DRAMATIC SPEECH BY THE A. R. U. CHIEF COUNSEL.

Makes Prosecution Uncomfortable Enquires Who Set Fires Conscience Higher Than Law.

Below is presented the complete speech of Wm. Wallace M. Erwin, hief counsel for the defense in the Debs et al. contempt trial. It is a waste of time to point out its commanding qualities; they announce themselves. The punctuation is by Mr. Erwin, and while departing wholly from all set rules is intended to somewhat assist the reader in the impossible task of realizing the manner of delivery without having seen it:

If your honor please, on account of the feeling which this strike, the causes of this strike-the vibrations along the lines of the labor organizations, as well as the fears of the people of this republic-I feel moved to say right here something uncommon in court, and unusual, and not ordinarily permitted by judges. In a certain sense I represent the labor line. I have done it beforenot often-but long enough to have their confidence where I am known; and I want to say what I am about to say, for their benefit, and not for your honor's enconium. I want to say in plain words, before a plain people, that, whatever may be the result in this case, you have been fair-an extraordinary thing in a court of justice, arising upon an extraordinary occasion; -- and, patriotically and honestly it is the sentiment of our inmost souls; and we dare to speak it at this last effort in our case; and we sincerely hope that, whatever may be the outcome of this case, that the American republic will regard this as having been tried in the brain of an intellectual athlete who had no feeling here; for you have shown that, thanks be to God, and thanks be to the splendor of our

I have listened to the arguments of counsel upon both sides of this case. agree with the counsel on the part of the defense, thoroughly, that this court has no jurisdiction whatever to entertain this bill. I do not intend to discuss that matter at length before your honor. I could but go over and repeat and read from the same decisions as have been read to you.

My associate Mr. Gregory struck the key note of this inquiry, when he said, that this act of strike, was one of the forces, entering upon the development of civil and religious liberty. It was a bold blow by a fine wedge. It has begun its entry into an old, old-long old tyrant, the tyrant which has ever throttled the people. There was a time, if we believe the books-and I believe the books; I love freedom; for freedom came from the books inspired, and I believe them-and there was a time when He, who made this world, and marshaled all these stars;-He who made man's soul; and then made man's mind, to be a slave of the soul; and then made man's body, to be a slave of the mind—a body which He made - a body which toils each instant, each moment, that the man. the "ego" may live-toils with no possible check by the will of man, except his acts of death. There was a time when this august God talked with man, inspired his judges and his leaders. They, communicated to all the people, the inspired truth of heaven. That was "an Arcadia" compared to today. In the presence of that code no monoply could rise, stretching from sea to sea, from ocean to ocean, putting its hand over whole tribes of men, and compelling them for their daily bread, to walk other than He, had commanded them, to walk.

But this, was confined to, a few people. The great balance of the world, the larger portion of the world, served a god which satisfied their mind, and not their soul. And this mind, made the accumulation, this mind,-made self effort, to plan against disaster; this mind, saw no beyond,-after, the death line was reached by the individual; this mind. builded up earthly power, to transmit it to its children, influenced by sentiments of love that were flowing in its mortal veins. And by far the largest part of the world, were of that character; until their example, and their luxuries, and their pleasures, weaned, the children of Godfrom what? From liberty. God, had taught men that life was labor, and that labor was life. Man, had come in between the curse, and said, "no; in order to obviate this, which I call a curse, I will compel my fellow-men to labor; and I will enjoy the fruits of it;"-and they had erected in their savagery, these men who were outside of a God-instructed people, kingdoms; and finally when the last of the just judges was in his seat, in the days of Samuel, the people of Israel clamored for an earthly king. They clamored for an earthly government; for

ERWIN FOR DEFENSE. a government which only protected them A SPLENDID SPEECH. whatever in any higher aspiration or inspiration than simply the utilities of life. And it vexed Samuel. But the Loyd said unto Samuel: "Listen to the people, for they have not yet forsaken you. but they have forsaken Me. Neverthe less, tell them what sort of a king they sha'l have." And Samuel went out and told the people that this king would take the best of their men servants and maid servants to be his bakers, and his young men to run before his chariots: take the best of his vineyards, the best of his cattle, a tithe of each for himself; and they should labor; and at the last they would cry out against the king which they had > they now discarded. From that time to the present man has suffered; from the time of the divine ambassador to the present, the evolutionof-return, has been on. Return to what? Return to governments of lofty Godgiven soul, in preference to the rules of men as rules of men-a soul which follows the law of God, and which stands, and dies, rather than follow the iniquitous law of man.

chosen and seek again the king which

The iniquitous laws and exactions of our mother country upon our fathers, the colonists, led them in this splendid evolution, to raise aloft the banner of the free. What, led them? The soul: the soul which appealed to the God of battles. The action, was illegal. The declarations, were all illegal, in accordance with the precedents; who, who believes in liberty, who believes in the father of liberty-God himself, who alone has perfect liberty - who, will condemn this illegal attitude of the colonists, illegal in fact but absolutely necessary, from the soul's standpoint.

And how, was that done? Was that done, from the orderly talk, of the colonial governors? Was it, the officers, of tablished. They have done so well that the people, that led to this resistance? No, oh, no! The resistance sprang, from the body of the people. The appeal to God, sprang, from the poor. It rose, in exaltation of their sacrifice; for they, who defended us during the seven years of our struggle; for the poor, who put this banner aloft.

The God-given sentiment of the soul of man;-a soul given us by God-which under His inspired law moves in accorddance with His commands and not otherwise-that, is the keystone of the public peace; that, is the government of these states. To protect that, is the reason of the states, and the federation; as well, as to protect the lesser, and not less sacred rights of property.

Why was the rebellion of the colonists defensible? Because it was sustained by the conscience. What is the difference between a protest by the colonists against Great Britain, and a protest by the suffering people against a corporation independent of principle.

Well, now, there are several things there. First, the principle is the same, resistance to tyranny. It is urged that in the case of the colonists there was no redress, but war. It is urged in this case that there was a redress. I say there was no redress. If there was redress here, from the Pullman horror, the parties who held the weapons to commence it, slept! slept! slept! While the drum beat struck the intelligence of the world. Press and pulpit lifted aloft their flags. If there was anything here, that the people might go to or lean upon, it slept What, should the people, do, when, either they had no remedy,-adequate remedy, or those, to whom was intrusted adequate remedy, slept? Declare war? No. Break the public peace? No. Do anything unchristian? No. Well, what may, they do? They, may do anything, which the God-given conscience, guided by His infinite law, permits them, to do. Not you,-they! That, is the liberty of this flag.

Isn't it the most melancholy commen tary upon the iniquities of these times! Isn't the existence of these iniquities of Pullman, the most profound and burning contempt of court! That where the poor cried, that where the public press investigating cried, where the pulpit rang, out against the atrocities of Pullman-no purse, came forward' for these poor-absolutely without, a champion in the lands of this republic. Great God! Within the large range of this city people starve, working for starvation wages the crime exposed, investigated, acknowledged, and not a flag raised, a picket sent out or a drum beaten by any officer of this government or of the state.

Is starvation, murder? Is the sword of avarice, justified by christian thought, or by these christian people?—will that sword, red with man's God-given blood, awake, the souls of honest men? Who. can control his soul? Who, can control his honest sympathy, if he is an honest man? That man can be said to control his soul who has no soul,-but simply has an accentuated mind,—a man who never cultivated his soul; but did, what the age is doing-cultivate the mind, in place of the soul, and put mathematics,

[Continued on Second Page]

HENRY D. LLOYD ON POLIT-ICAL REFORM MOVEMENT.

He Goes to the Heart of the Touble Declares This is the Revolution-Great Enthusiasm.

The best speech yet heard on the political upheaval was undoubtedly that by Henry D. Lloyd at Central Music hall. The occasion was the second big gathering of the people in the campaign of the People's party of Chicago. The great building was crowded to its utmost capacity. The stage was full, and hundreds upon hundreds stood up and listend from the aisles and stairways. The speakers were Henry D. Lloyd, one of the ablest-expounders of the new party movement in America, and Lyman Trumbull, for some time on the supreme court bench, and for twelve years United States senator during the stirring times of the civil war. Judge Trumbull's great age and public services give peculiar force to his advocacy of People's party principles. His speech, nearly in full, will be found in another column. Mr. Lloyd spoke but forty minutes, but he said more than is generally heard in a good speech of two hours. Every sentence of his discourse was full of vitality. He went straight to the heart of the subjects he handled, and set a pace for campaign speeches that will lead on to success. It is to be greatly regretted that we can reproduce only a very incomplete report. Mr. Lloyd followed Judge Trumbull and said in part:

All our parties are reform parties. The democracy has been lowering the tariff ever since the government was estheir rates are higher in 1894 than they were in 1842. The republicans have been "saving the union" for thirty years, and the tramp, tramp, tramp, of a million men on the march still sounds through the country-the tramp of the tramp. The appearance at the polls of a new party which was not known in 1888, and in 1892 in its first presidential campaign cast over a million votes is a hint that a new conception of reform is shaping itself in the minds of our fellow citizens. They want reform that will reform, and they want it now. Reform that is reform, and reform in our time, not in our great-grandchildren's, is what the people need and what they mean to have.

Lafayette said in 1791 that it would take twenty years to bring freedom to France; in two years feudalism was dead. Our great Emerson said in 1859—within four years of the emancipation proclamation-"We shall not live to see slavery abolished." Jefferson, the young delegate in the house of burgesses of Virginia, in one year abolished entail, and primogeniture, and the whole fabric of aristocracy in that colony. The patricians pleaded for delay, for compromise. "Let our oldest sons inherit by law at least a double portion." "Not unless they can do twice as much work and eat twice as much as their younger brothers," was the reply of this first great social democrat, and he finished his reform at the same session at which he began it.

No great idea is ever lost. The greatest of human ideas is democracy. It has often disappeared, but it has never been lost. We have democratized religion, and the humblest men have equal rights with all others to find the Almighty within themselves without the intervention of a privileged class. We have nearly finished democratizing kings, and we are now about to democratize the millionaire. Under absoluteisms the people mend their fortunes by insurrection. Under popular government they start a new party. All over the world, wherever popular government exists with its provisions for peaceful revolution instead of violent revolution, the people are forming new parties-in England. France, Germany, Australia, as well as this country. This is the great political fact of our times. Some of these, like the destinctively workingmen's parties, are class movements. They are the natural and inevitable reaction from class movements against the workingmen. These parties all have practically the same object-to democratize the millionaire, and, as Jefferson did when he democratized the provincial patricians of Virginia, to do it as nearly as possible at one sitting.

A broad view of the reforms demanded by the new parties rising in Europe and America and Australia shows the substance of them all to be the same. There is nothing. Lowell says, that men prize so much as some kind of privilege even though it be only the place of chief mourner at a funeral. In all the great industries a few men are building themselves up into the chief places, not as mourners themselves, but to make their fellow citizens mourners. The millions produce wealth; only the tens have it. There is the root of the whole matter.

