

"I Believe That All Of This Trouble Is Caused By the EMPLOYMENT AGENTS"--Judge Mann

INDUSTRIAL WORKER

VOL. 1
SPOKANE, WASHINGTON, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1909 One Dollar a Year No. 37

E. GURLEY FLYNN AND OTHERS PINCHED

At the court last night, immediately after the evening mass meeting at the I. W. W. hall, fellow workers Charles Conroy, Louis Gatewood and W. H. Phillips were arrested in a raid of plain clothes officers on the hall.

Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, who was to be the speaker at the evening, was arrested by Gorilla Police at the intersection of Front and Stevens streets. Elizabeth Gurley Flynn (Mrs. J. A. Jones) is in a delicate condition and much concern for her health is in evidence last night on learning that she was undergoing a hard sweating condition at the Gila monster, the Pug and the diamond shoe snakes always in attendance. Fred S. Moore, her attorney, was denied the privilege of talking to her, the door being slammed in her face with the words, "To hell with you!"

The raiding party consists in the whole gang of lawless thugs yelling, cursing and shouting threats of personal violence at the prisoner until, with scattered nerves, he or she is too weak to resist.

This should be enough to bring every red-blooded man in the vicinity of Spokane to bear his shoulder to the fight that has heretofore been borne by women and other men.

The prisoners are all held under a charge of criminal conspiracy.

Nothing at the hall proceeded as usual, except that the enthusiasm increased tenfold. Ten orators sprung out of nowhere and a large collection was taken.

No doubt the women-headed thugs imagine they have grabbed some more "leaders." It is utterly impossible for a low-browed, brutal head-smasher, who is accustomed to taking orders from equally contemptible chiefs, to conceive of an intelligent body of workers who need no "leaders" and are able to do without orders.

Some day the ignorant swine may get it through their thick skulls that to get the "leaders" of the I. W. W., they will have to get the whole membership—and then they won't have them.

EVENTS OF THE WEEK.

Another week of brutality, of starvation and suffering. Another week of police court farce and the free speech fight swings merrily along, court of justice barred to the public and a martyr to the cause of freedom since last writing.

We have had a thanksgiving celebration, a young girl has been crushed out fighting in the cause of labor. "Our martyred dead" has been increased by one more vigorous revolutionist. En route from Chicago, Wednesday, November 17, John Kelly Cole, was killed at Tomah, Wis., under the wheels of a freight train. His fellow workers continued to Spokane, where a committee, came on from Chicago and took his body back to be buried.

It certainly ought to encourage those of us who are in the fight that this boy has given up his very life that we may triumph, much as we sorrow for his untimely death.

The diet in the Franklin school for the last week is no longer as bountiful as bread and butter. Now it is sour bread, given in the most filthy of tumps. Needless to say, the men are physical wrecks when they emerge from this treatment. In spite of the fact that none of the sentenced have expired men are turned loose every day on one pretext or another, but really because they are too near dead for the police to be bothered with them. They are warned to get out of town as soon as possible, while the men remaining inside the jail's are told "those fellows went on the rock pile." They doubtless hope by this to break the spirit and solidarity of the I. W. W. men, but have failed. The men who come out rest up, for a few days and then bravely express their willingness to return to jail, knowing full well that they will get a double dose of "justice" this time.

In order that the pangs of hunger may be increased the merciful police put all of the boys out of their "bunks" (consisting of the hard, cold floor at 4 a. m., at the risk of turning the hose on them if they dare refuse. If they speak through the windy to a passerby they are thrown in the sweat box.

Thanksgiving day was appropriately celebrated inside the Christian jails by feeding all the prisoners with turkey and cranberry sauce. Chief of the I. W. W. men. Chief of Police Sullivan's superiority remarked when interviewed: "The water faucets are in good order and they may dine as often as they please." It is this same chief who out of the depths of his wisdom talks the I. W. W. "anarchist body."

