WASHINGTON. March 23.—The bill for the raising of the battleship Maine. Havana harbor, passed the house late today by a vote of 150 to 4.

The bill provides that the army engineers shall remove the bodies of the sailors to Arlington National Cemetery, erect the masts of the wreck there as a monument, and raise the battleship if possible. If this cannot be done, the hull is to be blown up.

WASHINGTON, March 23 .- To pay the funeral and transportation penses of the two Chippewa Indians who recently blew out the gas while visiting this city, the senate this afternoon appropriated $390.

City Officials of Franklin, N. H. Request Union Leader to Leave Town, but he Refuses.

FRANKLIN, N. H., March 23 .-In true Colorado style the machinery of the city government was employed oday to prevent a strike of International Paper Mill employes here.

The city council requested John H. Malin, president of the International Sulphite Pulp and Paper Mill Work ers' Union to leave town.

Malin was escorted out of Rumford Falls, Maine, where he attempted to urge a strike in sympathy with the New York employes of the company early yesterday and arrived here last

A hasty meeting of the union was called today, and while it was in progress Mayor Sawyer summoned a special session of the city council to take some action on what the city officers regarded as an attempt to paper mills of the International company in Franklin. The council voted to send for President Malin.

At that time Malin was addressing a meeting of mill employes, but he was escorted to the Council chamber by the city marshal. Malin said that he in tended to abide by the law, and that he came here to induce the employes of the company to give the strikers in New York state peaceable support.

President Malin did not heed the hint of the city council to leave town and tonight, guarded by the city mar shal, he addressed about seventy-five of the paper makers, whose support he is endeavoring to obtain for the New York state strikers. The mar shal was present at Malin's request for police protection against possible deporation.

JEWS BY WHOLESALE

Latest Persecutions of Hebrews Wil Result in Heavy Immigration to This Country.

Information received from reliable sources by the American Jewish committee, of this city, tell of renewed activities against the Jew in Russia. From Boukarest, Smolensk, St. Petersburg and Yalta, came reports of wholesale expulsions. Artisans and professionals who are "domiciled" are taken by surprise and ordered to do their work in the presence of the police. This is done with the object of discovering whether they are not obtaining their privfleges to live in these previnces or false pretences. Cases are given of dentists who have been expelled because they happened to have engaged in business as a side line.

From Kief, 1,200 families have been ordered out. This order has been issued by Premier Stolypin himself on the ground that these people have been found to live in that city "without authority." They were given until the 15th of April to move. So severe is the government in its attitude against the Jews that even Zionists, who are connected with no political organizations, and are not revolutionary have been forbidden to form societies. "Polestine," a Zionist organization in Warsaw, has been ordered to disband for the reason that it came under the class of "Illegal" societies.

Dr. Herbert Friedenwald, secretary o the committee, showed a number of let-ters yesterday, in which Russian atroities were described in detail.

A pathetic case is told of a Jewish soldier who was born in Petersburg and entered the army when he was twenty-one years old, in compliance with the compulsory military service of that country. He went through the Japanese war, and was sent to protect the Armenians and to a number of other place where his life has been endangered many times. But when he returned home he was told to go within twenty hours.

This expulsion works hardship on the Jews of the Pale. Having no other place to go to, they are forced into it by the thousands, with the result that there is keen competition for any possibility of a livelihood. There is hardly any work to do, and the poverty is indescribable.

SENATE PASSES BILL TO CONTROL SEALERS

WASHINGTON, March 23 .- A bill for the control by the Department of Commerce and Labor of all sealing operations on the Priblioff Islands in Alaska was today passed by the senate. One hundred and fifty thousand dollars was appropriated by the senate to make the bill effective.

The question of pelagic sealing was left for the foreign relations committee to handle hereafter.

Senator Dixon explained that the patrolling the Bering sea now carried an anual loss of $200,000 beyond the $14 a skin royalty paid by the lessee. He predicted that under government control the seal herd will soon recuperate and yield the government an annual revenue of $1,000,000.

Boys In Telling of Philadelphia Strike.

Columbia students, conservative, compla-cent, self-satisfied Columbia students, crowded the Earl Hall Auditorium yesterday afternoon to hear a lecture by Charles Edward Russell on "The Phila-bia students are about the mo well satisfied people on earth—satisfie with themselves, satisfied with their co lege, satisfied with the world, as they have come to know it through the loop holes in the college walls. Under the leadership of Russell yes terday they took a few faltering steps in a new direction. For an hour the din of the life combat outside rang in their ears, and they listened with the keenest attention to the straightforward account of the facts in the case, touc grim sarcasm that brought out the points of the lecture in telling fashion

The traction monopoly of Philadelphia
how it grew until it not only controlled the government, but was the government; how it issued millions in worth securities, and then, obliged to pay in-terest on them, ground down the public and its employes; how at last the long suffering patience of the workers came to an end they struck, while the people of the city would not ride in the cars even when the company could run them—this was Mr. Russell's theme.