The first and last political issue of our time is with its concentrated wealth. Not with wealth, but with its concentration. "Far-seeing men," says James Russell Lowell, "count the increasing power of wealth and its combinations as one of the chief dangers with which the institutions of the United States are threatened in the not distant future." This concentration of wealth is but another name for the contraction of currency, the twin miseries of monoply and pauperism, the tyranny of corporations, the corruption of the government, the depopulation of the country, the congestion of the cities, and the host of ills which now form the staple theme of our novelists and magazinists, and the speeches of the new party orators.

Those faithful watchers who are sounding these alarms are ridiculed as calamity howlers. When strong, shrewd, grasping, covetous men devote themselves to creating calamities, fortunate are the people who are awakened by faithful calamity howlers. Noah was a calamity howler, and the bones of the men who laughed at him have helped to make the phosphate beds out of which fertilizers are now dug for the market. It was a calamity howler who said "Sweet are the uses of adversity," and another averred that "Man was born to trouble as the sparks fly upward." There are thirty-two paragraphs in the declaration of independence; 'twentynine of the thirty-two are calamity howls about the wrongs and miseries of America under British rule.

The contraction of the currency is a terrible thing, but there is another as terrible-the contraction of commodities and work by stoppage of production, lockout, the dismantling of competitive works, the suppression of patents, and other games of business. The institutions of America were founded to rest on the love of the people for their country; we have a new cement now to hold society together-injunctions and contempt of court.

And we see materializing out of the shadows of our great counting-rooms a new system of government-government by campaign contribution. The people maintain their national, state, city, and local governments at a cost of $1,000, 000,000 a year, but the trusts and armor plate contractors, and the whisky ring. and the subsidized steamship companies and the street railways and railroads buy the privilege of running these governments to enrich themselves, to send troublesome leaders of the people to jail, to keep themselves out of jail. By campaign contributions of a few millions is thus bought away from the people the government which cost the people $1,-000,000,000 a year. There are many marvels of cheapness in the market, but the greatest counter bargains in modern business are such as the sugar trust got thousand dollars to both parties, it bought the right to tax the people untold millions a year.

We talk about the coming revolution and hope it will be peaceful. The revolution has come. This use of the govaggrandizement of a few is a revolution. It is a revolution which has created the sacredest functions of a government. tal power of eminent domain, which, way takes their property through the forms of law by force-none the less by force because the money value is paid. These sovereign powers of the highway and of eminent domain have been given by you and me, all of us, to our government to be used only for the common and equal benefit of all. Given by all to be used for all, it is a revolution to have made them the perquisite of a few. Only a revolution could have made possible in the speech of a free people such a phrase as a railroad king.

It is a revolution which has given the best parts of the streets that belong to all the people to street railway syndicates, and gas companies, and telephone companies, and power companies. It is a revolution which has created national bank millionaires and bond millionaires, and tariff millionaires, and land-grant millionaires out of the powers you and I delegated to the government of the United States for the equal good of every citizen. The inter-state commerce act was passed to put into prison the railroad managers who used their highway power to rob the people, to ruin the merchants and manufacturers whose business they wanted to give to favored shippers. The anti-trust law was pass to put into prison the men who make commerce a conspiracy, to compel the people every day to pay a rans their lives. It is a revolution which is using these inter-state commerce and anti-trust laws to prosecute the em-ployes of the railways for exercising their inalienable rights as free men to

[Continued on Fourth Page]

Otium Cum Dignitate.

[Written for THE RAILWAY TIMES.]

BY MILES MENANDER DAWSON It was a grand conception of the Greeks That gods sat, solitary, on the peaks Of lofty mountains and their peers address With dignified reserve as seemed them best. No petty gossiping their lips unsealed But only that which needs must be revealed cause important, furnished an occasion To make upon the silence an invasion.

They had respect unto each other; each sat on his mountain and reserved his spee In silent contemplation thus retired ey found that what is most to be desired Is that the man be given room to grow, Be freed from trivial annoyance. Oh, Why have we not remembered this and bent Our powers to hasten that development!

The gods sat on their mountain-tops at ease; They had no need to sue upon their knee For opportunity to earn their bread. They for their noble services were fed With rich ambrosia. Otherwise with men Although the generous earth now more tha

Responds unto their toil an hundred fold With grains and fruits, more precious than re-few are lifted up by trampling down Their fellows; they, like heads which wear the crown.

are never easy, are disturbed by fears That in the course of all-consuming years Their brutal sway o'er others will decline And they in turn be trampled. Not benign And placid like the gods in upper air, These mighty sit, but chafed with anxiou

Give man the certainty the gods possessed And he will vie with them in all the rest. That certainty is this: that one will be Justly rewarded for his industry. That neither man nor fortune shall despoil The toiler of the product of his toil. 'Tis not impossible that this be done: But it must render all men gods-or non

Going for Swing.

The following comment on Rev. David Swing's labor sermon was made just after its delivery and was crowded out of our last issue:

Prof. Swing has been enlightening his congregation on the condition and needs of labor, and, naturally enough, his discourse took the form of grave and threadbare advice to the workingmen, few if any of whom were present, and amiable flattery for the employing classes who were largely represented in the brilliant hall. The opportunity which confronted him he deliberately ignored. The work appointed for him he left undone, turning aside to another task which others can better perform than he. How much better it would have been had he facing that creates this distrust? They se a congregation made up almost wholly of other than the distinctively working classes-discoursed of the present conditions, needs and duties of employers Why counsel the workingman when he is not there to hear? Why not sow the seed for which the ground is fitted?

Doubtless today employers and capitalists suffer from some injustices and encounter often saddening losses. Why did not the good professor exhort them as he exhorted workers to bear all meekly when, by contributing a few hundred and abandon the practice of violating or evading the law in their efforts to swell their dividends or to save their property? The labor unions are not the only organizations which ought to have a Benjamin Franklin or a John Stuart Mill for a leader as he urges. The capitalists ernment of all for the enrichment and have their unions too. They call them corporations. There are few Franklins or Mills engaged in their guidance. The railroad millionaires of this country. To refined and wealthy gentlemen who maintain the highways is one of the plundered the trusting miners of Spring Valley, the Rockefallers, who built up discoveries of the present day, by which Railroads are possible only by the exer. the Standard Oil trust, with its countless ise of the still more sacred governmen. criminal infamies; Gould and his associates, who wrecked railroads as madwhen citizens will not sell the right of dened and starving strikers sometimes wreck trains; Havemeyer, who confesse that he attempts to influence legislation for the profit of his corporation; the men who steal streets, bribe aldermen, swindle for their labor. [Prolonged applause.] investors on false "tips," parallel railroads for purposes of pure blackmail-you can look in vain in Prof. Swing's sermon for reference to them. Their offenses against in poverty. For many generations laws the law are a hundredfold more execrable than those of which Debs and his associates stand charged, yet are they not indicted nor does the eloquent preacher before Chicago's most cultivated congregation suggest that his dear friends who own sugar trust stock dispense with Franklin, or that the Pullman stockholders look around for a modern John Stuart Mill. Patronizing advice of that sort is for workingmen only. Business of course, is business, and a Franklin or a Mill would hardly take kindly to the devices of watering stock and distilling that among these are life, liberty and dividends from the blood and tears of the laboring people.

Against the union's strike the corpor ation sets the lockout, against the boy cott the blacklist, against law-breaking law-distorting by injunctions, against unintelligence unbridled greed. We hear much from the pulpit of the need of a stronger moral factor in the labor movement, but nothing of the morals of cor porate management. The people, the common, hungry, thinking people, will pay little attention to advice coming from who sees only with the eyes of a ser vant of privilege.—Chicago Times.

Subscribe for THE RAILWAY TIMES and rote the People's party ticket.

SPEAKS FOR REFORM.

JUDGE TRUMBULL OUT FOR THE PEOPLE'S PARTY.

Hard Blows for Corporations Pays His Respects to Federal Courts -A Great Meeting.

At the second great rally of the Chicago populists, Judge Lyman Trumbull spoke as follows:

In this land of plenty, the fairest of earth, with a climate and soil producing everything necessary to the comfort and happiness of man, why is it that such discontent exists among our people? Is it not because the masses think that they do not justly share in the wealth which their toil contributes to the country. This feeling is extensive and it reaches among all classes of our people. Suffering as they think they do a common wrong, it is natural that they should be bound together by common sympathies. Hence the formation of labor unions. We saw it manifested in therecent strike, when the employes of one industry struck, hoping to better their condition, the sympathy of laborers in other industries inducing them to strike also. Various schemes have been suggested to reconcile this controversy between employers and employes, such as arbitration and the control by the government of the great corporations of a public character-the control of the great corporations of the country by the government. [Applause.] I do not propose to discuss either arbitration or governmental control of corporations. There are objections to both, and neither of them reaches the underlying cause of this dissatisfaction.

We must first ascertain what it is that creates the dissatisfaction and distrust throughout the country before we undertake to apply the remedy. This dissatisfaction is deep seated, and it is to find a remedy that I am before you tonight to make some suggestions as to what I think the remedy, partially at least, may be. Is it not, I ask you, the poverty and want from which laborers suffer, by reason of the inadequacy of the pay they receive for the labor given around them, in the possession of favored corporations and the pampered few, all the luxury and extravagance which wealth can give, while the great mass of the people suffer often for lack of the necessaries of life. [Applause.] Is it any wonder that discontent prevails among the masses and that they act in concert together in the effort to improve their condition when such a state of things exists? The happiness of the people consists in the happiness of the individuals who compose the masses, and laws which open the door to large fortunes by devise, by inheritance or by speculation have no tendency to promote the happiness of the people at large and often are not beneficial to those who have such fortunes.

Why it is that the wealth of this country, ample for the comfort and happiness of all, is rapidly accumulating in the hands of a few? It is, perhaps, partly due to the improvements and one man with capital can purchase machinery which will enable him t form the labor which formerly required many men, and thus there are left hundreds of unemployed people, who are at the mercy of the capitalists. The latter can therefore fix their own prices

But it is chiefly the laws of property which have enabled the few to accumulate vast wealth while the masses live have been framed for the protection of property rather than to protect the rights of man. [Applause.] For ages the money power has governed legisla tion-[cheers]-and I regret that even i this country the money power has often controlled legislation. In the language Havemeyer and seek for a Benjamin of the Declaration of Independence, the most valuable document even given to mankind since there was preached in the mountains of Judea the sermon by the meek and lowly Jesus-"All men are created equal and endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; the pursuit of happiness." If man the right to live, he has the right to the means to support life-[prolonged applause] and it is unjust that any man or set of men should so absorb the means of living as not to leave enough for the support of all. If man has the right to liberty, then it is unjust that any other man should have it in his power at his discretion to deprive him of that liberty or abridge it. [Applause.]
If man has an inalienable right to the pursuit of happiness, then he cannot be justly deprived of that right by laws interposed in the way of its pursuit.