Reason probably is that the chief fears that some of the half starved prisoners may perhaps violate the I. W. W. man's never counseled violence or attacks upon any man's person. We do not believe in it—although the police department. We absolutely repudiate any responsibility for acts of violence, but just because the chief of police is scared to death for fear he may lose the whiff that he has sown, it's his business to blame the I. W. W. by calling us an anarchist body. We'll put Sullivan at the head of the class if he can give a definition of anarchy.

We certainly will give him a gold medal if he can tell what I. W. W. stands for.

The "living day" was appropriately celebrated outside the jail. Bread and water was the fare of all who received the order of the committee on time. One fellow worker organized a sensation by going into a fashionable restaurant, and after letting the waiter detain a list of roast turkeys, domestic ducks, mince pies and cranberry sauce, ordered in a grandiose manner, "extra size portion of bread and water."

November 23, marks a red letter day in the annals of the I. W. W. in America tradition characterized the actions of Judge Mann throughout the entire farce. The chief of police was being cross-examined by Lawyer Conroy, regard to the latter's arrest for disorderly conduct. The chief had stepped out of his stand, but was suddenly called back by Conroy who sprung the question, "How do you been drinking that day, Chief?" After establishing the judge and the chief, but an hour had finally been discovered. Court room was cleared at once. Star chamber proceedings now became the order of the day. All I. W. W. members barred from the court of justice, and

JUDGE DANN'S COURT--A FARCE

Continuous Performance.

Bailiff: Oyez, Oyez, this honorable court is now in session. May God save the Chamber of Commerce and the honorable court.

Corporation Counsel: May it please the court, Mr. Furniture is in the room. He has left his business to come down here on the slight charge we have against him of blocking two principal sidewalks and partially blocking two principal streets. I move we take up his case ahead of the regular docket of the I. W. W. cases.

I. W. W. Counsel: The street speaking prisoners are in jail, if your honor please, and have a right to hearing in their order. Mr. Furniture is free on his recognizance, and—

Judge Dann (interrupting): Mr. Furniture's business interests will have precedence here. Chief O'Malligan has told me this and I think I understand it. Call the officer.

Cop: I noticed his obstructive ways three weeks, not mindin' the complaints. Finally I told Mister Furniture he was 'vlatin' the lot and atter his bulldin' was all done I pulled him up.

Judge Dann: What has the defendant to say?

Corporation Counsel: I don't think it necessary, your honor. There was no aggravation, and Mr. Furniture will understand that his arrest was made only to satisfy certain complaining citizens who don't amount to much, and really we don't think it should have been done at all.

Judge Dann: The attitude of the city is truly commendable. The law is here, of course, but it should never be construed to embarrass our business men. Because the ordinance is plain, however, I will fine the defendant $5, but will remit that and all costs. (Here Chief O'Malligan whispers aside to Judge Dann: "I will see to it that no such arrests are made agin.")

Corporation Counsel: You are charged with disorderly conduct.

Chorus of I. W. W. prisoners: Not guilty.

Cop: I treated this man mak' uh speech—

Judge Dann and Corporation Counsel: That's all.

(I. W. W. counsel attempts cross-examination, but is sat upon by the court.)

I. W. W. Counsel (rising): The city council never intended the ordinance on disorderly conduct to interfere with the "inherent, God-given right of free speech." The proof of this is that in all the years that it has been in force it never had any such far-fetched application. Then, too, it is proven by the fact that a subsequent city legislature passed an ordinance directly on the street speaking matter, and which your honor yourself declared unconstitutional and invalid. Surely, if that was bad law then it would be bad practice to construe the former law as applying. Then, too, we can bring before your honor members of the city council which enacted the disorderly conduct ordinance who will testify that at no stage of their deliberations did they ever think of stopping street speaking. We have abundant decisions on—

Judge Dann: It makes no difference to me what the legislature intended. I will ask the prisoner a question. Where you making a speech?

First I. W. W.: No, sir, but I was intending—

Judge Dann: Thirty days and $100.