"There was still one precious Amer ican privilege left to them." cried the speaker, "they could walk!". This forced the company to come to terms, and having learned their lesson, they began systematically to discharge their union employes. Result—the presrecord of peaceable meetings held hired private grounds wantonly broken up, by policemen and thugs—policemen hired by public officials who owe everything but their salaries to the traction company. All this was graphically por-

The students listened with attention to the story of how the monopoly bought up and reorganized one little bankrupted road after another, until finding that there were one or two little things they had overlooked, they obtained a franchise giving them rights upon, over and under, all the avenues, alleys, and boule vards of Philadelphia-forever. The audience applauded as well the conclusion of the speaker, that this cor ruption, this wretched service, this riot and bloodshed were the inevitable resulut of giving away public utili

"The greatest importance of the strike," said Russell, "lies in the fact unorganized laboring men realize tha the strike was their strike as well as that of the unions. In the Ealdwin Locomotive Works laone 6,000 unorganized men laid d own their work, realizing that the issue was a imple and clear one. Shall the hattle of the working man be fought so that justice may prevail, or shall the employer, by refusing arbitration decide that might shall make right? At last, at last we have seen mer who, with only the bond of work to unite them, are willing to sacrifice omething for their brothers."

It was indeed a rare breath of th fresh air of the outside world, for the secluded halls of Columbia University. The lecture was the fourth of a series, which are being arrange by the Columbia University Socialist Society, which is endeavoring to awaken the student body to a realization of its civic responsibilities, and to interest them in the big social problems of the day.

Special Meeting Will Be Held in Brooklyn on Saturday to Launch Organization.

W. Barcon, manager of the base ball team of the Brooklyn Socialist party, 23d assembly ditrict, issued a call yesterday to all Socialist clubs party branches and locals interested in the national sport to meet next Saturday evening for the purpose of organizing a league

He states that all teams that played last season should not fail to get together this year, as great times are expected. The special meeting will take place at the club rooms of the 23d A. D. at 1831 Pitkin avenue, corner Sack man street. Those who cannot attend next Saturday's meeting and wish to get in connection with this movement for sport and recreation should address William Barcon, 7 Bristol street Great times are expected this sea on. Soon the challenges will be fly ing back and forth and the picnic

Interest in this league should not lacking, for those who attended picnics of the party know how the ecame worked up and enthusiastic when the game commenced, and they also know now tame those picnics were that were so unfortunate as not to provide such healthful sport.

ATHENS, Ga., March 23 .- Harry Wolter, the promising outfield recruit of the Highlanders, was added to the hospital list this afternoon In chasing a fly ball during practice, he turned his ankle badly. He was able to hobbe off the field after Trainer Lee had applied first aid, but at the hotel tonight the ankle was very painful. Wolter is of an aggressive disposition and wished to play even in spite of the hurt. Stallings will have a hard job to keep him off his feet for any length of time. The hot weather for the past three days has baked the grounds hard as brick in many spots where the native clay is exposed. The outfield is like rock and this has knocked the players feet to pieces. Every one has been hoping for rain. Stallings rented a couple of sprinkling wagons late yesterday afternoon and soaked the ground as much as possible. The sprinklers will be kept

Before Saturday, when the Highlanders will again meet the University of Georgia, all the cripples should again be in line. Kleinow thinks he will be pretty nearly as good as new by tomorrow afternoon.

Today's game was a five inning afto score. The score:

Batteries Carroll and Mitchell; Doyle and Sweeney.

WHOSE OX IS GORED?

In an article published in this paper on the 4th inst., Comrade Boudin expounded the present status of blacklisting as defined by the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of Adair vs.

In that case the Supreme Court decided not only that was blacklisting legal, but also that laws prohibiting blacklisting were "an invasion of personal liberty" (namely, the employer's liberty to hire or discharge whomsoever he will) "as well as of the right of property" (namely, the employer's right to do with his property as he pleases), and are, therefore, unconstitutional.

In other words, the right of the employers to blacklist, whether individually or by combination, is one of the inalienable rights of

But that is true only in so far as the blacklisted workingmen are concerned. As against them, the right of the employers to agree upon a blacklist is sacred and impregnable, all laws to the contrary notwithstanding. But the matter assumes an entirely different aspect as against the employers. If any employer refuses to discharge men on the blacklist of other employers, then no power on earth can compel him to discharge them, the blacklist to the contrary notwithstanding. For, according to the same reasoning, to compel an employer to discharge men against his own will would be an invasion of his personal liberty and of his right of property.