Under the laws of Illinois, the owner

[Continued on Third Page]

THE AMERICAN RAILWAY UNION

601 Ashland Block, Chicago

Issued the 1st and 15th of each month One year Six months Three months

W. N. GATES, 29 Euclid Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio Advertising Agent Entered as Second-Class Matter at the Chicago

CHICAGO, OCTOBER 15, 1894

The A. R. U. and the People.

No labor organization is nearer the hearts of the people today than the American Railway Union. A plain de monstration of this fact was the great evening of September 29, when E. V. Debs and Ignatius Donnelly spoke for the People's party.

Mr. Debs led with a short speech in which he said that the American Railway Union was the first labor organization whose national convention had endorsed the People's party movement arose to address the audience he received an ovation, the warmth and sincerity of which is seldom accorded the most distinguished personages. The church folks over the way had refused to permit the "labor agitator" to speak in their holy edifice, but the great common people shouted themselves hoarse in welcoming the president of the American Railway Union.

The press, the pulpit, the courts, and all the forces that bask in the smiles of plutocracy and reap the reward of sycophants, may continue to bitterly denounce the American Railway Union, but the people know it is, and was right, and that today it is to be credited with having done more to create the great wave of political reform now sweeping over the country than any other force. Its course in pushing the Pullman strike to its conclusion proved positively the utter impossibility of the producing classes having a voice in American affairs and showed the workingman that his government was against him. It established the fact that the corporations rule the United States of Americs and produced a political revolution that will, without a doubt, elect a populist president in 1896. In doing this the American Railway Union won a place near to the heart of the people, and it time came for his next sermon the pubwill stay there.

On the Road Again.

At this writing Judge Woods has not announced the decision in the contempt case against the directors of the American Railway Union, and the conspiracy cases are yet to be called. But it has been decided that pending further action the members of the board of directors will take the road and begin the work of strengthening the local unions in all parts of the country. They will have begun this work before this number of the TIMES is out of press, but they can always be reached through the general office, 601 Ashland block, Chicago, and those wishing to arrange for meetings should file their applications at

Go to the Bottom.

Many wise remarks have been based upon the rotting away of the Roman nation and countless terse sayings are supposed to set forth in briefest measure the reasons for the moral and material decline of a proud people. Perhaps of the best is that "Rome fell because her reformers were but half reformers."

Diseases affecting the national life can no more be cured by half-way measures than can diseases which prevent bodily health and physical perfection. To attempt the cure of organic national ills by political palliatives is just as silly as ttempting the cure of typhoid fever by cutting off one's hair or changing the diet. Parties are political doctors and their platforms are their various diagnoses of the disease with their proposed remedies. Thousands upon thousands of people ho subscribe to the platform of the third (and best) party do not fully agree with all its planks, and believe that it sometimes uses homeopathic doses where the most heroic treatment is demanded by the condition of the patient. In other words they believe that its reform is but a half reform. They work with it, hoping for an improvement in the next national convention, because it comes a thousand times nearer their ideas than any other party.

And so there is a party within the third party. They are all reformers in some degree, but the minority (which may soon become the majority), insists that until the platform becomes radical enough to go to the bottom of the evils which afflict the nation and prescribe remedies that will cure, it is but half a reform. This aggressive minority insists that while the most sweeping reduction of the protective tariff will lower prices we still have the conditions that leave the laborer without the money to buy even cheap things. They admit that that such a measure will do precious work and no money.

little for the poor working girl toiling for 30 cents a day, and that while the in come tax is a good thing in itself it is hard to see how it will benefit the poor devil who is hopelessly searching for work under the ban of the blacklist. A platform built upon such ideas is, therefore, but half a reform.

But the People's party has not lived since the days of Jefferson, nor yet since the death of John Brown. What shall we expect from a toddling infant? Nothing but growth. That is enough. Let the socialists, the single taxers, and other schools of radical reform be patient until the rawer recruits catch step with the music of the new gospel. There is one great fact that should satisfy the most impatient: we are all marching in the same direction.

Wood Workers' Convention.

The Machine Wood Workers' International Union held its convention in St. Louis during the first week of October. Besides indorsing the American Federameeting at Central Music Hall on the tion of Labor political program with a slight amendment to plank 10, it made many very radical changes in the general laws of the organization, chief among them being one which practically admits all factory wood workers to membership. The recent convention of carpenters at Indianapolis decided to concede to the Wood Workers' Union exclusive control without a dissenting voice. When he of all machine and bench hands; arranged to transfer members who desired to go into the younger union and pledged the latter to do all in its power to organize the mill men men throughout the country. The action of the United Brother hood of Carpenters means that the Machine Wood Workers International Union will have a powerful ally to aid it in getting the factory workers united. It also means that one of the youngest organizations in the country will blossom into one of the strongest in a very few years, as it will now control besides bench and machine wood workers, box makers and sawyers, saw mill workers, casket makers, and in short all wood workers from the workmen who convert the logs into umber to those who send the finished product from the shops.

Thos. I. Kidd, who is the moving spirit of this organization, was again re-elected general secretary and will push the work of organization along the new lines with

Swing is Dead.

In the last number of THE RAILWAY Times was published the sermon of Rev. David Swing, in which he violently denounced the laboring people for the strike of last July, and some editorial comment on his discourse. Before the lic was startled with the announcement of his sudden death.

There is something striking in the fact the man who had all his life devoted his best energies to the defense of the rich, who had used the pulpit as a fortress for the monopoly lords, closed his useless career with a bitter attack upon organized labor, and-divided his time between a eulogy of the scabs and a caustic denunciation of the "criminals" (as he called them) who conducted the strike. The best that can honestly be said of him is that he was consistent to the last, and for this he may be admired to the same degree as the unwavering course of Mr. Pullman in ending where he began on the question of "nothing to arbitrate."

As was to be expected, the plutocratic papers have devoted many columns to eulogizing this able defender of the divine right of monopoly kings to rule. His death has been attended with a disgusting measure of pomp and circumstance quite in keeping with the artificial feeling of man for man sure to be found among people of that class. The Inter Ocean publishes in one issue thirteen illustrations, including a view of the cozy palace in which he was settled on Lake Shore drive, illustrations of the magnificent drawing room. One cannot help wondering why it did not include a portrait of the footman in livery, and announce the fact that his house is just next door south of the castle of Potter Palmer.

Not satisfied with what his living work has done to benefit our ruling class, his death has been seized upon to give emphasis to it. His false and unjust sermon, before mentioned, has been reprinted under the caption "From lips now mute," and the luxurious surroundings he enjoyed are publicly paraded as an object lesson to younger preachers who may be hesitating between humanity and mammon.

Treason to Strike.

The indictment of Eugene V. Debs and his fellow officers of the American Railway Union for conspiracy is practically a declaration that a strike against the United States is treason, or at the least illegal. Followed to their logical conclusions, the recent actions and utterances of United States officials mean that any person who should refuse to transport or advise others to refuse to transport the United States mail when called upon may be visited with dire penalties. In whatever light the matter may be viewed it seems impossible to escape the foregoing conclusion.—Commoner and Glassworker.

THE RAILWAY TIMES will send you while the free coinage of silver will help, the best reform literature for a little

The White Slaves. BY A M. DARLEY

There's a cry that comes from Pu And echo's through the land. It tells of toilers there in way That need a helping hand. This land o'erflows with corn and wine And more than food for all, Yet toilers starve till charity There lets her fragme ots fall.

Speak not of wrongs of southern slaves, They toiled; but they were fed; Amongst their wrongs 'twas never claim Their children starved for bread. et heroes saw the damning blot, And rushed to southern graves, Nor ebb'd the tide till liberty Embraced the colored slaves

And thus was broke those cruel chains And shall more galling ones Be forged by us for avarice rivet on our sons? No! by the gods, while free All tyrant schemes must fall: For public sentiment shall write Their doom upon the wall.

The Lesson of Debs.

"Nothing succeds like success," said some sapient philosopher, who might have added that nothing fails like failure.

Napoleon after Marengo and Napoleon on Elba provoked varying judgments from that creature called the world, who laughs with the laughers but turns a frigid shoulder on the downcast and tearful.

As this is the type of human nature in the abstract, the man who gets a fall in attempting to help his fellows, must expect treatment specifically of the same Debs the brainy writer, persuasive orator and magnetic leader of the railroad men, was, to use a Yankeeism, some punkins," but Debs the defeated, no matter how just his cause, is a fitting subject for the sneers of every eight-dollar-a-week scribbler.

Eugene Debs is probably not made of the stuff that wilts under malediction. and we look to see for him a better future than that which confronted Irons, Lee, and the other leaders of defeats among railroad men.-Labor Leader.

No Use for Labor.

At the great meeting of the People's party at Central Music Hall, where Debs and Ignatus Donnelly spoke, it was necessary to provide for three overflow meetings. The campaign manager applied to the First Methodist church. The good deacons were overcome with horror at the idea of Debs speaking in the holy edifice, plainly showing where the church stands on the labor problem. The Chicago Times has the following to say about it:

"It appears that a person named Banks, who seems to be the rental agent for a rather dilapidated office building downtown, which, for taxdodging purposes, masquerades as the First Methodist church, has a notion that he can block the progress of free discussion by exercising a sort of censorship over the speakers in the auditorium of that building. The Populists wanted to rent the hall for the overflow from their grand mass meeting at Central Music Hall last night, and, though it is supposed to be a church and therefore free of taxation, the brilliant Banks was only too willing to let it out for a substantial consideration, until he heard that Eugene V. Debs was to be one of the speakers. The "church," he said, could not tolerate Debs, and he fiatly refused to let the hall if the leader of the American Railway Union was to be on the program. The gentleman acting on behalf of the Populists very properly his doubtful sanctuary to the custody of that evil one whom the churches are supposed to combat. To clear-sighted observers it has long been evident that the churches are drift-Lake Shore drive, illustrations of the servitors of mammon in the pulpit for hall-way and a detailed sketch of the one Carwardine. For the specific instance of intolerance and narrow mind-edness furnished by Dr. Banks there can be nothing felt by intelligent people but contempt. Mr. Debs is not a man to be contempt. Mr. Debs is not a man to be suppressed, and if he were his voice could not be stilled by refusing him ad-mission to one second-rate hall. It was the voice of class prejudice and narrow spoke through Dr. intolerance that spoke through Dr. Banks, not of that broad spirit of good will to men for which Christianity should

There is plenty of opportunity for some professing teachers of Christianity to learn something of the spirit of that creed from Eugene V. Debs. Few men in the history of this nation have been put to so supreme a test as he. The whole power of capital has been engaged in the effort to overthrow him. The natin the effort to overtain while. The national government, obedient to the will of privileged corporations, has pursued him without relenting. Men who bribe public officials, who violate daily the laws against trusts and illegal combinations of the public of the combination of th public officials, who violate daily the laws against trusts and illegal combinations, who hold no public right sacred, nor hesitate at anything which may entrich them at the expense of their fellows have clamored for this man's liberty, and even his life. The press, which more and more is becoming the ally of plutocracy and the foe of liberty, has loaded him with villification. Unceasing effort has been made to uncover something to his disrepute in his past record, but without avail. He has met the test successfully, maintained his reputation, his dignity, and his courage. What he has encountered he braved not for his own profit, but in an attempt, unhappily unsuccessful, to force a brutish employer to deal justly and honorably with his employes. It seems a pity that to so great an extent the churches should have followed the lead of the privileged corporations and the mercenary press in rushing to the aid of imperiled plutocracy.

