiner says:

Cadets and midshipmen parading and playing football here precipitated a stampede to recruiting offices. All yesterday Maj. A. E. Hawkins and his aids at 107 W. Van Buren street examined eager would-be rookies. Last night they sent fifty men to training camps.

This year the navy received only a beggarly $322,000,000 and the Tribune pleads piteously for the poverty-stricken militarists.

We here in Chicago and the middle west pledged ourselves to a fresh effort to rescue the army and navy from its present state. We marked that pledge with a display of profound emotion on the occasion of an event that promises to become historic.

Chicago and the middle west will keep that pledge so that the young men in gray and the young men in blue shall come into an inheritance of an army and navy of the United States fully adequate to every need and emergency and maintained in the perfection of effectiveness.

It will be news to many that the people of the middle west have been pledged to support a new orgy of militaristic activity, but committee reported that numerous ap- The significance of this move cannot workers could have carried the day. there is no doubt that the Tribune and powerful capitalist interests plications for permits had been receiv- be overlooked. Particularly in the field of sports where the youth of the nation can be reached with the least effort, are the militarists busy. The competition and enthusiasm of games are translated into militarism by the golden alchemy of Wall Street's millions and in their behalf.

WHICH reminds me of a story, as an old S. L. P. friend of mine used to say several times during the course of a lecture on the wisdom of Daniel de Leon. Once upon a time a good wife was seized with an attack of pleurisy. Her equally good husband saddled his steed and drove to the nearest doctor. The scene was somewhere in the wide open spaces. The doctor confessed that he was quite ignorant of the proper treatment for pleurisy. "But." says he. "I am an expert on fits, so I have medicine that will throw her into fits and then I am the lad that can cure her." The socialist would first have the imperialists trample over the workers of the sorld and then apply their evolutionary cure. MARGOT ASQUITH is blamed by Lord Birkenhead, alias Galloping