I. W. W. Counsel: But, your honor, we deem to the sufficiency of—

Judge Dann: Call next case.

Cop: I got dis man makin'—

Judge Dann, to second I. W. W.: Were you making a speech?

Second I. W. W.: No, sir, I was reading from the Declaration of Independence.

Judge Dann: Thirty days on the rock pile and $100.

I. W. W. Counsel: We would like to discuss the merits—

Judge Dann: I am not concerned with the merits. Call next case.

Bailiff: Next case, your honor, is the regular list of street speaking cases, but Madame Pannel Game has just telephoned that she wants the cases against her girls disposed of. They are Faustine Sullivan and 24 others.

Judge Dann: Call Faustine Sullivan three times.

Bailiff (in loud voice): Faustine Sullivan! Faustine Sullivan! Faustine Sullivan! There's no response, your honor.

Judge Dann: Let the bonds of $15 each in the 25 cases be forfeited and give the money to Chief O'Malligan. See that Madame is not disturbed again for a month. Call the next case.

Cop: I treated dis man makin'—

Judge Dann (to third I. W. W.): Making a speech?

Third I. W. W.: No, sir. I read a copy of your decision about the inherent God-given right—

Judge Dann: That'll do. Thirty days and $100. I will say right here that at the time I delivered myself of that guff, all the reporters, or rather the Spokesman-Review department of the police force, were here. Then, too, I did not know that Mr. Thielen over there, of the Pinkerton spy system, was interested. And I did know then what the Chamber of Commerce thought of it. Truth of it is, I thought I was peddling some ordinary and harmless morality. Thirty days and $100. Call next case.

I. W. W. Counsel: Before we go into the next case, I would like to ask if your honor regards the Industrial Workers of the World as an outlaw organization, and also what relation it bears to the Pan-Tan Panto?

(Loud acclamation from citizens. Judge Dann jumped from his seat, eyes bulging, and big, plethoric veins stood out on the judicial brow. "Clear the court room!" he thundered. Then he sent for the Pan-Tan sword eater, Police Commissioner Gobbler, and asked him to see that the main audience chamber be partitioned off from the court and bar rail.

(Curtain.)

SPOKANE SWITCHMEN TIE UP FREIGHT YARDS

I. W. W. agitators will be compelled to ride the "blind" and "deck" as a result of a strike of the Switchmen's Union. Twenty-five hundred men went out last night at 8:30 p. m.; all freight handlers are laid off in consequence and freight transportation is completely tied up in and around Spokane. The companies are refusing to accept freight for shipment and admit a complete tie-up. The demands of the Union are: "Abolish the age limit. Do away with the present rigid physical examination. Give us the nine-hour day, with an increase of six cents an hour pro rata."

As usual, according to unions not organized industrially, part of the men engaged in the same industry are scabbing on the strikers. The B. R. T. men are keeping the passenger trains running on schedule. The Canadian Pacific and O. R. & N. Co., not having contracts with either the B. R. T. or Switchmen's Union are doing business at the same old stand, their employees thus scabbing on their Great Northern and Northern Pacific brothers.

RENEW FIGHT ON I. W. W.

At a conference between city and county officials yesterday it was decided to continue without respite the prosecution of hobos and anarchists who are coming to this city on brake-beams, in flat cars and otherwise to wage the battle of the I. W. W. against municipal law and order. Among those at the conference were Mayor N. S. Pratt, Prosecuting Attorney Fred C. Pugh, Corporation Counsel E. O. Connor, Police Commissioner Carl W. Tuerke, Chief of Police John Sullivan and John E. Blair, assistant corporation counsel. Police Justice S. A. Mann also was present and briefly discussed the prosecutions that have been waged in his court and the attitude the court has assumed.

Corporation Counsel E. O. Connor said after the conference:

"It has been decided to be even more energetic and firm in prosecuting those I. W. W. who do not obey the laws."