ERWIN FOR DEFENSE.

[Continued from First Page]

in place of inspiration. The old tower of Babel-it is nearly reared, here, in this republic!!

But I tell you here, in this splendid court of justice, we, ought to discuss this case, as if we heard the Father who brought Israel out of Egypt, August, Grand, shouting across our valleys and our mountains, "the nations of the earth shall totter beneath My arm. They are disobeying Me." The French revolution was cited here yesterday. What was the French revolution? The French revolution was an upheaval from the finger of God, because the church—which was the court of conscience to those people—the church, put its inqui-sition between the poor and God, and there was no legal way, no legal road, for the poor to come back to the truth: and there burst from beneath the bas-tiles these fires.

Now, what is this case, under these lights?—and who is going to discuss this case or decide this case under any candlelights held up by Pullman, the Milwaukee or the Santa Fe? This case is going to be decided under yonder sun, God grant! This is the beginning of suits, but it is the last of the defensive suits. Tomorrow, we, begin on them. The nation, must appoint a special counsel to prosecute these men. It must;—so says the conscience of the nation; and it is under the high light as to who, was the cause of this wrong, that this case will be decided in the end; that, I know, that, I feel sure. We can not escape, these lofty and patriotic conditions that control us. Nor would we

Here is a strange anomaly in evidence They brought to your honor a bill full of allegations of our violence. They told you, that we, were doing it, and by information and belief swore to it. They spread out at length, the acts, that they wore we were guilty of having named swore we were gunty of, having hamed us by name, in the beginning of this bill. Of course, your honor issued this in-junction—not a moments stop, not an instant's delay. Of course, you came to the rescue of the country, under their bill. Thank God you did. Thank God you removed us, from the continued resistance of these men who had bandied ogether to oppress the poor-thank God, you came.

I believe in courts, but I also believe. the people and in the conscience of the nation What have they proved that these men did? Have they proved that they, set any fires to cars? Have they proved that they, turned any switches, fired any signal towers—done, any of thes cheap, oh, so cheap, acts of violence? cheap, cheap acts of violence! No one killed, except, by the troops. No one, killed by these strikers. All, the acts of violence, cheap, cheap, to be paid for tomorrow, by Chicago! Cheap, to you! Your, cars, your, signal towers, your, switches, but nothing, else—but nothing else. These men, knew, that all conscionable resistance to tyranny, was sustained in America by the public thought.

We, will inquire tomorrow who, set those fires. We, will try and find who, set those fires. They will never get this fair city to pay three millions and a half until all the ground is traversed as to who, set these fires—these cheap fires—to burn the public, up!

Not a man killed, not a particle of the natural disorder, of a mob-the artificial disorder, of burning cars and burning switches and burning switch towers!

Who, be these artificial ones, pray, to turn, the conscience of the nation, against her poor? We will ascertain, her tomorrow, who, set them afire. You honor could not attempt, to ascertain here Your honor could not attempt, to ascertain here whether the board of managers, were guilty in the first instance of these The case had been submitted to your honor on the proofs. The sub-mission, was in the nature of a demurrer admitting the facts that were proved when taken into consideration with the allegations sworn to in the answers could not go into any affirmative suggested to Dr. Banks that he consign defense under these circumstances. But we will give the managers, I hope—the nation, will give the managers an opportunity, to defend.

No one, disputes, the atrocities at Pullman. No! No one, disputes, that no power came forward to relieve the been evident that the churches are drifting away from the people. There is among would-be religious leaders only too apparent a lack of comprehension of the trend of popular thought and of sympathy with the people's aspirations. Once in awhile a man like Carwardine breaks away from the narrowness of his fellows, but there is a bost of science of science and science of s breaks away from the narrowness of his family have a right to come to his fellows, but there is a host of solemn servitors of mammon in the pulpit for servitors of mammon in the pulpit for vant—all, have a right to come to the relief of the one assaulted. The natural sympathies are located there, by the Father who—made us. The love between father and son, and brother and sister, are planted there, for that particular purpose, by Him, that each, should come to the relief of the other, when sorely pressed, demanding that relief. That, is the law. It always has been the law, always will be, the law.

Now, when men are oppressed econom-

Now, when men are oppressed economically, who, may come to their relief? The nation, ought to, if it has any means or manner so to do, if it can do so. If the nation does that not, in some of its departments, then, the family can come to the relief, and those associated together for the purpose of common defense, can come to the relief. There is no question about that. It is upon that plain principle that the doctrine has been changed from the original doctrine, which now in law, permits men to organize in trades unions, and to strike to raise their wages, or for any other purpose.

Now, under what circumstances, can

Now, under what circumstances, can they come? Here, there is discussion. I, lay down the broad rule that, the people, in this republic, can always, come when there can be traced to their intent, the conscientious action justified by the laws of God. There floats no mist, between the American and his God. The boasts of conscientious liberty mean, something; and they mean, just that; that the conscience, shall be free to control the man, whenever it, is justified by God's law. That, is freedom. There is no license, in that. It is a freedom, which first starts by tranpling on all license, on all, sinful things—down to the dust, all, unholy wickedness. It begins, by an acceptance and a practice, of the law of God, and when in that practice the conscience, that, which he controls—not we—when that, justifies, then, the man is justified.

Of course in the inquiry, all rights, be taken into consideration, promast be taken into consideration, properly rights as well as personal rights. But in the meeting, in the evolution, in the protest of the people to the resistance of the tyrant, all those things which the people, do, which can be sustained by their conscience, and justified by the laws of God, that, they may do.

That, is the rule that appears to my mind to be the only rule consistent with mind to be the only rule consistent with the sacrifice of Lincoln, the heroism of George Washington, the splendid chal-lenging defiance of Patrick Henry, the march, of the long lines of blue against the long lines of gray.

Property! When will the day ever come in this republic that property. come in this republic that property shall supersede conscientious liberty. When will the demands of this people under fashion or so called laws, selfchosen by themselves alone, come, to be cancellatory of the laws of Him, who warns us now, by yonder blazing sun, or gives us air to breathe, or charges this pulse, while we speak—who, is here in this room, now, as He is everywhere!

This country was a convect between

This country, was a compact between our fathers and their God—our God. The sacred compact is contained in the Declaration of Independence. Those principles were sworn to and covenanted by our fathers, with Him who sustained them through the war, and has sustained us ever since, and the children, will never, break them—never, break them. Before we, break them. Before we, break them. Before we, break those covenants, we, will trample down all law—not God's laws, but the iniquitous laws of men which dare to attempt to supersede the laws of God. The hope of the American masses springs from the Master. You have got to cut off, the communications between the souls of the struggling poor and God, before you can form or execute a code of laws, by which, you re-enslave, mankind. No, it can never, be done!

examination of the contracts with Pullman takes this case entirely out from the character of "boycotts" as denominated by the English law. I don't think the Atchison & Santa Fe contract is in the record, but your honor will be furnished I hope by counsel with a copy of that contract.

Mr. Bancroft: I furnished a copy to Mr. Bancroft: I furnished a copy to Mr. Darrow evening before last.

Mr. Erwin: Yes, we have one, but it is not in the record. The copy of the Eastern Illinois is in the record, and the testimony of the gentleman who brought in the contract of the company was that with all the railroads it was similar to that of the Eastern Illinois. Now, I won't stop to read that. On examining won't stop to read that. On examining that contract, in the very preamble, you will find that Pullman was both a man ufacturer and a runner of cars—both manufacturing and operating cars. That is the preamble. There can be no arbi trary separation here for the purpo a "boycott" between Pullman,—the ufacturer, and Pullman—the operator But what is strange is by the terms of those contracts he, was sole operator There is no consideration going to most of these companies for these contracts. The consideration is the use of a Pullman car to haul passengers in. That is all. In most of these contracts they allow the Pullman company to charge all the sleeping fares and pay the Pullman company on the mileage basis 2 cents a mile for the use of the car, which would amount to about $50 for a trip between here and San Francisco on the Santa Fe -$50 a car, collecting all the fares, put-ting them all in Pullman's pocket. All they get—all the Santa Fe gets for the use of the Pullman cars is the right that its passengers may ride in that car and not take up a seat in some other car and for that right, they pay 2 cents a mile the car, which amounts to nearly $100 for the round trip of a car between brown for the round trip of a car between here and San Francisco.

If not legally, in equity—we are in equity now—if not in law, in equity. Pullman is the sole operator of the Pullman and when he is not sale. man cars; and where he is not sole oper ator of the Pullman cars he is a partner as in the case of the Milwaukee. The Milwaukee own half the cars; Pullman the other. They operate them in part nership. Now, those are the relations be nership. Now, those are the relations be tween Pullman and these roads.

Now, the men striking, were the employes of Pullman at the shops, and the employes of Pullman on the roads, and of the roads themselves. Now, what were these employes, on the roads outside of Pullman? They were American Railway Union men. They belonged to the American Railway Union organization. If they had worked directly for Pullman, they good conscience they were right in strik ing against. The law comes in and de good conscience they were right in strik-ing against. The law comes in and de-nominates this, but the principle, of the law is that. Now, it follows as a natural consequence that if Pullman was in equity the sole operator of the sleeping equity the sole operator of the sleeping cars, the men on the roads who belonged to the American Railway Union—and equally if he was a partner with the road, the men upon the road who belonged to the American Railway Union—had a the American Railway Union—had a right to strike, either against Pullman, or, against Pullman's partners, in the operation, of those cars. Pullman, was guilty of a grievance, and Pullman's partner, stood by sustaining—not on that principle that he stood by sustaining—but he was directly interested in Pullman's affairs. He was a revenue contractor of Pullman; he was of, Pullman, so far forces; he was a part of Pullman, so far man's affairs. He was a revenue contractor of Pullman; he was of, Pullman's forces; he was a part of Pullman, so far as this strike was concerned. Therefore, if members of the American Railway Union had a right to strike against Pullman originally, they had the same right to strike against any one of Pullman's partners or revenue contractors. And the moment the gentlemen introduced those contracts, that moment, they connected these roads as partners with Pullman; that very moment, they removed the consideration of this case from all question of boycott, because it is a strike against the original wrong-doer, his accessories and his aides.

Now, may, it please the court, I have traversed all the ground I want to. I have made all the remarks, I want to. So far as I am concerned, I am perfectly willing to leave this case to your own, plain decision. I would rather leave it to yours than mine.