Comrade Boudin then went on to say that the Steamfitters' case, which had been heralded in the newspapers as an attempt to turn the tables upon the employers by invoking against capital a law that had been hitherto used exclusively against labor, was nothing of the sort. Although unfamiliar with the details of the case, and knowing it only from the meager newspaper reports, nevertheless he concluded that it was nothing more than an invocation of the law, as defined by the United States Supreme Court, that an employer cannot be compelled by other employers to enforce their blacklist. In other words, the Steamfitters' case was not an attempt to attack capital with a weapon employed with success against labor. but an attempt to enforce the sacred rights of one capitalist as against other capitalists.

Judge Rosalsky's charge to the Grand Jury in General Sessions, the day before yesterday in this city, confirms Comrade Boudin's diagnosis of the Steamfitters' case in every detail. In his charge, Judge Rosalsky stated that the following important facts had been conceded: First, that the Building Trade Employers' Association had adopted a resolution putting the members of the Steamfitters' Union on the blacklist. Secondly, that a certain small contractor, who was not a member of the Employers' Association, but who was doing work for a member of the Employers' Association, was compelled to discharge a number of steamfitters. These facts having been conceded, Judge Rosalsky charged the Grand Jury that a crime -namely, conspiracy-had been committed and that it was their bounden duty to find an indictment against those who had been guilty of its commission.

That is all there was to Judge Rosalsky's charge. He simply enforced the law securing "personal liberty" and "right of property" of one employer as against other employers. While all his brave words about "employers having no greater rights under the law than employes; both are subject to the law, and neither is above it." were irrelevant buncombe. It was not the rights of labor as against capital that he was enforcing, but the rights of one capitalist at against other capitalists.

Equally irrelevant and pointless were the remarks of an official of the Employers' Association, as reported in the newspapers, upon the judge's charge. That official argued that "if it is conspiracy for us to refuse to employ any members of the union who quit work and are no longer our employes, then it would be conspiracy every time for the union when it forbade its members to work for any employer or any number of employers or an association of employers. It is not conspiracy for employers to refuse to employ-blacklistcertain classes of workmen. It becomes conspiracy only when they compel other employers to enforce the blacklist against their own

Moreover, the comparison with the union ordering a strike against an employer is entirely beside the mark. The union may rear a strike, but the union cannot legally compel any of its memers to strike. A blackleg is always sure of the protection of the

The only analogy that fits the case is that of a labor union is suing a boycott against an employer for employing non-union men. Such a boycott has been declared, in the Danbury Hatters' case, to be in violation of the anti-trust law, and the union and its individua members are liable in treble damages. For the laws and Constitution of the United States, as interpreted by our infallible judiciary, have for their primary object the protection of the "personal liberty" and the "right of property" of the employers.

WORKINGMEN'S POLITICAL RIGHTS.

The deportation of officials of the Paper Makers' Union from town of Rumford Falls, Me., furnishes another illustration of the respect entertained in this country for the rights of the workers.

What makes this case more than usually flagrant is the fact that not only was there a committee of "prominent citizens" to attend to the deportation, but that the city council also took an official hand in the matter, it having made a polite "request" to the labor leaders

Capital and Theories of Covern

By FRANK BOHN.

It is not our purpose here to attack anyone. We hope, therefore, that no delicate nerve centers will be stimu-lated to expressions of distress. What we shall, write concerning the above caption is a repetition of what, though ft repeated, is apparently not said often enough.

In a letter to The Call, Issue of March 19, Comrade Robert Hunter permits himself to fall into a couple of errors, one of which is very com-mon, the other less so. When he states "We shall still have tools of production (and therefore capital) under Socialism," etc., he says what who has read and understood any real Socialist literature. Again and again this A B C of economic theory has been gone over. CAPITAL INCLUDES ONLY SUCH MEANS OF PRODUCTION AS ARE USED TO ENPLOIT WAGE LABOR. WHEN THE MEANS OF PRODUCTION ARE SOCIALISM. It is still held by a few people, including Mayor Gaynor. theory of government is some-times referred to as laissex faire. But there is another theory of government almost the exact opposite of laissez faire. It is that the government should aid the workers in every pessible manner. It believes that the government should interfere in human affairs, and that it should be an agency for benefiting mankind in every possible manner. In trying to make clear the seco theory of government I said that Socialists believe the government should aid the workers in their battle against poverty. They believe the government should strive to promote industrial and social peace by using its power to unite capital and labor in one

Socialists are not interested in political theories by themselves. In fact, they cannot be understood by thems an appanage of the history of industrial society. Cemrade Hunter clings to the old bourgeois historical gone on between two theories. Two schools of philosophers are supposed to have fought interminably, one for strong government, and the other for weak government, I can understand how Professor Dunnig, making an effort to remove the history of political theory from the general history of mankind, and writing volumes upon the sent and with the sent and writing volumes upon the sent and writing volumes upon the sent and writing theory from the general history of mankind, and writing volumes upon the sent and t