City Comptroller Robert Fairley made the estimate yesterday that the I. W. W. attack on this city is costing the taxpayers fully $150 a day on the average, or about $1000 a week, and said that taxpayers will face an expense of thousands of dollars if the threat of the "reds" to continue the siege until spring is made good.

Editor Spokane Press: Being an interested spectator of your fight against the loan sharks and all their kindred, whose living is made by preying on the needs and misfortunes of the "common people," I cannot help calling your attention to another phase of the matter which I presume has escaped your notice.

In the course of our business we have occasion to use common laborers and have in several instances called on different employment agencies to supply us with men. These men were hired with no understanding as to the length of time they are to be employed and are paid at the rate of $2.50 for eight hours' work.

For this class of jobs we find that the ordinary employment agency charges from $1 to $2. Needing another man a short time ago and just previously having noticed that the Y. M. C. A. was running an employment department, we thought it might be well to patronize this well known institution, thinking it was very likely that it was running a free employment bureau or at least one where the fee was merely nominal and not extortionate like the much discussed agencies which have been in the public limelight of late.

We were well satisfied with the man furnished, but were greatly surprised to find that instead of running any free employment bureau the Y. M. C. A. was charging more for giving a man a chance to work than the agencies that were mobbed some time ago, the fee being $3 for a job at $2.50 per day that might have lasted only a couple of days.

This was bad enough, but the mode of procedure taken by the association, that they might take no chances of losing their fee, convinced us that they did not have much faith in humanity, and to our notion greatly resembles Shylock and his pound of flesh.

The applicant for a job is made to sign an order on his future employer directing him to deduct the amount of fee from the employee's wages and remit to the Y. M. C. A. Talk about signing your salary away to the loan sharks, where have they gotten the better of this method?

We are great believers in the Y. M. C. A. and realize the incalculable good it has done for the young men of our country, but we also firmly believe that in this land of prosperity no man should have to pay for the opportunity to work, and least of all the common laborer, who works the hardest and in the poorest paid.

Wishing you great success in the stand you have taken of equal rights to all and special privileges for none, we remain, Very truly yours, Northwestern Concrete Co., H. L. Carr, Secretary, in Spokane Press.

Dear Brother: Do not the workers in advocating compulsory socialism create opposition that would NOT be engendered if they advocated Political Voluntary Socialism—national, state and municipal?

Fraternally yours,
F. C. RIVERS,
Fraternal Cosmopolitan and Modern Theosophist (interparatory).

The above "brother" has favored us with several of these communications. Will some "brother" be so kind as to favor him with a dose of salts?

There is tonic in the things that men do not love to hear; and there is damnation in the things that wicked men love to hear. Free speech is to a great people what winds are to the ocean and malaria regions, which wait away the elements of disease and bring new elements of health; and where free speech is stopped miasma is bred, and death comes fast.—Henry Ward Beecher.

"A community is infinitely more brutalized by the habitual employment of punishment than it is by the occasional occurrence of crime."—Oscar Wilde.

"Even voting for the right is doing nothing for it. It is only expressing to men feebly your desire that it should prevail."—H. D. Thoreau.

this course has practically continued up to the present. The next day when court opened it was discovered that a partition had been erected during the night and the entire section devoted to spectators had been cut off. About thirty-six people at the most can now be admitted as spectators, yet an issue is being tried out that vitally interests hundreds of people.

One of the most outrageous instances during the court sessions of the last week was the settlement of the case against a man named Muller. This man was not a member of the I. W. W., but had seen another fellow enter the court room right in front of him. When he tried to force his way in Officer Shannon, who had been placed on guard, made no effort to tell him that the court room was already crowded and that no others would be allowed to enter, but grabbed him and choked him until his terrified screams and cries for assistance rang through the entire court room. Officers even begged Shannon to stop beating the man, but who would try to tell a cat to stop tantalizing a mouse? The cat hasn't intelligence, and neither has disorderly the user. This man was tried for disorderly conduct—it's a wonder they didn't make it assaulting an officer—and was sentenced to thirty days and fined $100 and costs. Never was such a travesty on justice, and yet these cases are so numerous that indignation has long since reached its climax and can go no further. Disinterested parties testified against Shannon. Letters were written to the press by club women having no connection with the I. W. W. If the same testimony had been piled up against an I. W. W. man they would probably have sentenced him to be hanged, but Shannon will stay on the force till he is honorably discharged and draw a pension for the rest of his life.