This abrasion between corporate greed and the people, is working out by its own evolution the question of economics; freedom; and where the cause, is so justifiable as this was, and where there are no overt acts traced to any one of these defendants, it would be like the crucifixion of the cause of labor against capi-tal, rather than of one who was a malatal, rather than of one who was a mala-factor in that cause, to press, this pro-ceeding on to judgment.

This is no place, to enter upon a pane-gyric of Mr. Debs or any one of these defendants. This is no place, to enter into a tirade against the general man-agers' ruthless association. Let the general managers settle with this nation as they must, for stopping and repressing the honest sympathies of God's poor, for those who are oppressed in this instance will give no continued license to the mo-nopolies which sap the life-blood of the country, and which have absolutely de-stroyed trade—destroyed trade, to such an extent that though the banks are an extent that though the banks are bursting with money, there are no re-sponsible borrowers, to borrow; while in the place of that calm health, which Bulwer put in Richelieu's mouth to be "the health of nations," a Counselman an Armour, and a few railroads, dictate the commercial policy and activity of this union. No man, today can buy wheat in Chicago by reason of this manwheat in Chicago by reason of this man-agers' association, unless it be by Coun-selman's or Armour's permission. More than that, the massed capital of these men, today in their boards of trade, put a price upon all the things, which God, sends to man as bounty. They, can beat wheat down to five cents a bushel when wheat down to five cents a bushel when the world is asking to pay a dollar and a half a bushel, strange as it may appear! They, have destroyed Gods law of sup-ply and demand!! This is no time to go into these discussions, but these monsters, are here; thes monsters, are here, in Chicago. They are allied, with Pullman.

"Pause," cried the yeoman of the ountry. "Stop," cried the railroad yeocountry. "Stop," cried the railroad yeo-man of the country. A patriotic cry!! It is the ride of the new Paul Revere "to wake, the country, up." God, sent the right, He, will protect it, too. He, will bring these managers, to justice. He, will prove, who set these fires, and turn, the conscience, of the country against these persons

Not, upon the narrow lines of technical breach of contempt, may it please your honor, can this case possibly be de-cided. Nor, can it be decided on grounds of incoherence, and suggested wrong and tyrannies, but all taken into con sideration, in your honor's own honest mind, you, will produce, what the re-public will be satisfied with, whatever, your conscience may decide.

Has your local union appointed an gent for The Railway Times? Don't neglect this important matter.

on all their Goods at the California Midwinter Exposition

BREAKFAST COCOA,

Which, unlike the Dutch Process, is made without the use of Alkalies or other Chem-lcals or Dyes, is absolutely pure and soluble, and costs less than one cent a cup. SOLD BY GROCERS EVERYWHERE.

WALTER BAKER & CO. DORCHESTER, MASS.

- PLUG CUT The undisputed leader of plug cut smoking tobaccos throughout the world.

MARBURG BROS The American Tobacco Co., Baltimore, Md.

After a Run or a day's work there is nothing that will so thoroug sh and clean you up as a wash with Kirk's Dusky Diamond Tar Soap. It is the greatest of all grease, paint and dirt removers. Sold by grocers of real estate is permitted to lease it for an indefinite period, and property is leased by the owners in Chicago every day for ninety-nine years. By what right does the owner of property today compel unborn generations to pay tribute and rents to generations unborn after him. [Prolonged cheers.] The statutes of Illinois have given to the owners of property the right to dispose of it by will, not wholly, but to a certain extent. If married, neither the husband nor the wife can give away the homeextent. If married, neither the hisband nor the wife can give away the home-stead or dower rights of the other, nor can creditors, heirs or devisees take away from the widow her allowance.

SPEAKS FOR REFORM.

[Continued from First Page]

The money power has governed legis-lation in all civilized countries for gen-erations. It matters not what party is in power in the national or state govin power in the national or state gov-ernments of our country, the money power has exercised a controlling in-fluence in many instances in shaping the administration of our laws. If the accumulation of vast fortunes goes on for another generation with the same ac-celerated rapidity as during the present. the wealth of the country will soon be consolidated in the hands of a few cor-porations and individuals to as great an extent as the landed interests in Great extent as the landed interests in Great Britain and Ireland are today.

Now, what is the remedy for this state of things, which, if permitted to con-tinue, will make the masses of the peo-ple dependent upon the generosity of the few for the means to live? So far as the few for the means to live?' So far as concerns corporations of a public or quasi-public character, and none others should exist, the remedy is simple. [Applause.] These corporations derive all their property from the legislature, and they are completely under the control of the legislature whence they derive all their powers. [Cheers.] Is it competent for the legislature to regulate them by enactment and to regulate their mode of proceedings? It is entirely competent for the legislature to fix the number of directors that each corporation shall them, and tell them that if this accumulation of wealth in a few hands goes on, directors that each corporation shall have. It may provide that a portion of those directors shall be chosen by the those directors shall be chosen by the employes of the company. [Cheers.] Another portion may be chosen by the stockholders, and it may provide that from the revenues of this corporation, whether profits or not, there shall first be paid the honest compensation to the laborer—a certain fixed sum in compensation. [Hear, hear, and applause.]

This principle has received indicial This principle has received judicial sanction from a judge of the circuit court having in charge the Santa Fe railroad, who entered an order directing the receiver of that road to pay the em-ployes of the company their wages every month, no matter whether he had the money to do it with or not. [Laughter.] If not, borrow it, and it shall be a lien in preference to all mortgages and other liens upon the property of the road. [Great cheers.] The laboring man being paid—he is worthy of his hire, and having the right to live must have the means to live—if the corporation makes money after paying the laborer his hire, then after paying the laborer his hire, then pay to the stockholders who have advanced the money a reasonable rate of interest on the money they have advanced, but not on watered stock.

and the men who have made the com-pany a success. [Cheers.] This will re-concile the differences between laborers and capitalists by allowing each to share in the profits that are made. [Prolonged put upon inheritances where there is no will, and in this way the accumulation of vast estates by inheritance or devise would be checked, and property, especially landed estates, which by nature belong to all, would be more equally distributed. [Great cheers.] It should not be forgotten that the method of transmitting property from the dead to the living is entirely derived from the state. No such natural right exists. If public policy requires that the state should give to the dying possessor, no longer able to control or take with him his possessions, the privilege of disposing of as much as may be conducive to the comfort and happiness of his surviving kindred, does it require that this privilege should be extended to his disposing of millions to the mijury of the rest of mankind?

We have already abolished primogeniture in this country, by which the eldest son inherited the landed estates of his ancestor to the exclusion of the other children, and no one in this country to day would seek to have the doctrine of primogeniture re-established. Yet it exists in England today, and the time will come, I think, before many generations have passed, when the future in habitants will look back with as much wonder to the states which allowed the owner of a vast estate to determine who wonder to the states which allowed the owner of a vast estate to determine who should have the possession of and enjoy it to the extent of more than $1,000,000, with as much surprise as we would now look back upon the doctrine of primo-

I trust that congress at its next ses sion will put a further check upon the power of these federal judges in assuming to take control of the railroads of the peculiarties pertaining to modern wage-

African descent was not a citizen and could not bring suit for his freedom in a federal court. But the people of the United States, the sovereign power above all the courts, reversed that decisions of the federal courts are considered. The men went out confident sion—[applause]—and wrote it in the law of the land—yes, a law written by this right hand—[tremendous cheere] which declared not only that a man of African descent was a citizen and had the right to sue in the courts, but that any man, any person belonging to these United States, or anywhere within their jurisdiction and over which the flag of this country waved, was a citizen and entitled to all the rights of man. [Tremendous cheers.

Forbidden by advancing years to en-tertain political ambition, I may, I trust, be permitted without the imputation of shatter it. gestions as to the policy to be pursued by the middle classes and the toiling masses to bring about such changes in the laws of property as by giving a constructions of Judges Hazen of Kansas, demonstrated that labor organizations young man having great possessions, he declared: "That it was easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the king-dom of God." I would call upon the millionaires for heaven's sake to cease they themselves will soon be as com-pletely at the mercy of the capitalists and monopolies of the country as are the laboring classes today. I would say to the laborers, now robbed of the just reward of their labor, and even compelled in this land of plenty and abundance to suffer often with hunger and cold, lay aside all manner of bickerings or disputes about minor affairs between yourselves [applause] and assert your independance by going to the polls, un-influenced by money or any other power, and there cast a freeman's vote for representatives in congress in whom you have confidence, and who will see to it that laws are enacted which will permit you to share in the wealth created by your toil and to eat of the bread your hands have earned. [Cheers.]

Rounding A Cycle.

BY MARIE LOUISE. The great boycott-strike called by the American Railway Union has been the final test of the exact standing of organized labor relative to political authorities. Since about fifty years, labor unions have stood divorced from political authorities. [Great cheers.] ical action and have trusted to the power of organization for protecting able principle between the stockholders ments and maintaining a fair scale of wages. The political moves made by workingmen in the beginning of this century to secure the right to work and live by the product of their labor having applause.]
The law now provides for the escheat of estates of persons who die without heirs. The same limitation might be put upon inheritances where there is no will, and in this way the accumulation of rest estates by inheritance and restricts the same law that all the same and some states of the same and some states and same accordance and formed and politics were to be entirely excluded. Mechanics of each of restricts by inheritance and desires.

The legislators gladly granted their

The legislators gladly granted their request and would not have hesitated to set apart a couple more such statutory holidays whereby the glorification of wage-labor would be its consecration for time and eternity. On the day set apart and called Labor Day, the nation went into feasts, games and recreations. The peculiarties pertaining to modern wage-working.

Did the onlookers, the gold bugs, the sports, and to issue injunctions without notice against a whole community, and then to punish by fine and imprisonment any one that questioned their authority. And if the next session of congress does not do it I trust the people of this country will send to congress representatives hereafter who will do it.

For the supreme court of the United States I have the greatest respect. It has been presided over from the organization of the court to the present day by great men and great lawyers, but the ization of the court to the present day by great men and great lawyers, but the supreme court of the United States is neither omnipotent nor infallible. [Cheers.] It has made mistakes. It made a great mistake when it decided that the charter granted by a legislature and accepted by the corporators was binding eternally upon the people of the state which made it; that it was a contract, a contract made by a legislature which future legislatures could neither alter nor repeal without the consent of the corporators. But the court itself has corrected that error, and the late Chief Justice Waite, than whom a purer man never sat-upon a bench, in an opinion of the court, said that corporations could not be organic, it was flattered and bamboozled by journalistic bluff and capitalistic cant. Caught in the meshes, organized labor puffed itself and, filled with pride, swelled out of all proportions. It gave to the thinking world a striking illustration of Lafontaine's fable of its revenue when some years ago, in the Dred Scott case, it decided that a man of 1893, when the Ann Arbor strike was declared. The men went out confident in the strength of their organization and in the legality of the use of their only weapon for meeting aggressive capital. weapon for meeting aggressive capitalism. But the attempt was one too many and the injunctions of judges Taft and Ricks were more than they could conquer, and organized labor stretched beyond its capacity, burst itself. As it burst, a long wail passed the lips of the wage-earners for they were confronted by a stern reality. The structure they had raised and perfected during fifty years, lay in ruin, a whiff from the political authorities had been sufficient to shatter it.

the laws of property as, by giving equal opportunities to all, will check the accumulation of the wealth of the country by a few.

demonstrated that labor or organizations are legal technically but not practically. The illegality of strikes was fully shown, and strike is the only available weapon of trades unionism. The press, the policountry by a few.

