SiGNIPICANCE OF CLOTHES. Main Entrom-Going out, a first days since, in one of our Bhittonal tunis, it is company with a friend, who, as well as myself, had 'season tickets,?' I observed sitting near us an honest-looking mechanic ; I had often seem him in the sens; and had noticed that, like Jio honest of us who hide in the morning and evening thins, he was passed by the Conductor as one who node by the "quarter." On this occasion, however, a Conductor pro-traw was taking fares of such as did not hold ses-son takkes, and was estinded with the usual "I have a ticket,?" But a our mechanic ha halted, and demandark. The, "I go by the eguilar," T was the trepty. "I are see your ticket." The ticket, or rafter thill, as in such on this rad, was shown, it accound to be unsatisfactory until the Conductor was hid convents with the in twas in the yeard to be the or the last is was here in the weard to the parene who held it; and then it ap-mered to me the here the was in a such as a partice."

Conductor was half convinced that it was in fa-vor of the person who held it, and then it, ap-peared to me that he let the man go, rather from the wain of time to contact full the stand-form a conviction of his thenesty.