That the police of Spokane are notoriously ignorant men, of brutal instincts, is borne out by the following instance: A drunken man was arrested by Officer Myers, and without offering any resistance to justify an attack, was knocked down and beaten by the officer until he became unconscious. So flagrant was the assault and indignity did the citizens and passerby become that complaints were made against the officer by prominent business men, and he was discharged from the force. If he had beaten up an I. W. W. man, however, they would probably have presented him with a testimonial of praise.

The Washington Water Power Company is the most ungrateful sort of master. They won't even let the special officers ride free on the street cars.

Resolutions of denunciation of the I. W. W. and its methods have been unanimously carried by the Chamber of Commerce and resolutions denouncing the Chamber of Commerce and its methods have been unanimously carried by the I. W. W. It's mutual and there's no love lost. The A. F. of L. Central Labor Council unanimously endorsed circulating petitions to initiate the new ordinance. They are working on it steadily night and day, much to the chagrin of Mayor Pratt and the city council.

The criminal conspiracy cases have dragged along very slowly. When Attorney David K. Toole came from Chicago and requested that the cases be postponed for one day that he might familiarize himself with the details every sort of objection was raised by the attorneys for the state. When Prosecuting Attorney Pugh came from his trip from the Pacific Coast the cases were postponed on Wednesday until Saturday that he might familiarize himself with the case. It makes a whole lot of difference which side you're on. Fellow Worker Fillgno has been bound over by Judge Mann to be tried in the Superior court, but Fellow Worker Pancner was sentenced outright to six months in the county jail. The other case have yet to come up for consideration, although the judge could just as well read off the whole proposition at once. We have no doubt but that his mind is made up.

Mrs. Edith Fernet is out on a thousand dollar bond furnished by two members of the local socialist party. Mrs. Fernet came out in a state of extreme weakness, because she was unable to eat for two days the stuff called "food" that was offered to her.

From various members released from jail we learn the following: There is absolutely no truth in the newspaper story that the boys refused to listen to I. W. W. songs and discussions. Their entire sentence has been enlivened by the ceaseless propaganda work of some of the older members among the new recruits. If they weren't being starved to death they would probably organize a local and continue to do I. W. W. business. Further, it is ascertained that every man released is put through a merciless drilling by the chief of police and plain clothes detectives.

The object of this is to get the members to say that somebody else told them to go to jail and thus fasten the entire responsibility upon a few so-called leaders. But none of the boys inside the jail ever needed to be told to go there, and the chief might as well try to find a needle in a haystack as a leader in the I. W. W.

Events in direct connection with the free speech fight are encouraging as ever. Recruits arrived Saturday from Omaha, Sunday from Galveston, Tex., and Monday from Chicago, Ill. If we keep the ball rolling in the matter of direct action on the street corner this fight can not be lost.

Each one to his post! Do your level best, boys and the I. W. W. will triumph. "Let cowards flinch and traitors sneer, we'll keep the red flag flying here."
ELIZABETH GURLEY FLYNN.

News has come of the death of Fellow Worker Wm. Jensen of Local Union 432, Seattle. He was crushed by the falling of a green tree while working for the Oso Logging Co. at Oso, Wash.

Fellow Worker Adolphi Bornsen was sent to investigate the circumstances of the accident.

One fellow-worker was asked on his third appearance in jail: "What are you back for?" He replied: "Oh! I just came to see Shannon."

They are now trying him for his sanity. Wouldn't blame them—if he really meant it.