If my voice could reach the people of this whole land, I would call upon the millionaires and would say to them in the language of scripture: "A good name is rather to be preferred than great riches." Money is the source of all evil, and in the language of the Savior of mankind, after meeting a Railway Union in the late boyoott-strike voung man having great prosessions be Railway Union in the late boycott-strike define what it is the law considered violence from strikes. Do you not see that unless a striker goes home and closes his doors and windows, in order to be in perfect solitude, he is in danger of finding himself arrested for conspiracy against the capitalists and of treason against the nation? The later crop of injunctions against strikers resemble that of the laws in France against anarchists. Not only in France against anarchists. Not only actions are held to be criminal, but looks and even thoughts. Neither is that regime of terrorism any longer confined to the west. Recently the supreme court of New York issued an injunction at the request of several proprietors of fashionable tailoring establishments to restrain their striking employes. John Stewart, a leader, was arrrested, charged with conspiracy, even before the issuing of the injunction.

This is the condition in which fifty years of labor unions have landed us. The Pullman boycott has proven beyond the shadow of a doubt the total inefficiency of these unions, and the wage earners have decided to use the ballot to earners have decided to use the ballot to right their wrongs. This move rounds the cycle, and labor today is placed on the exact spot where it was fifty years ago. At that time, in 1844, the condi-tion of the working class in Europe was most miserable, and great agitation pre-vailed throughout the country. The crops had been bad, business was dull, wages were low and provisions high wages were low and provisions high priced. Hunger was a caller at many doors, poverty darkened the homes of all the toilers. Not having the right of suf-frage the working class attributed their misery to their exclusion from political power and their incapacity to send to congress men devoted to their cause. In England the suffering masses uttered loud protest and chartism was the result. For many years that gigantic movement kept the country on the verge of a revo-lution. Meetings attended by several hundreds of thousands were held everywhere.. In Italy the agitation clustered around Mazzini's new and improved Carbonari, the "Young Italy." Ramification of that secret society spread in France and over the rest of the conti-nent; new societies, secret and nonsecret, started up everywhere. The right of suffrage was the cry, the emancipation of the laboring class the hope. The strong arm of the law replied with bullets to the demand of the masses; riots broke out on all sides. Eighteen hundred and forty eight set in. France was in a paroxysm of excitement over was in a paroxysm of excitement over the measures of repressions enacted by the government of Louis Philippe, and in February the people rose in their might and overturned the monarchy. On the ruin of this a republic was established, manhood suffrage was granted and the masses were enabled to send to the leg-islature men of their own choice. The victory of the masses of France sent a victory of the masses of France sent a thrill of joy and of hope throughout Europe. Labor dreamed of liberty and of bread. The rulers quaked. Who knew how soon the jubilant toilers would be muzzled anew? They made preparations to meet their rebelling subjects and swore to annihilate them if necessity. essary. On France all eyes were fo-cussed. But the elected of the working-men were the supporters of the capitalists, and by arbitrary legislation and by ruse they precipitated an outbreak of the toilers, and the "insurrection of labor," also called the "insurrection of hunger," was fought June 22 to June 26, 1848. In magnitude it was a war, all the proletariat of France was engaged, or going to be engaged in it. The party of law and order, the capitalists, whose right arm the government was, triumphed, and labor was smitten even to the dust. Potentates of Europe rushed at their discontented subjects and reduced them to submission.

In their affliction and dispair, the toilers resolved to seek other means than the political ones to work out their emancipation. Trades-unionism hitherto but litto operate on economic lines and discard politics as being useless and injurious. With what result have we experimented trades-unionism during this long period of fifty years? Labor mented trades-unionism during this long period of fifty years? Labor leaders claim that it maintained high wages and gave labor a standing in court. Recent events deny both these assertions—wages are hopelessly low and labor has no standing in court. During the supreme sway of tradesunionism, millionaires came into exist-nee the national wealth monorpolized in ence, the national wealth monopolized in a few hands, the legislature became pluto-cratic, millions of toilers were debarred cratic, millions of toilers were debarred from working and millions of tramps filled our highways. The chasm between the moneyed class and the working class is wider than it was fifty years ago and more difficult to bridge over. In their misery and perplexity, the toilers are compelled to reorganize on a new plan and operate on political lines, just as they did fifty years ago.

Thus the cycle has rounded. Now for the gravitating of a new one, now for the inspiration and wisdom which fifty years of steady failure ought to give us. Now for a "getting together" for solid practical work.

Anyone wishing The Railway Thess, and not desiring to subscribe in the regular way, can secure it by getting a club of three names. Send the money for the three names for any length of time and the paper will be sent to your address free during the term of their subscription.

Industrial Federation.

BY WM. HARRISON RILEY

Hitherto, in this nation and in all so-called civilized nations, the usurers of various kinds have governed the wealth-makers. The national laws have been made and administrated by usurers for usurers. Our national finances, our railroads, our army and our navy are managed by usurers for the benefit of railroads, our army and our navy are managed by usurers for the benefit of usurers. Virtually, the wealth-makers are slaves. Our nation is called a republic, but it is really an oligarchy in which all the means of obtaining a livelihood are controlled by usurers who can dictate the terms upon which the toilers shall exist.

can dictate the terms upon which the toilers shall exist.

Although the national government claims the sole right to issue money for the use of the people, it issues none to the people, but only to usurers of whom the people must borrow it on the usurer's terms. Thus the government will not either issue money to the industrialists or allow any of them to issue any for themselves.

The industrialists of the United States are in bondage to the usurers. mers, by means of mortgages, are under mers, by means of mortgages, are under bondage. The money they needed to carry on their farms, and which they should have had free of charge for in-terest from the government, they have been compelled to borrow of usurers (who alone have had government money free of charge for interest). The manu-facturers and miners, shipowners and lumbermen, merchants and industrialists of every kind have been compelled to pay an annual tribute to the Shylocks who have got sole control of our national money which should be issued by the money which should be issued by the government on equal terms to all citi-

About four-fifths or five-sixths of our legislators are lawyers, most of whom are in the service of usurers, as in the case of Olney. Our chief magistrate is case of Olney. Our chief magistrate is also a lawyer, as most of our presidents have been, or soldiers. (We speak of Lincoln as the "rail-splitter," and of Garfield as "the boatman," but they had to leave our ranks and become lawyers before they were considered eligible as candidates for the presidency).

We seem to have been maliciously bewitched. The industrialists, employing and employed, have been wranging with and employed, have been wrangling with each other instead of co-operating each other instead of co-operating against their common enemy. Nay, they have done a more amazing thing! They have elected their enemy to govern them! And so it has come to pass that the worms at the cores of the apples are anointed kings of the apples.

The capitol at Washington is a club of gabblers, shysters, pilferers and rich idlers. The farmers, miners, fishermen, artisans, manufacturers, merchants and other distributors (including carriers by land or water), are not there proportion.

land or water), are not there proportionally represented, for it has become a house of usurers. Shall we, the industrialists, continue to elect such people?

An old politician once said "Divide and govern." The usurers, through their press and platform, have contrived to divide the industrialists, to get one half of them to vote against the other half. Thus, in a total number of, say twelve million votes, if the usurers could by keeping up two tweedledum and tweedledee parties, get six million votes, plus a few hundred on one side and six million, minus a few hundred on the other side, they could keep for themselves the balance of power as they have kept it. No honest and wise industrialist will ever again vote for the "democratic" or the "republican" parties, which might as well be called the jackstraw and fiddledywink parties in which the voters are the playthings, not the players. We must have an industrial political league, first national, and then international. To begin with it will not be necessary, and perhaps not advisable for the various organizations of reformers and workers to discontinue their various societies, but they should all federate for political purposes in one great league in which all persons should be eligible as members who are willing to earn their living by honest labor, men and women, employers and employed. Then "the gates of hell could not prevail against them."

We must stop voting against each other. We must vote for ourselves and worth the agreement of the same work of the same ways of the same ways.

vote the usurers out of place and power, disenstablish and disendow them.

There are practical difficulties in the way of discontinuing existing workers, unions and reform societies, and hence I advise a political federation without discontinuance, especially as most of the societies have some special work they can usefully accomplish. Therefore, I advise that even the Populist party, large as it is, federate itself with the rest for general political purposes under rest for general political purposes under the general name of the Industrial Poli-tical League.

A common platform for the league can easily be agreed upon by the populists, nationalists, federating labor, socialists, American Railway Union, etc., etc. The chief thing to be determined upon, and that can be secured easily by co-opera-tive effort, is that the industrialists shall govern this nation, that the usurers and govern this nation, that the usurers and their hired advocates shall be dethroned. Some of the usurers' scribes have been predicting that this nation must soon be-come a kingdom. We had better have an emperor than continue to be governed as we have been by the most ig-noble and treacherous, by prevaricators and pilferers.

Never was revolution more needed than now, when the idlers, gamblers and than now, when the idlers, gamblers and thieves are governing and robbing the workers. Revolution is an "American method," but let it be a peaceful revolution. "We are many, they are few," and we can easily revolve the usurers and their retainers out of place and power by means of our votes. So, henceforth, let us unite and vote for ourselves.

Partisan politics will cut a bigger figure this year than ever before in the annals of organized labor. This is as it snould be. The time has come when laboring men will have to come down off the "fence" and show their hands. Men have got to be men and declare their position. They are either in favor of present conditions or they are against it. "He who is not for me, is against me." Organized labor has for years been voting for men "who have proven themselves to be straightforward and just to his fellowmen" and they are just now beginning to realize where they "are at." Working people who do not care to continue their miserable conditions will pay little attention to the advice to vote for men instead of principle, and that, too, through the different hallot boxes. There is but one union man's and one workingman's party, with true men and true principles, and that is the People's party.—Farmer and Labor Review. Partisan politics will cut a bigger fig-

J. S. TOWNSEND Railroad Jeweler

Headquarters for Emblems of all kinds

400-page Catalogue mailed you for ten cents. Goods sent C. O. D. to all points.

Charges paid.

Diamonds Watches Clocks Jewelry Silverware

Fancy Novelties Opera

Glasses

$12.00

Bisque . Bronzes

WE MANUFCTURE ENGRAVE

REPAIR DESIGN

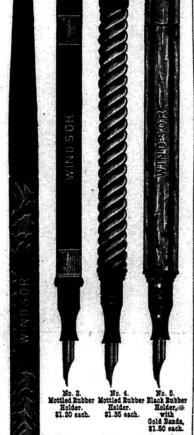

Gold and Silver Made Over PRICES THE

WE ARE SPECIAL WESTERN AGENTS FOR

John J. McGrane's Locomotive Brass Clock

"The President Watch Movement," finest thing out, Also, John Lamb's Mica Eye Protectors, per pair, THE BEST ARTICLE IN THE MARKET

FOR PARTICULARS ADDRESS J. S. TOWNSEND, 1554 WABASH AVENUE, CHICAGO

Nos. 3, 4, and 5 are same Length as No. 2 and have same style tips. Sent by mall, postpaid, for 2 cents each

We absolutely guarantee every in addition to prices quoted.

30 DAYS TRIAL FREE

"Windsor" Fountain Pen to be in perfect working order, and will refund the money paid for any pen which after 30 days' trial does not give entire satisfaction What more can be done to de-2. monstrate that the "Windsor"
Enbler is the best Fountain Pen ever

The "Windsor" is made from the best hard rub-ber, well finished, and has guaranteed 46K solid gold pen. Each pen is put in a neat paper box, with filler and directions. Send all orders to Moore & Evans.

WHOLESALE JEWELERS. MASONIC TEMPLE,

MONTANA DIAMONDS

Are REAL GEMS of fine blue white coler, without flaws, very brilliant, and as perfectly cut as the very best stones ever turned out by the diamond cutters. They so nearly resemble the genuine diamond that even experts cannot always tell the difference. Thousands are being worn to day by people in the west—many of them have been worn for years and their brilliancy has never dimmed. We have heretofore only sold these goods in large lots and to the regular dealers, but we have recently determined to place them directly in the hands of the people. In order to introduce our goods we make the following proposition: To Evanous who will agree to display the stone to their friends, mentioning our name and address, and who will send us the names of eight persons likely, to purchase such goods to whom we can send our large illustrated catalogue (scont to be issued) and 25 cents to pay expenses, we will send A FINE ONE KARAT STONE FREE, the regular price of which is $2.00 per karat.

after receiving and examining the gem, you are a satisfied, it can be immediately returned to us a we will refund the amount sent.

Montana Diamond Mining Gompany, 303, 59 STATE ST., CHICAGO.

HISTORIA

A 68-PAGE
MONTHLY MAGAZINE
For the Home and for the Youth of both sexes. Four complete and two continued stories founded on historical facts in each lessue. historical facts in each issue.

Historia's mission is to furnish good read-Historia's mission is to furnish good reading to young people. It presents clearly and in entertaining style interesting accounts of brave and patriotic deeds taken from history, thus gratifying the desire of the young for thrilling adventure and romance, fostering a taste for profitable reading, informing them regarding events with which everyone should be familiar and giving an insight into the delights of history.

Subscription Price, $1.00 per year.

Special Offer • •

Historia for 3 months and Premium 30 cts.

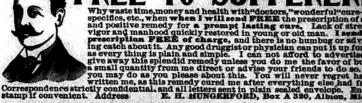

We want new subscribers and to secure them ewill send to everyone sending us a 3 months in all subscription to Historia at 30 cents any one of 10 following premiums: Fine Rolled Gold Ring, carf Pin, Cuff Buttons, Breast Pin or Broock, Yatch Charm or a fine Pocket Knife for either boy

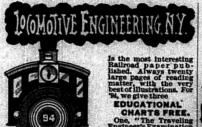

THE HISTORIA COMPANY, CHICAGO, ILL.

PREE A Solid Rolled Be sent Tree to everyone send-ing me the names and address-es of ten people over fifteen years of age likely to purchase jewelry or watches. Send size of finger and Sensi-

TO SUFFER

CHARTS FREE.
One, "The Travelin
Engineer's Examinatio
Chart," has cellulo's valve and piston an
cross-head, and 85 exam

-if made by the

F.& V. Organ We have sup past year, members of these Brother-

Farrand & Votey Organ Go., Detroit, Mich.

MUSIC HATH CHARMS."

A SPLENDID SPEECH.

[Continued from First Page]

unite for defense against intolerable wrong. It is a revolution which lets the presidents, and managers, and owners of the railroads and trusts go free of all punishment for the crimes they are committing; which sends out no process against any of the corporations or corporation men in the American Railway against any of the corporations of cor-poration men in the American Railway association, while it uses all the powers of the attorney-general of the United States to prosecute and, if possible, to send to prison the members of the American Railway Union. It is a revo-lution which is putting the attorneys of American Railway Union. It is a revo-lution which is putting the attorneys of corporations into ermine on the bench to be attorneys still.

It is a revolution by which great com-binations, using competition to destroy competition, have monopolized entire markets, and as the sole sellers of goods wells the records buy deer and as the make the people buy dear, and as the sole purchaser of labor make the people sell themselves cheap. Last and deepest and greatest revolution of all is that which the mines machinery factor. by which the mines, machinery, factor ies, currency, land, entrusted to private hands as private property, only as a stewardship, to warm, feed, clothe, serve mankind, are used to make men cold, hungry, naked, and destitute. Coal mines shut down to make coal scarce, mills shut down to make goods scarce, currency used to deprive people of means of exchange, and railway used to hinder transportation.

This is the revolution that has come With local variation it is world wide, and against it the people are rising world wide in peaceful counter, revolutions, in people's parties. It begins now to be seen generally what a few have been pointing out from the beginning, that the workingmen in organizing to defend themselves have been only pioneers. The power which denied them a fair share of their production was the same power which is now attacking the con-sumer, the farmen and even the fellow sumer, the farmewand even the fellow capitalist. In organizing against modern capitalism the workingmen set the ex-ample which all the people are now driven by self-preservation to follow. The trades union of the workingmen was the precursor of the farmers' alli-ance, the grange, and the People's party.

Chicago today leads the van in this great forward movement. Here the workingmen. capitalists, single-taxers, and socialists have come together to join and socialists have come together to join forces with each other and with the farmers, as has been done in no other city. Its meetings are attended here by thousands, as you see tonight. It is the most wonderful outburst of popular hope and enthusiasm in the recent politics of this country. Chicago thus leads in numbers and in enthusiasm and promises of success, because it has led in boldness and sincerity and thoroughness of reform doctrine. The workingmen of Chicago at the Springfield conference, which was the fountainhead of this tidal wave, stood firm as a rock for the princi-ple, without which the industrial liberties of the people can never be established—the principle that they have the right at their option to own and operate collectively any or all of the means of production, distribution, and exchange. They already own some; they have the right to own as many more as they want. This is the mother principle of the govrnment we already have, and it covers the whole brood of government rail-roads, telegraphs, telephones, banks, lands, street railways, all the municipali-zations, and naturalizations in which everywhere the people are giving utterance to their belief that they are the only proper and the only competent administrators of the wealth which they create.

The declaration of independence of 1776 declaration of independence of 1776 declared that the people felt themselves able to manage for themselves the government, all of whose powers sprang from them. This declaration of 1894 is the proclamation of the next step in independence. The people have done so well that they will move forward again went that they will move to ward again and manage for themselves some more departments of the commonwealth all of whose powers spring from them. The democratization of government, the de-mocratization of collective industry they are parts of one great upward eman-cipation. The American idea, says Em-erson, is emancipation. The co-operative commonwealth is the legitimate off-spring and lawful successor of the repub-lic. Our liberties and our wealth are from the people and by the people and both must be for the people. Wealth, like government, is the product of the co-operation of all, and, like government, hust be the property of all its creators, not of a privileged few alone. The prin-ciples of liberty, equality, union which rule in the industries we call government must rule in all industries. Government exists only by the consent of the ed. Business, property, capital are also governments and must also rest on the consent of the governed. This assertion of the inherent and inalienable right, and ability, of the people to own and operate, at their option, any or all of the wealth they create is the fundamental, irrepressible, and uncompromisable keynote of the crisis, and with this trumpet note of the crisis, and with this trumpet note you can lead the people through any sacrifice to certain victory.

Jefferson, one of his biographers tells us, was one of the most successful politicians of his time because he kept his ear close to the bosom of the people. If we will do the same we will hear the great heart of the common people beating the world over with this new hope of coming to own their means of producgreat heart of the common people beating the world over with this new hope of coming to own their means of production and the fruit of their labor, and so for the first time in history owning themselves. The people always think quicker and straighter than the philosophers, because while the philosopher simply meditates the people suffer. The people here tonight have learned in their lockouts, and search for employment, in the prices they pay for their sugar, and coal, and matches, and meat, and hundreds of other things, that all the reforms of the tariff, the banks, the land system, the railroads, and the currency—would leave them still the slaves of syndicates which hold the necessaries of life and means of production in absolute right as private property beyond the reach of all these reforms and with wealth which puts them beyond competition. Herein is the inner citadel of monopoly and "plank 10" is the battering-ram which will bring down its walls. This cardinal principle, to which every candidate of the People's party of Cook county who seeks the support of the workingmen must subscribe, has been adopted in substance by the party in Sw York. The party in Connecticutin their last platform show themselves and for it. It will without doubt be ciple—which is as big as the crisis—the party will move into the presidency, perhaps as soon as 1896. It is not to the parties that have produced the pandemonium of intermittent panic which is monium of intermittent panic which is called trade and industry that the people can look for relief. To vote for them is to vote for more panics, more pandemoniums. Both these parties have done good work, but their good work is done. The republican party took the black man off the auction block of the slave power, but it has put the white man on the auction block of the money power to be sold to the lowest bidder under the iron hammer of monopoly. The democratic party for a hundred years has been the pull-back against the centralization in American politics, standing for the in American politics, standing for the individual against the community, the town against the state, and the state against the nation. But in one hour here last July it sacrificed the honorable

It is a fact of political history that no new party was ever false to the cause for which it was formed. If the People's party as organized in Cook county is party as organized in Cook county is supported by the country, and the people get the control of their industries as of the government, the abolition of moof the government, the abolition of moof the surely follow as the abolition of the capoling of labor. Better nopoly will as surely follow as the aboli-tion of slavery followed the entrance of nopoly will as surely follow as the about tion of slavery followed the entrance of Abraham Lincoln into the white house in 1861. Then we will have the judges and years to come than that progress toward Abraham Lincoln into the white house in 1861. Then we will have the judges and the injunctions, the president and the house of representatives. There will be no senate; we will have the referendum and the senate will go out when the people come in. The same constitution that could take the property of unwilling citizens for the railroads for rights of way can take the railroads willing or un.

French's ingenius song of the above can take the railroads, willing or unwilling, to be the nation's property when the people come in. Then the national debt, instead of representing the waste of war, will represent the railroads and other productive works owned by the people and worth more, as in Australia, than the bonds issued for them. The same constitution that could demonetize silver can remonetize it, or demonetize gold for a better money than either. The honest dollar will come in when the people come in, for it will not be a dollar that can be made scarce, to produce panics, and throw millions of men out of work, and compel the borrower to pay two where he received only one. Women will vote, and some day we will have a woman president when the people come in. The postoffice will carry your telegrams and your parcels as well as your letters, and will be the people's bank for savings, and their life and accident iusurance company, as it is elsewhere already. Every dark place in our cities will be brilliant with electricity, made by the municipalities for themselves. Workingmen and women will ride for 3 cents and school children for 2½ cents, as in Toronto, on street-ca lines owned by the municipalities, and paying by their profits a large part of the cost of government now falling on the taxpayer. When the people come in political corruption, boss rule, and boodle will go out, because these spring points from the intrigues and briberies. mainly from the intrigues and briberies of syndicates to get hold of public functions for their private profit. We will have a real civil service, the inevitable and logic result of the demands of able and logic result of the demands of the People's party, founded, as true civil-service reform must be, on a system of public education which shall give every child of the republic the oppor-tunity to fit himself for the public ser-vice. The same constitution which granted empires of public lands to create the Pacific railroad king will find land for workingmen's homes and land land for workingmen's homes and land employed.

There will soon be no unemployed when the people come in. They will have no shoemakers locked out or shoe factories shut down while there is a foot unshod and all the mills and mines and unshod and all the mills and mines and factories the needs of the people require the people will keep going. Every man who works will get a living and every man who gets a living shall work, when the people come in. These are some of the things the People's party of Cook county means. At the coming election let every man and women vote—for the women must vote through the men until women must vote through the men until they vote themselves—let every man and woman vote for those, and only for and woman vote for those, and only for those, who accept this grand principle of the liberation of the people by themselves. Let this platform get a popular indorsement at the polls next November that will advertise to the world that the people have at last risen in their might, not to rest until another great emancipation has been added to the glorious record of the liberties achieved by mankind.

adopted overwhelmingly by the next Half a loaf is not better than no bread national convention of the People's when the whole loaf is yours, and acparty, and under the banner of this princeptance of half is connivance at your ceptance of half is connivance at your own robbery.

Congresses designed merely to "conciliate" the employer and the employed, to discover some practical method of arbitration in labor disbutes, to "bring about a better understanding between master and man," to rescue labor from the baleful influence of the "mere theorist," and teach the workingman to reverse the teachings of the "practical men" who will teach him to contentedly produce $5 a day and take only 50 cents produce $5 a day and take only 50 cents of it for his labor, really stand in the way of industrial progress.

Such discussions, indeed, might have a certain value if they did not tend to divert the thought and action of the people from the more deep and searching investigations by which alone can the evil which lies at the bottem of industrial ills be discovered and removed. While the status of industrial society against the nation. But in one hour here last July it sacrificed the honorable devotion of a century its great principle and surrendered both the rights of states and the rights of man to the centralized corporate despotism to which the presidency of the United States was then abdicated.

There ought to be two first-class political funerals in this country in 1896, and if we do our duty the corpses will be ready on time. "Are you going to the funeral of Benedict Arnold?" one of his neighbors asked another. "No, but I approve of it." We will not go to the republican and democratic funerals, but we approve of them. There is a party that the people can trust because it the status of industrial society remains as now, while the law protects certain classes in the enjoyment of a monopoly of natural opportunities, or creates and confers upon them special privileges, there is sore need for artificial means of regulating the inequalities which must certainly be developed out of such conditions. Any efforts, then, for alleviation of the lot of the wage-work of the commendable provided they do not interrupt, discourage or impede the wiser and more far-reaching agitation for permanent justice and fair play to all men.

Unhappily in the vast majority of cases these endeavors for partial justice approve of it." We will not go to the republican and democratic funerals, but we approve of them. There is a party that the people can trust because in the face of overwhelming odds, without distinguished leaders, money, office, or prestige, it has raised the standard of a principle to save the people. The continual refrain of Mommsen, the great historian of Rome, is that its liberties and prosperity were lost because its reformers were only half reformers, and none of its statesmen would strike at the root of its evils. By that mistake we must profit.

It is a fact of political history that no when we cut down your wages 10 per French's ingenius song of the above title has a chorus imitation of a loco-motive. Song with music for 10 cents in stamps.

Now is the time to subscribe for THE

SURVEYING

ct you wish to study to The Correspond-School of Industrial Sciences, Scranton. Pa

$12 TO $35 Can be made working for PER WEEK can give their whole time to though may be profitably employed. This announcement is of special interest to stirring men who wish to rise in the world. Good openings for town and city work as well as country districts. B. F. JOHNSON & CO., No. 3 So. 11th Street, Richmond, Va.

VAT FOLKS REDUCED from 15 to 25 lbs. per month by a HARMLESS TREATMENT.
Nontarving, leaves no wrinkles.
TOLKS 18 Years' Successful Practice.
TREATMENT PV Mail TREATMENT BY MAIL FIREAI MENT BY MAIL.

For particulars callon, or address with 6 cents in stamps.

O. W. F. SNYDER, M. D.,

Chicago, Ill.

245 McVicker's Theater Bidg.

14 KARAT GOLD PLATE

THE NATIONAL MFG. & IMPORTING CO., 334 DEARBORN STREET.

CHICAGO, ILL.

COOK REMEDY CO Blood Poison! 0 S 0 0 Our Magic Remedy Floht You 0 () 0 0

Architecture,
Architectural Drawing,
Architectural Drawing,
Architectural Drawing,
Mechanics,
Mechanical Drawing,
Bridge Engineering,
Electrical Engineering,
Surveying and Mapping,

The Gorrespondence School of Mechanics and Industrial Sciences, SCRANTON, PA.

4000 STUDENTS

RAILWAY OFFICIALS & EMPLOYES WWK BELLIS SECY 01-21-15-0712-121

H. S. PETERS' Brotherhood Overalls

THE BEST. OFFICIALLY INDORSED BY THE

B. L. F. at Cincinnati, 1892, B. L. E. at St. Paul, 1894, B. of R. R. Carmen, Chicago, 1894, American R'y Union, Chicago, 1894. SOLD IN CHICAGO BY

LITTLE JAKE, 12th Street and Ogden Ave. B. NIGGEMEYER GO., State and 39th Sts.

Marks' Artificial Limbs

THE MOST COMFORTABLE, DURABLE AND NATURAL

WITH RUBBER HANDS AND FEET.

THE MOST COMPORTABLE, DURABLE AND NATURAL Although a man may lose both of his legs, he is not necessarily helpless. By having artificial legs with rubber feet applied, he will be restored to his usefulness.

The engraving is from an instantoneous photographof a man ascending a ladder; he has two artificial legs substituting his natural ones, which were crushed by a railroad accident and amputated. With his rubber feet, this man can ascend or descend a ladder, balance himself on the rungs and have his hands at liberty. He can work at the bench and earn a good day's wages. He can walk and mingle with persons without betraying his loss; in fact, he is restored to his former self for all practical purposes.

With the old methods of complicated ankle joints, these results could not be so thoroughly attained.

Over 15.000 in use scattered in all parts of the world. Many of them have been supplied without presenting themselves to the maker, simply by send measurements on a formula which any one asily fill out.

Received the Highest Award at World's measurements on a formula which any one can easily fill out.

Received the Highest Award at World's Co-lumbian Exposition. Indorsed and purchased by the U.S. Government. A Treatise of 430 pages and formula for measuring sent free. A. A. MARKS, 701 Broadway,

(Established 41 years) NEW YORK CITY

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING FOR CHILDREN TEETHING -For sale by all Drugglata. 25 Centes a bottle.

Of Interest to RAILROAD MEN and Their Families

U. S. CENSUS, 1880, REPORTS 35.000 DEATHS

The IOLA SANITARIUM

for treatment. References on application.

Address DR. GEO. DALE, lola, Wisconsin.

TO THE OPPONENTS OF THE KNIGHTS OF LABOR

You judge our organization without complete understanding of our principles or our position on current questions. There is ONLY ONE authorized organ of the General Order of the Knights of Labor, and that is the JOURNAL OF THE KNIGHTS OF LABOR The best reform weekly paper in America. Subscribe for it, read it, then criticise us. Price, $1 per year. 814 North Broad St., PHILADELPHIA, PA

"PULL YOUR LEG" less to be feared by R. R. men than to LOSI YOUR LEG. In the latter case you surely want to replace it with a

PATENT ADJUSTABLE SLIP SOCKET

Warranted Not to Chafe the Stump

Received the Gold Medal and the Diploma at the World's Fair.
Received the Gold Medal, the Bronze Medal and the Diploma at the California Midwinter International Exposition.

LARGEST FIRM IN THE UNITED STATES

THE UNITED STATES

The Inner Socket seen outside the limb in cut, is made over a plaster cast of he stump, giving an exact dt, being held permanent; upon the stump by elastic fastened to lacer above, and in act of walking moves up and down in the Outer Socket, bringing all the friction between the two sockets instead of between the stump and the socket, as is the case in a single and wooden socket

The Winkley Artificial Limb Go

In Answering Advertisements Kindly Mention The Railway Times.

FOR 75 CENTS

large wholesale manufacturers of Coats bearing the "Carhartt Bra ods are designed and made especestions made to us by prominent."

APRON OVERALLS (with elastic in the suspender).

8ACK COATS (perfect fit, to match)
SACK COATS AND OVERALLS
(made of blue and white Amoskeag check).

In ordering, give waist measure and it (crotch to heel) for overalls, and for coabreast measure under arms, saying whetheular or long sleeves are wanted.

Address all letters plainly to

HAMILTON CARHARTT & CO., DETROIT, MICH.

479, 481, 483 AND 485 MICHIGAN AVENUE

Samples of cloth and self-measurement blanks sent free to any address, provided this paper is mentioned. This also includes linen tape measure. No Goods Sent C. O. D. If you prefer, any Clothing Dealer will order these Goods for you.

Correspondence solicited with dealers who desire to obtain control of these goods in their

WEINSTOCK, LUBIN & CO., Sole Agents for Sacramento, Cal.

KRUPP'S No. 1

Patent Wrought Iron Coil Disc Center. Fitted with Steel Tire and Retaining Ring. This wheel is no experiment, their being over 150,000 in use, and after a thorough test it has been demonstrated that they are the best, safest and most economical, wheels in the market. The centers of these wheels are made by taking a strip of iron, wider at the ends, and coiling it around the mandril and then forging it into shape by means of hydraulic dies, so that all centers f given sizes are interchangeable and indestructible and can be retired in any railroad shop, and it is the only wheel in the market, the center of which is made of ONE piece of wrought iron.

Parties intending ordering rolling stock would do well to insert in their specifications, that Krupp's No. 1 wheel will be used, and thereby obtain a wheel which will give satisfaction.

THOMAS PROSER & SON

15 GOLD STREET

NEW YORK

Let me introduce you to accurately finish to men in railr

"The President" Watch Movement UNITED STATES WATCH CO., WALTHAM, MASS.

JOHN J. MOGRANE,

187 BROADWAY, NEW YORK CITY.